The Lunatic Poor (12,637) were distributed as follows:—

|  |         | per cent. |
|--|---------|-----------|
| In Asylums and Institutions for Imbeciles, . . . . . | 8918 or | 70·57     |

Of the 99,578 poor persons relieved, 65,000 were Paupers (or separate individuals), and 34,578 were their Dependants.

A classification of the 65,000 separate individuals (Paupers) relieved shows that on 15th May last the Sane Poor numbered 52,363 or 80·56 per cent., and the Lunatic Poor 12,637 or 19·44 per cent.

Classifying the Sane Poor according to age it is found that of individuals relieved—

22,242 or 42·48 per cent. were 65 years of age and upwards, 5,800 or 11·07 per cent. were children, and 24,321 or 46·45 per cent. were between the ages of (say) 14 and 65.

Of the 5800 Children relieved at 15th May,

2861 were orphans,
1231 were deserted children, and 1708 were separated from their parents.

It is found that 4992 or 86·07 per cent. of these Children were boarded out,—1806 or 31·14 per cent. being placed with relatives, and 3186 or 54·93 per cent. being under the care of strangers.

Eleven per cent. of the Paupers chargeable to Scotland were natives of England and Ireland, the total of that class at 15th May being 11,245, of whom 9982 were born in Ireland.

* Prior to 1896, 14th May.

It will be observed that during the past year there has been a net increase of Pauperism of 75, the number of Paupers having increased by 354, whereas the Dependants have decreased by 279. Allowing, however, for the estimated increase of population, there has been no increase of Pauperism per thousand of population.

Compared with 1868, the year of highest recorded Pauperism, the number of Poor per thousand of population has fallen from 41 to 24—a decrease of 17 per thousand of the population.

The following Table exhibits the results obtained from Returns of the number of Poor relieved on the 15th of January, the 15th of May, and the 15th of September, during each of the last ten years :—

This Table shows that there has been a decrease of 280 Ordinary Paupers and an increase of 355 Lunatic Paupers in 1897-98 compared with the previous year.

It is seen that since 1868 the Ordinary Poor have decreased from 130,441 to 86,941—a diminution from 40 per thousand to 21 per thousand of the estimated populations in these years,—that is, taking the increase of population into account there has been a relative decrease in the Ordinary Poor of nearly 48 per cent.

During the same period the number of Lunatic Poor has increased from 5,790 to 12,637, an increase from 1·8 to 3·0 per thousand of the estimated population, or allowing for the increased population 69 per cent.

The Table also shows that the ratio of Lunatic Poor to the Poor of all classes has trebled since 1868, having risen from 42 per thousand to 127 per thousand.

Church Collections.
App. (B.)
No. 8.

The whole sum derived from Church Collections in Assessed Parishes during the year ended 15th May 1898, as returned to us, was £45,313, of which £7,135 is stated to have been expended on Relief of the Poor. Of this sum £3 was handed over to Parish Council to be expended. It would appear, therefore, that the sum of £7,132 derived from Church Collections was actually applied by the Kirk-Sessions to the relief of persons in their respective parishes who required assistance. But these funds are generally employed to afford aid to persons who have fallen into temporary difficulties, with a view to prevent them from becoming chargeable to the parish as paupers; and it is probable that few of the persons so assisted have also been chargeable to the funds raised by assessment.

† The difference between Owners' and Occupiers' Assessable Rental is due to deductions to occupiers of agricultural subjects under the Agricultural Rates, &c. (Scotland) Act, 1896.

Of the £300,938 of Bonded Loans outstanding at 15th May last, it would appear that £292,669 had been incurred for the erection or enlargement of Poorhouse Buildings, and formed a Debt on the security of the Rates.

IV. MISCELLANEOUS.

The number of Parishes having Poorhouses, either singly or in combination, is 481, with an aggregate population of 3,240,754 according to the census of 1891. There are 65 Poorhouses at present in operation, the accommodation in which is sufficient for 15,133 inmates. The population of the Parishes that possess a right, in terms of the 65th section of the Act of 1845, to send paupers to the Poorhouses belonging to other Parishes is 732,940. The total population of the Parishes to which Poorhouse accommodation is thus at present available amounts to 3,973,694. The total population of the Parishes to which Poorhouse accommodation is still not available is 51,953. The Tables showing the number of Poorhouses in operation, and the Parishes forming the various Poorhouse Combinations in Scotland, are printed in the Appendix. These Tables indicate the number of inmates of Poorhouses as at 1st January and 1st July 1898; the number who were receiving indoor relief during the half-years ended 31st December 1897 and 30th June 1898; the number of those on the Sick-List, and of those who died as well as those who were Lunatic; and the number of Children who were at School. These Tables also exhibit the average weekly cost per head of inmates actually in the Poorhouse during the year ended 15th May 1898 for maintenance and education; and the average weekly expenditure per head of inmates for whom there is accommodation in the Poorhouse for the same period, under the following heads, viz:—Management, including salaries, wages, rations, and estimated value of lodging of officials; House Accommodation; and Medical Relief.

We have sanctioned (1) the occupation of Barony Poorhouse by a number of inmates not exceeding 1461; (2) of Lews Combination Poorhouse by 66; (3) of Glasgow Poorhouse (owing to the removal of the lunatic inmates) by 1750—being an increase of 207 on the previously sanctioned accommodation; and (4) of the new wards of Inveresk Combination Poorhouse by a number of inmates not exceeding 24—the total accommodation to be sanctioned for this last poorhouse being still under consideration by the Board.

We have approved and signed plans of alterations on, or additions to, the poorhouses of Arbroath and St. Vigeans, Govan Combination, Hawick Combination, Paisley, Edinburgh (Craiglockhart), and Morayshire Combination.

Modifica-
Poorhouse Rules.

In Greenock Poorhouse we sanctioned a modification of Rule XL. of the Rules for the Management of Poorhouses, whereby inmates suffering from venereal or other contagious diseases may be required to give 48 or 72 hours' notice before they shall be entitled to leave the poorhouse.

Dietaries
houses.

In consequence of representations which had been made, the subject of the dietaries prescribed in Rule LXVII. of the Rules for Poorhouses was carefully reconsidered by us. As the result of our deliberations we issued to all poorhouses a revised scale of dietary to be substituted, where considered advisable, for the scale hitherto in use. A copy of the new scale, with the Circular-letter transmitting it, will be found in the Appendix. Up to the present time the majority of poorhouses have made no change in their sanctioned scale, but a few have adopted the new scale, either in its entirety or after modification. In those cases where the scale was modified our sanction was obtained before adoption. We have also, for various poorhouses, approved alterations in the dietaries already in use in these poorhouses.

App. (A.)
No. 5.

We sanctioned the purchase by the parish of Haddington of three additional shares in the Poorhouse of Inveresk Combination.

The number of applicants who were refused relief by Parish Councils during the year was 2,722. The number of applicants for Parochial aid who were offered relief in the Poorhouse only, who declined to accept that offer, and who thus did not become chargeable to the Poor's funds, was 5,888. Refusals.

The number of applications complaining of Inadequate Relief before us from 1st January to 31st December 1898 was 131. Complaints

The number of appeals under the Poor Law (Scotland) Act, 1898, against removal from one parish to another in Scotland, received and considered by us from 1st October—when the Act came into force—to 31st December 1898, was 15.

Arbitration in a case of disputed

During the period from 1st October to 31st December 1898 no appeal was received by us under Section 5 of the Poor Law (Scotland) Act, 1898, against removal to England or Ireland.

During the same period we arbitrated in one case of disputed settlement, under the powers conferred on us by Section 2 of the Act. Several parishes also wrote requesting our opinion on questions of settlement, but as the terms of Section 2 had not been complied with, and as we might afterwards have been called upon to adjudicate upon the cases as required by that Section, we were obliged to decline to express any opinion upon the questions submitted.

Poor Law.

App. (B.)
No. 7.

The number of Paupers who died during the year was 6,824, and Deaths. Dependants 732.

At your Lordship's request we have examined the claims by Parish Councils to participate in the contributions of £20,000 in respect of Poor Law Medical Relief and Trained Sick Nursing in Poorhouses, and of £115,500 for maintenance of Pauper Lunatics, with a view of certifying the amounts to be distributed under Section 22 (4 and 5) of the Local Government (Scotland) Act of 1889 and Section 2 (3) of the Education and Local Taxation Account (Scotland) Act, 1892.

The number of Parishes which have this year resolved to comply with the conditions annexed to participation in the Medical Relief Grant is 802. Of these, three failed to establish a claim, the expenditure on Medical Relief not having amounted to the fixed minimum. Last year 798 Parishes established their claims; this year 799. The detailed account of the distribution, showing the amount expended on Medical Relief to the poor in each Parish for which vouchers have been produced and the sum apportioned to it from the Grant, will be found in the Appendix, the total amount distributed being £19,978 8s. 10d., including £2,511 9s. 10d. in respect of Trained Sick Nursing in Poorhouses. The Grant was distributed at the rate of 7s. 9d. per £ of vouched expenditure.

App. (B.)
No. 11.

The whole sum expended on Medical Relief to the Poor in all Parishes in Scotland, whether participating in the Grant or not, during the year ending 15th May 1898, according to the annual returns of the Inspectors, was £52,631, which is equal to 3½d. per head of the population of Scotland in 1891, and 10s. 6½d. per head of persons on the roll at 15th May last.

A detailed account of the distribution of the Grant in aid of the Cost of Maintenance of Pauper Lunatics will be found in the Appendix, showing the Parishes participating, the total cost of maintenance, the cost of maintenance in accordance with the scheme of participation, and the amount due to each Parish from the Grant. The Grant was distributed at the rate of 10s. 0½d. per £ of admissible expenditure.

Returns of legal proceedings under the Statute in the Sheriff Courts have again been furnished to us by the courtesy of the Sheriffs-Substitute, and an abstract is inserted in the Appendix.

Applications to Sheriffs.
App. (B.)
No. 1.

The total number of applications to Sheriffs on the ground that relief had been improperly refused, as returned by the Sheriffs-Substitute, was during the past year 387. These numbers, however, fall short of the actual number of applications, as in several Sheriff Courts no complete record is kept of them. The number of applications in which Sheriffs felt called upon to grant interim orders of relief during the past year was, as stated to us by them, 204. The number of applicants admitted to the roll of paupers by final order of the Sheriffs during the past year was 11.

The number of prosecutions under the 79th and 80th sections of the Statute during the past year has been 157, and of convictions 81.

Assessments.
App. (B.)
No. 21.

The number of Parishes and Combinations now assessed is 872, and the number still raising the funds by voluntary contributions is 5.

In 788 of the Assessed Parishes the assessment is raised in terms of Section 34 of the Poor Law Act, 1845, and the Agricultural Rates (Scotland) Act, 1896, and in 84 there is a certified classification of occupants under Sections 36 of the Poor Law Act and 1 of the Agricultural Rates Act.

Many questions relating to Poor Law Administration have been submitted to us during the year.

Exemption of Voluntary Schools from Assessment.

In view of the Education (Scotland) Act, 1897, a question was addressed to us as to the right of a Parish Council to exempt Voluntary schools from assessment for the whole year. We replied that, as the Act came into force within the year to which the assessment applied, in our opinion the Parish Council were not entitled to rate the exempted subjects.

Legality of a Parish Council contributing to an Ambulance Association.

Our opinion was asked as to the legality of a Parish Council granting a donation to an ambulance association kept up by voluntary subscriptions; we stated that we had considerable doubt as to the legality or expediency of such a donation, especially as the Parish Council paid hire when they used the waggon, and as there was special provision by which a Local Authority could obtain and keep up (or combine with other Local Authorities to obtain and keep up) ambulance waggons.

Admission of frail old woman and disabled son, with means, to Poorhouse.

We were asked by a Parish Council—more particularly in view of the resolution of the Board of Supervision printed in their Thirty-sixth Annual Report (1881), page viii.—whether they could admit, as paying boarders, to the poorhouse, a frail woman of eighty-two who was possessed of nearly £140, along with her son, stated to be incapacitated by the want of a leg. We replied that if the persons concerned divested themselves of their funds in favour of the Parish Council and thus became destitute, there was no reason why they should not be accommodated in the poorhouse; but we added that a careful account should be kept of the expenditure of the sum conveyed to the Council.

Poor Law.

In connection with proposed legislation regarding habitual and petty offenders, we were asked to support a representation which the Parish Council of Barony (Glasgow) had made to your Lordship, as Secretary for Scotland, in regard to the hardship to the parish caused by its having to give relief to petty offenders on liberation from Barlinnie Prison—in many cases after but a few days' imprisonment. We pointed out to your Lordship that, if the difficulty described could, as was suggested, be met by legislation regarding habitual offenders, we were of opinion that this would be a desirable result, as it would be no more than fair to Barony and other parishes similarly situated, and would possibly relieve the poorhouses of a class of the community for whom this mode of relief is not adapted.

Hardship to Parishes in which Prisons are situated, through their having to deal with offenders on liberation from prison.

During the year a correspondence took place in regard to the co-operation of the police with Inspectors of Poor in cases of accident, or destitute persons unattended, and requiring immediate assistance. In consequence of a representation made by the Parish Council concerned to the standing Joint Committee of the County Council, the Chief Constable for the county issued a general order to the police on the subject. On the receipt of a copy of this order from the Clerk to the Parish Council, we wrote to that official expressing our satisfaction with the order, and adding that we trusted that the Parish Council would not hesitate to refund any reasonable expense which might be incurred when the police, with a view to saving life, conveyed to the poorhouse or other place of refuge a person who was a proper object of parochial relief.

Co-operation of Police with Inspectors of Poor in cases of accident, or destitute persons unattended, and requiring immediate assistance.

In the autumn of 1897, during an epidemic of infectious disease in the parish of South Uist, our attention was directed to the death of a pauper named Mary M'Innes, under circumstances which rendered it clearly imperative that an inquiry should be held. We therefore, in November, appointed Sheriff Campbell, Stornoway, our Commissioner, "to enquire into the conduct of the Parish Council and officials in the recent outbreak of infectious disease in South Uist." Sheriff Campbell held an exhaustive enquiry on the spot, the result of which showed that while the conduct of the Medical Officer under the Parish Council who attended the case was praiseworthy in the extreme, that of the Inspector of Poor and members of the Council could not be held to be blameless. We accordingly wrote in the beginning of the year to the Inspector severely censuring him; to the Chairman of the Parish Council stating that we could not absolve him or the members of the Council from neglect of duty; and to the Medical Officer expressing our high appreciation of his conduct in the case. In regard to the Inspector, we felt difficulty in allowing him to retain his office. On representations, however, by the Parish Council, we were willing to consider the great extent of the parish and the onerous nature of the Inspector's duties as some little excuse for his dereliction of duty; and, as the Council agreed to appoint an Assistant Inspector, we consented not to insist on dismissal, in the hope that the Inspector's future conduct would justify our leniency. Sheriff Campbell's summary of his report furnished to the Board will be found in the Appendix. In it it will be noticed that reference is also made to the conduct of the relatives and neighbours of the unfortunate pauper; and the Board would only express the hope that the callousness and inhumanity there disclosed are not usually to be met with on occasions like the one under discussion.

A reference to this enquiry will also be found in the Public Health portion of our Report infra.

We issued, at the request of the Secretary for Scotland, a Circular-letter to all Inspectors of Poor and Governors of Poor-houses directing the attention of these officials to their responsibilities and duties under the Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1894 (v. Appendix).

Communications have from time to time been received by the Board calling attention to the expense to which Parish Councils are frequently put when Procurators-Fiscal take proceedings under the Lunacy (Scotland) Act, 1862. As the result of representations which we made to the Crown authorities, the Lord-Advocate issued a Circular on the subject to Procurators-Fiscal throughout Scotland, which it is hoped will have the effect of removing any ground for complaint. A copy of the Lord Advocate's instructions, which will be found in the Appendix, was transmitted by us to all Inspectors of Poor.

During the year now closed an Act was passed (61 and 62 Vic. cap. 21), entitled "An Act to further amend the Law relating to the Settlement and Removal of the Poor in Scotland." Section 7 of the Act provides as follows:—

"The Board may make, and from time to time may alter and vary, rules and regulations for giving effect to the provisions of this Act, and regulating the procedure thereunder; and a copy of such rules and regulations, certified by the Secretary of the Board, shall be evidence of such rules and regulations and alterations thereof in any court of law and for any purpose whatever."

In accordance, therefore, with our powers under this Section we framed:—

1. Regulations for giving effect to the provisions of the Act.
2. Forms of appeal against, and intimation of, a proposed removal of a pauper; and
3. Amended forms of petition to the Sheriff for removal of a pauper to England or Ireland.

Copies of these will be found in the Appendix.

We have investigated ten allegations of a more or less serious nature against Inspectors of Poor, and we have been under the necessity of dismissing three Inspectors as unfit for the office. In four instances we considered that it would be sufficient if we simply censured or admonished the officer against whom the complaint was made; two Inspectors we allowed to resign; and we had the satisfaction in one case of finding the charge unfounded. Poor Law.

During the past year we have been called upon to investigate two charges against Medical Officers. We had the satisfaction of finding the charges unfounded in both cases. Complaints against Medical Officers.

AUDIT.

Since the date of our last Report the second Audit of Parish Council Accounts has been completed; and the third Audit, which has been in progress since May last, has been carried through in all the parishes, and in all the poorhouses with the exception of Dumbarton Combination Poorhouse. Audit.

Twenty Interim Reports involving twenty-nine payments, have been submitted to us during the past year. Twenty-six of these payments were reported on as being illegal in the opinion of the Auditor. In seventeen cases the opinion of the Auditor was upheld and the payments were decided to be illegal by the Board; in eight cases they were held to be legal in the circumstances and passed in the accounts; and one case, which was reported very late in the year, is not yet ripe for decision. Of the seventeen illegal payments, three were surcharged upon the persons making them; in the remainder the Board exercised their power of abstaining from surcharge, but warned the Parish Councils that if any similar expenditure appeared in the accounts in future they would have no alternative but to enforce a surcharge. Interim Reports.

Two sums were reported on, which, in the Auditor's opinion, ought to have been, but had not been, brought into account. In one case the Board agreed with the Auditor and allowed the sum in the accounts; in the other they determined that the sum ought not to be brought into account.

A question having arisen as to the course to be adopted by the Clerk of the Parish Council in preparing the Abstract of Accounts, we issued a Circular on the subject, and at the same time we intimated certain payments which, during the progress of the second Audit of Accounts, had been held by the Board to be illegal. A copy of the Circular is printed in the Appendix. Abstract of Accounts.

Several enquiries having been received concerning the manner in which the grants under the Agricultural Rates Act, 1896, should be dealt with in the Abstract, and also regarding the Assessable Rental to be shown in the Abstract, we issued instructions which will be found in the Appendix. App. (A.) No. 10.

We also print in the Appendix a copy of the Circular issued by the Secretary for Scotland as to the method in which Parochial Assessments should be levied, having regard to the Agricultural Rates (Scotland) Act, 1896. App. (A.) No. 11.

The enquiries addressed to us in connection with the Audit have been numerous, and we have rendered all the assistance in our power to Parish Councils and their officers as well as to Auditors. App. (A.) No. 37.

The scale of fees for Auditors which we issued in April 1897 has had the effect of almost entirely putting an end to the applications to us to determine what shall be the proper fee in cases where the Auditors' Fees.

Audit.

Parish Council and the Auditor fail to agree. In connection with the 1895-96 Audit our intervention was sought in 273 cases; while in connection with that of 1896-97 there were only five cases in which we had to determine.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

Local Government.

Our duties in connection with the execution of the Local Government Act of 1894 have during the past year engaged a large share of our attention, and, as the election of Parish Councilors took place during the year, the number of questions regarding procedure and administration which have been submitted to us has been greater than usual.

Allotments.

In pursuance of the provisions of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894, with regard to allotments, we have had occasion during the year to confirm two Orders for taking land on lease compulsorily for allotments. These Orders were made by the County Council of Caithness, and were applicable to the parishes of Canisbay and Halkirk respectively. In neither instance was a memorial presented to us. Before confirming the orders, we in each case satisfied ourselves by inquiry that the provisions of the Statute had been complied with.

In one instance an appeal was taken to us by a Parish Council against the refusal of a County Council to make an order for the compulsory taking of land on lease for allotments. The appeal was, however, withdrawn, and it became unnecessary for us to take any action.

Parish Trusts.

We have not had occasion during the year to exercise in any instance our duty under Section 30 of the Local Government Act, 1894, in approving the number of representatives from Parish Councils in the management of trusts coming under that Section, and there has been a very marked diminution in the number of cases in which our opinion has been applied for regarding the powers and duties of Parish Councils in connection with such trusts. We have no means of knowing how far the provisions of the Act as to Parish Trusts have been taken advantage of without the necessity of appeal to the Board.

In one case the trustees of a fund which had been bequeathed for the benefit of natives of a parish contended that Section 30 did not apply, that Section being applicable only to trusts for the benefit of the inhabitants of a parish. In view of the position taken by the trustees we intimated to the Parish Council (who desired to be represented in the management of the trust) that we did not think the terms of the will were such as to justify us in holding that the bequest fell under Section 30.

Burial Grounds.

We continue to receive a large number of communications respecting the rights and duties of Parish Councils in connection with burial-grounds. From these it appears that the authority given by Section 30 (6) of the Local Government Act, 1894, to transfer churchyards from the heritors to the Parish Council is being made use of in a considerable number of parishes. A question having arisen as to the proper procedure in such cases, we explained that we had no authority to determine what is requisite for the legal transfer of a churchyard under that Section, but that it appeared to us that the minutes of the two bodies might be sufficient. If it should afterwards be found necessary, a formal conveyance might be taken; and we suggested that possibly it might be advisable for the Parish Council to obtain from the heritors an undertaking to execute a conveyance should such be required.

We have had occasion to remind Parish Councils that their powers with regard to churchyards transferred to them from the heritors do not extend beyond the powers which the heritors themselves possessed, and that the most advisable course is for them to follow the practice of the heritors. We gave it as our opinion that the Parish Council are not entitled to sell lairs in a churchyard so transferred—as they are entitled to do in the case of burial-grounds provided under the Burial Grounds Act, 1855—every parishioner being entitled to burial in the parish churchyard (so far as there is accommodation) without payment for the ground.

Our opinion was asked in a case where a Parish Council had made an addition to a cemetery provided for the parish under the Burial Grounds Act, and application had been made by the Roman Catholic section of the inhabitants to have one-fourth of the additional ground reserved for their exclusive use, they paying, not for the whole ground at the time of such reservation, but from time to time for each lair as it was required. The view we took was that the Parish Council are not entitled to come under such an obligation. Apart from the power conferred by the Burial Grounds Acts to sell the exclusive right of burial in terms of the statutory provisions, it does not appear that the Parish Council are entitled to alienate any portion of the burial-ground. The Parish Council have, under Section 17 of the Burial Grounds Act, 1855, wide powers in regard to the management and regulation of the burial-ground, and in the exercise of these powers they may doubtless endeavour to meet as far as they reasonably can the wishes of a particular section of the community; but it is their duty to exercise care that the rights of the general body of the inhabitants and the interests of the ratepayers are not prejudiced.

We were asked if the expenses incurred by members of a Parish Council in attending meetings of the Council at the burial-ground—the meetings being held there mainly for the purpose of inspection of the ground—could be charged against the Burial Ground Fund. We replied that it is not admissible to pay out of the rates the expenses of Parish Councillors travelling to or from meetings of the Council, and that it would be our duty to act on this opinion in any case which may be reported to us by the auditor of the Parish Council accounts. We explained, however, that in the event of a sub-committee or of individual members of a Parish Council being deputed to undertake some special work, as, e.g., the inspection of a burial-ground, their travelling expenses—that is, the expenses of locomotion—may competently be defrayed out of the Parish Council funds as being incidental to the performance by the Council of its duties, and as probably saving the cost of having the same work done by professional persons.

Local Government.Special Lighting and
Districts.

We have during the year received intimation of the formation of a number of Special Lighting and Scavenging Districts in terms of Section 44 of the Local Government Act, 1894; and, in terms of Schedule IV. of that Act, we have given our consent to Bye-laws for a Special Scavenging District.

An appeal to the Sheriff against a resolution to form a Special District under Section 44 of the 1894 Act is now provided by Section 38 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897. In the case of a resolution to which the consent of the County Council is required in terms of Sub-section 3 of Section 44, the appeal is not competent unless the resolution has been disposed of by the County Council. Some difficulty has arisen as to the advertising of these resolutions. Section 44 (2) of the Local Government Act, 1894, requires that every resolution of a District Committee for the formation of a Special District shall be forthwith published in the newspapers. There is no provision for publishing the consent of the County Council in cases where that consent is required under Sub-Section 3. The Public Health Act provides that an appeal to the Sheriff is only competent within twenty-one days after the date of the first publication of the resolution. After careful consideration of the enactments of the two Statutes, we arrived at the opinion that in cases where the consent of the County Council is required under Section 44 (3) of the Local Government Act, 1894, two advertisements are necessary—one after the District Committee dispose of the requisition, and another after the County Council have dealt with it. It is obvious that in such cases the appeal to the Sheriff given by the Public Health Act would be excluded if it were necessary that it should be taken within twenty-one days of the publication of the resolution of the District Committee.

Sales of Parish Property.

We received during the year fourteen applications for our consent to the alienation of property vested in Parish Councils. In thirteen cases we were able to give consent; but in the other case we were not satisfied that the Parish Council in disposing of the property were acting in the best interests of the parish, and accordingly we asked them to reconsider the matter, which they agreed to do.

We are frequently asked in such cases to mark our consent to the sale on the deed of transfer. In one case where our consent was thus inscribed, we were informed that the Keeper of the Register of Sasines had refused to record the Disposition on the ground that the Inland Revenue authorities considered that our minute of consent ought to have been written on a sixpenny stamp. We were not prepared to adopt this view, and we suggested to the Inland Revenue authorities that the question should be referred to the Law Officers of the Crown, the two Departments agreeing to accept their decision. It was unnecessary, however, to adopt this course, the Board of Inland Revenue having subsequently intimated that they did not propose to press the matter further.

Loans.

We have had under consideration nine applications for loans under the provisions of Section 28 (1) of the Local Government Act, 1894. Three of these were for the purpose of repairing public ways in terms of the powers conferred on Parish Councils by Section 29; two were for the erection of buildings under Section 24; and the remaining four for the improvement of grounds for public recreation under the same Section. In every case we gave our consent for the amount asked for, after having satisfied ourselves by enquiry that the purposes for which the loans were desired were covered by the terms of the Statute, and were of such a nature as to justify the cost being spread over a term of years.

The fact that the powers given by Part IV. of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894, in regard to providing and borrowing for offices are, in parishes partly landward and partly burghal, limited to Landward Committees has given rise to some difficulty, the Parish Councils of such parishes having no authority to borrow for such a purpose. A belief existed that it was competent for the Parish Council to borrow to meet the expense of building offices, etc., provided that they did not hypothecate the rates. This belief received support from opinions expressed by our predecessors, the Board of Supervision, as well as from opinions of counsel. Our advice was asked as to the competency of such action, and we deemed the question of such importance that we submitted it for the opinion of the Law Officers of the Crown. We were advised that the Parish Council of a parish partly landward and partly burghal borrowing money for the erection of offices, either on the security of the building or otherwise, would be liable to be interdicted by any ratepayer, there being no statutory authority for such borrowing or for applying the rates to the payment of the interest on the bond.

In connection with the powers which are conferred on Parish Councils and Landward Committees by Section 24 of the Local Government Act, 1894, our opinion was asked in a case where a neighbouring proprietor had expressed his willingness to grant the use of a small field for recreation purposes on condition that the management and control should be in the hands of the Parish Council. The field was situated in the landward part of the parish, but would be used chiefly by the inhabitants of the burgh. We pointed out that the only authority for accepting and holding a gift of this nature appeared to be Section 24 of the Local Government Act, 1894, and that in a parish partly landward and partly burghal the powers of that Section were exercised by the Landward Committee to the exclusion of the Parish Council. It appeared to us, however, that the fact that the field would be mainly used by the inhabitants of the burgh would not preclude the Landward Committee from undertaking its control and management, provided that its use was not restricted to the inhabitants of the burgh.

To an enquiry whether the Parish Council were entitled to take over the management and make regulations for the preservation of the greens or commonities of a village in the parish, we replied that there was no provision in the Act giving that authority, and indicated that the best course probably was to have the rights of the proprietors in these greens or commonities transferred to the Parish Council in terms of Section 24 (1) (d) of the Local Government Act, 1894, in which event the Parish Council would be entitled to regulate the use of these places subject to any existing rights.

Landward Committee not empowered to
Posts.

It would appear that some misconception exists among Landward Committees as to the power given by Section 42 (4) of the Local Government Act, 1894, with regard to the erection of guide posts and direction notices on rights of way, and we had occasion more than once during the year to explain that the powers given under that Section do not extend to Landward Committees. If, however, a guide post or notice board is gifted to a Landward Committee, that body would have power to accept and maintain the same under the provisions of Section 24 (1) (d) and (e).

Our attention was also directed to a case in which a Landward Committee was in the belief that they were entitled to repair private roads within their district, and we pointed out that the powers of maintenance and repair given by Section 29 are applicable only to "public ways" as defined in that Section.

Fire-Engines.

We have been asked more than once if a Parish Council or Landward Committee is entitled to accept a gift of a fire-engine, and to charge the Special Parish Rate with the cost of maintaining it. It appears to us that this is clearly authorised by Section 24 (1) (d) and (e) of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894. It is not clear, however, that the cost of providing fire-plugs can be paid out of the Special Parish Rate, or that that rate can be charged with the expense incurred in making use of the fire-engine to extinguish fires; and, in regard to the latter point, we suggested that the Parish Council, before charging the rates, should endeavour to recover the cost from the party in whose behalf the expense was incurred.

Application of Grant in relief of Rates to Special Parish Rate.

We were consulted by a Parish Council as to the competency of placing the Grant in relief of local rates wholly to the credit of the Special Parish Fund Account. We communicated with the Secretary for Scotland on the point, and were informed that, in his view, Section 2 (4) of the Education and Local Taxation Account (Scotland) Act, 1892, allows Parish Councils to apply their share of the Grant distributed under that Section to the relief of any local rates levied by them; but that where the parish is partly burghal the equitable course would be to apply the Grant in relief of a rate which falls upon the whole parochial area.

Orkney and Zetland Small Piers and Harbours Act.

In pursuance of our duty under Section 2 (2) of the Orkney and Zetland Small Piers and Harbours Act, 1896, we gave our consent to the formation of the island of Burray, in the South Ronaldshay District of Orkney, into a Special District under that Act for the purposes of the construction and maintenance of a pier therein.

Light Railways
Act, 1896.

Sub-section 6 of Section 16 of the Light Railways Act, 1896, provides that where a rate is levied for meeting any expenditure under that Act the demand note for the rate shall state, in a form prescribed by us, the proportion of the rate levied for that expenditure. In two cases we approved the form of demand note.

Ex officio
Justices of the Peace (Scotland) Act, 1896.

Section 40 of the Local Government Act, 1894, provides that the Chairman of a Parish Council, unless a woman or personally disqualified by any Act, shall, by virtue of his office, be a Justice of the Peace for the county in which the parish is situated. Some difference of opinion existed as to whether a Chairman who had once qualified was entitled on his re-election to the office of Chairman to continue to act as a Justice of the Peace without again taking the necessary oaths. The difficulty has now been solved by the Ex officio Justices of the Peace (Scotland) Act, 1898, which provides that "any ex officio Justice of the Peace in Scotland who has been re-elected to the office in respect of which he became a Justice of the Peace on the expiration or other determination of a previous term of office, and who has taken the oaths required by law to be taken by a Justice of the Peace, may continue to act as a Justice of the Peace without again taking such oaths."

Our attention was called to a case where the Chairman elected in 1895 had continued to hold that office during the existence of the Parish Council, and had been elected Chairman of the new Council in December 1898. He had taken the oath qualifying to act as Justice of the Peace in 1895, and again in July 1897. It was contended that as he had not qualified when he was re-elected Chairman in December 1897 the Ex officio Justices of the Peace Act did not apply. After inquiry as to the facts, we expressed the opinion that an oath was not required in such a case.

The interpretation of the provision of Section 41 of the Local Government Act, 1894, under which a Parish Councillor may, in certain circumstances, lose his seat if he fails to attend the meetings for six months, continues to give rise to differences of opinion, and we are frequently asked to advise as to its application. In one case we indicated the view that the Landward Committee are not entitled to take action under that Section; and in another case where exception was taken to the vote of a Councillor who, after having been absent for more than the statutory period, had again sat and acted, we expressed the opinion that, if no steps had been taken to declare his seat vacant, his vote could not be successfully challenged on the ground that by reason of non-attendance he had ceased to be a member of the Parish Council.

Loss of Seat
absence from Meetings.

It was reported to us by the Inspector of Poor of Moneydie that the Parish Council of that parish had become unable to act. The circumstances were these. The number of members of the Council was five, but of these one had died, another had resigned, and a third was incapacitated by illness. It was therefore impossible to constitute a meeting, and the business was at a standstill. We made inquiry into the circumstances, and as, looking to the nearness of the election, it did not appear to us to be necessary to take any steps to complete the Council, we made use of the power conferred on us by Section 18 of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894, and pronounced an Order authorising the remaining members of Council, or any two of them, to act as the Parish Council until the new Council should be elected.

Case of Parish Council being unable to act.

The election of Parish Councillors fell to take place during the past year, and was the subject of serious consideration and a considerable amount of correspondence. This being the first occasion on which the election of Parish Councillors was held along with the elections of Town and County Councillors respectively, some apprehension was entertained lest confusion and difficulty might arise. So far as the Board have been able to learn, the double elections passed over without serious difficulty, and no doubt such difficulties

Elections.

as did arise owing to the novelty of the arrangements will in future elections largely disappear as the electors and the officials become familiarised with the procedure. The Board have every reason to be satisfied with the result of the election, and feel sure that it proves that a double election of the kind is attended with less inconvenience to the public than separate elections would involve, and must mean a saving to the ratepayers.

Alterations in
and number of Councillors.

In anticipation of the election, a number of Town and County Councils proceeded to revise the wards in the parishes within their respective jurisdictions, and the number of Councillors also engaged attention. The Act provides that in landward parishes the number of Councillors is fixed by the County Council, in burghal parishes by the Town Council or Burgh Commissioners, and in mixed parishes by the two bodies jointly; in all cases subject to our approval. The number of alterations approved by us during this year was 30.

Enlarged
Committees.

In the case of the Parish of North Berwick, the number of Councillors was increased from 13 to 14, the additional member being given to the landward part of the parish. The effect of this was to raise the membership of the Landward Committee to five, and to supersede the necessity for the addition to that body which we had in 1895 provided for under the authority of Section 23 (2). We accordingly cancelled our Order under that Section.

We had also, in 1895, provided for the election of six additional members of the Landward Committee of the Parish of Barony. A request was made to us to cancel this Order, the members of the Landward Committee being desirous that that body should consist only of Parish Councillors. We satisfied ourselves by inquiry that the proposed change would not be prejudicial to the proper transaction of the Committee's business, and gave effect to the suggestion by cancelling our Order.

In one case where the Landward Committee consisted of four members, and difficulty had been experienced in carrying on the business, we pronounced an Order for the election of an additional member.

Election Procedure.

As the date of the election in burghal wards drew near, we prepared and issued to all Town Councils and Burgh Commissioners a Circular directing attention to the approaching election, pointing out the procedure which the Statute prescribed, and offering suggestions as to the method of conducting the election. A copy of this Circular will be found in the Appendix. A similar Circular was at a later date issued to County Councils.

App. (A.)
No. 16, 20.

A number of questions regarding the details of the election arrangements were addressed to us, but we felt that it was not our duty to prescribe the manner in which the double election was to be carried out, and that each Returning Officer must use his own discretion in regard to such matters.

On the question of the necessity of having two registers in use at each polling station, we stated that, in our opinion, there was no objection, either legal or practical, to the use of one register for both elections. In the interests of economy it appeared to us to be very desirable that one register should be found sufficient.

We also deemed it to be our duty to direct the attention of <sup>Local Govern-</sup> Clerks of Parish Councils to the provision of Section 10 (1) of the <sup>ment.</sup> Local Government Act, 1894, which lays on them the duty of <sup>Special Parish</sup> making up and transmitting to the Returning Officer, one week <sup>Rate De-</sup> before the nomination day, a list of parish electors who have failed <sup>faulters,</sup> to make payment of the Special Parish Rate within one year from the service of the demand note. We accordingly issued a Circular <sup>App. (A.)</sup> explaining the duty of the Clerks in this matter. <sup>No. 17.</sup>

Some Clerks appeared to be in doubt as to the application of the Section in cases where a year had not elapsed between the service of the demand note for the year 1897-98 and the date of making up the list, and we were asked if in such a case the list should contain the names of those who had failed to pay the Special Parish Rate for the preceding year—1896-97. The view which we took was that in parishes where at the date of making up the list a year had not elapsed since the service of the demand note for 1897-98, no disqualification could arise under Section 10 (1), and that it is only the rate for the year immediately preceding the election which is referred to in that Section.

Our opinion was asked on the further question if, in the event of the period of one year from the service of the demand note being completed after the date for making up the list, but prior to the election, the disqualification owing to failure to pay the rate should be given effect to. We expressed the opinion that the list, which falls to be made up one week before the nomination day, is conclusive (subject to the provision at the end of Sub-section (1) of Section 10), and that the Returning Officer has no duty to go beyond that list, or to inquire whether a disqualification has arisen at a later period.

Another question put to us was whether the disqualification from voting thus imposed would have the effect of disqualifying a person from being nominated or from signing a nomination paper. It appeared to us to be clear from Section 17 (3) that a person disqualified from voting is also disqualified from signing a nomination paper. We also thought that, while Section 10 does not expressly provide for a disqualification from being nominated, a Returning Officer would be justified in rejecting the nomination paper of a person whose name appeared in the list of those who had failed to pay the Special Parish Rate.

In reply to other inquiries, we expressed the opinion that a person <sup>Failure to pay</sup> who has failed to pay the County Consolidated Rates, and whose <sup>Consolidated</sup> name is consequently marked as prescribed in Section 28 of the <sup>Rates.</sup> Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1889, is not a parish elector.

The questions addressed to us regarding disqualifications in particular cases were very numerous, but we have no duty and no <sup>Disquali-</sup> authority to determine such questions, and in most cases we could only <sup>fication.</sup> refer to our general Circular of 16th March 1895 on the subject, which will be found in our First Annual Report, Appendix p. 53.

By Section 17 (2) of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894, <sup>Calling of</sup> the Returning Officer is required to intimate to the Clerk the <sup>Statutory</sup> persons elected as Parish Councillors, and the Clerk is required to <sup>Meeting.</sup> summon the statutory meeting, which falls to be held within ten ment. days after the first Tuesday of December. To ensure that this provision should not be overlooked, we took occasion to remind Clerks to Parish Councils and to Landward Committees of their duty to call the statutory meetings of their respective bodies. Our Circulars to them will be found in the Appendix.

App. (A.)
No. 21, 22.

In one case a Returning Officer reported that a Clerk to a Parish Council had died, rendering the office vacant, and he inquired as to his duty in the circumstances. We advised that he should himself summon the first meeting of the Parish Council.

Returns under
tices Act.

App. (A.)
No. 23.

We also called attention to the requirement of Section 25 (3) of the Elections (Scotland) (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1890, 53 and 54 Vict. cap. 55, respecting the return of expenses and relative declaration which have to be made by every candidate within twenty-eight days after the date of the election.

We had previously considered the provision in the Act of Sederunt of 8th November 1890 which requires that these returns and declarations shall be sent, in the case of Parochial Board elections, to the Inspector of Poor. It appeared to us to be necessary, looking to the terms of the Local Government Act, 1894, that this provision should be amended. We accordingly approached the Lords of Council and Session with a petition for alteration of their Act so as to bring it into conformity with the altered circumstances. The Court gave effect to the prayer of our petition, and enacted that the return and declarations referred to should be sent, in the case of Parish Council elections for a landward parish or for the landward part of a parish partly landward and partly burghal, to the County Clerk; and, in the case of Parish Council elections for a burghal parish or for the burghal part of a parish partly landward and partly burghal, or for parishes or parts of parishes co-extensive with police burghs or parts thereof, to the Clerk of the burgh within which such elections are held.

Deficiencies
Elected.

We regret to have to report that in a large number of parishes the nominations fell short of the number of persons to be elected. Burghal wards to the number of 22, and landward parishes or wards to the number of 93—in all, 115 parishes, or thirteen per cent. of the whole—showed a deficiency. It appeared that in a considerable proportion of cases the failure to elect arose out of technical defects in the preliminary proceedings—such as nomination papers not in proper form, or lodged after the statutory time, etc.

In all cases where a deficiency existed we pronounced Orders for new elections. In one case the Returning Officer reported that no valid nomination had been lodged, and that there had been no election. In nine other cases we found that the number elected did not form a quorum of the Parish Council or Landward Committee, as the case might be, and that no business could be competently transacted. We deemed it advisable in these circumstances to exercise our powers under Section 18 of the Local Government Act, 1894, and to give to those members who had been elected authority to act as the Parish Council or Landward Committee until the deficiencies were made up; and in the parish where no election had taken place we granted a like authority to certain members of the former Parish Council whose nominations to the new Council had been held to be technically defective.

Even after the new election a few cases still remain where the Parish Councils are not completed. In these cases we have intimated that we shall take no further steps to have the vacancies filled until we are assured that candidates are prepared to come forward, and we have suggested that the Town and County Councils should be approached with the view of having the number of Councillors reduced.

ment.

The position of the burgh of Glasgow as regards the Parish Council election was peculiar. By the Glasgow Corporation (General Powers) Act, 1896, Section 12, the provisions of the general Statute as to the election were to some extent superseded so far as that burgh was concerned; and it was provided that the election of Parish Councillors in the City Parish of Glasgow and in the burghal portions of the Parishes of Barony, Govan, Cathcart, and Eastwood should not take place on the same day as the municipal election, but on such other day as might be fixed by us. We accordingly proceeded to ascertain, by communication with the bodies concerned, what day would be most suitable for the election in these parishes. In the course of our inquiries a further consideration arose. It became evident that there was a prospect of the Parishes of Glasgow (City) and Barony being amalgamated prior to the election. We therefore delayed fixing the date of election for these parishes, and issued Orders fixing the dates for Govan, Cathcart, and Eastwood respectively.

Glasgow Parishes.

The Order of the Secretary for Scotland amalgamating the Parish of Barony and the City Parish of Glasgow, and constituting the new Parish of Glasgow, which was issued on 18th October, 1898, provided that the first election of Councillors for the burghal part of the new parish should take place on a day in December to be fixed by us, but not earlier than the 15th of that month. After consultation with the various parties interested, we fixed Tuesday, 20th December, as the day of election.

We were informed that in one parish a person under age had been elected to the office of Parish Councillor. We stated that, in our opinion, the claim of a minor to be registered as a voter cannot be entertained. But the minor in this case being on the roll and having been elected, the only remedy appeared to be by way of proceedings either under the Elections (Scotland) Corrupt and Illegal Practices Act, 1890, or by the Parish Council themselves to prove the disqualification, which is due to a legal incapacity, and to have the seat declared vacant.

Case of a Minor
Councillor.

We received numerous inquiries as to the proper procedure in electing the Chairman of the new Council, and as to whether the Chairman of the old Council, if again returned as a Councillor, was entitled to occupy the chair until the regular appointment was made. We pointed out that the Chairman for the previous year, having gone out of office as a Councillor on 6th December, demits office as Chairman as at that date, and is not, in our opinion, entitled to take the chair at the first meeting of the new Council unless he is called upon by the meeting to do so. The meeting may either proceed at once to appoint the Chairman for the year, or may appoint a Chairman pro tempore until the regular appointment of Chairman.

Local Government. is made. Such temporary Chairman would, in case of an equality of votes, have a casting vote.

Equality of Votes in Election of Chairman. In some parishes where the Council was composed of an even number of members, and in other cases where an even number attended the first meeting, difficulty arose owing to the Council being equally divided over the election of a Chairman. There being no statutory provision to meet such an event, we could offer no advice further than to point to the Sections of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1889, which provide that in similar cases coming under that Act the selection shall be made by lot. Two instances have been brought to our notice where repeated meetings have been held without the members being able to agree on a Chairman. We are keeping these cases under observation with the view of preventing the interests of the poor or the necessary business of the parish being prejudiced by the continued failure of the Parish Council to come to an agreement.

Re-adoption of Standing Orders. We were consulted as to the necessity for the formal adoption by the new Parish Council of the Standing Orders framed by their predecessors. The opinion we gave was to the effect that, while there seems to be no necessity for a formal adoption of existing Standing Orders by the new Parish Council—these remaining in force until altered or revoked—a resolution for the adoption of the Standing Orders could do no harm, and might have the effect of bringing their provisions under the notice of the members.

Renewal of Appointments. In reply to other inquiries, we expressed the opinion that there was no necessity for the new Parish Council confirming the appointments of the existing officials.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897. During the past year, in addition to the discharge of the greatly increased number of statutory duties under the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, we have continued to advise Local Authorities and to afford them such assistance as it was in our power to give, more especially with reference to the large number of legal questions affecting the interpretation of the Statute which has been submitted by them for our consideration.

Complaints regarding Nuisances. We have also received during the past year a large number of complaints from individuals regarding nuisances which it was alleged the Local Authorities had failed to remove. Our practice has continued to be to transmit these complaints, in the first instance, to the Local Authority for their observations, and thereafter to give such instructions as might be necessary; and we have much satisfaction in stating that, in the great majority of cases in which the complaint was ascertained to be well founded, the Local Authority, on our calling attention to it, at once took steps to remove the nuisance.

Circulars. In our last Report we drew attention to a Circular issued by us summarising the leading provisions of the Public Health Act, and during the past year we have continued from time to time to issue Circulars dealing with the separate subjects embraced in the new Public Health Code.

The first of these Circulars, issued in 1898, was one dated 3rd January, transmitting an Order containing Regulations as to Cholera, Yellow Fever, and Plague, issued by us to seaboard Local Authorities in pursuance of our powers under Part IV. of the Act. * Our previous Order had been issued in terms of the Public Health Act of 1896, which has been repealed so far as it relates to Scotland, and accordingly the new Order had the effect of merely continuing in force the Regulations already issued. A copy of this Order and the covering Circular will be found in the Appendix.

The Order provides, inter alia, that every Local Authority within whose district persons are likely to be landed from any ship coming from a foreign port shall fix some place within their jurisdiction where ships may be moored or anchored for the purposes of the Order. If no safe or suitable anchorage exists within the jurisdiction of the Local Authority, they may fix some place outwith their jurisdiction, but as near thereto as possible, provided the consent of the Local Authority having jurisdiction over the place so fixed has been obtained. In the event of such consent being refused, the question may be referred to the Board. During the past year only one case has occurred where a reference to us became necessary. The Local Authority of the Burgh of Troon resolved to fix Lamlash Bay as the anchorage for infected ships coming to Troon. The Local Authority of the Arran District refused consent, and the question thus came to be referred to us for decision. After enquiry, we determined Lamlash Bay to be the place where ships infected with Cholera, Yellow Fever, or Plague arriving at Troon should be moored or anchored for the purposes of the Order.

Fixing of Anchorage for Infected Ships.

In pursuance of our powers under Section 83 of the Act, we had also occasion to authorise, by Order, a combination of certain Local Authorities having jurisdiction in and over the waters of the Cromarty Firth, for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of Part IV. of the Act in connection with our Order and relative Regulations as to Cholera, Yellow Fever, and Plague, already referred to. A copy of this Order will be found in the Appendix.

Under Section 15 of the Act, it is necessary for the Board to approve of the form of periodical return of Births and Deaths which the Local Authority may now require from the Registrars of Births, Deaths, and Marriages, and with a view to uniformity we issued on 24th January, 1898, a suggested form of Return, which has been universally adopted throughout the country. A copy of the Return and relative Circular will be found in the Appendix.

App. (A.) No. 27.

The Sections of the Act dealing with the establishment and administration of both public and private slaughter-houses still seemed to present difficulties to Local Authorities, and, with the view of assisting and guiding them, we issued, on 28th February, a Circular to the Local Authorities of landward districts describing in detail the procedure under Sections 32, 33, and 34; we also prepared a model set of bye-laws as a guide to Local Authorities. Both the Circular and the Bye-laws will be found in the Appendix.

As to Structural Alterations during the Currency of a Licence.

In connection with proposed bye-laws regulating the structure of slaughter-house premises, a Local Authority expressed a doubt whether the Court would enforce any bye-laws which entailed upon a proprietor of such premises structural alterations during the currency of a licence. We replied that, in our opinion, structural alterations should not be required during the currency of a licence. The building should be suitable before the licence is granted, or at least a binding obligation taken to make them so within a reasonable time. A bye-law might probably legitimately make it an offence to carry on the business in premises which did not comply with certain specified requirements, and such a bye-law would be enforceable against the person carrying on the business in contravention thereof. At the same time, the making of bye-laws is permissive, not obligatory, and it is for each Local Authority to consider whether bye-laws as to structure are necessary in their district.

As to the Application of the Slaughterhouse Sections of the Act to Farmers.

Several Local Authorities in Highland rural districts sought our advice as to the effect of the Statute in the case of farmers or others not pursuing slaughtering as a business, but who slaughtered sheep occasionally for their own use, and sold a part to a neighbour. The question is one of extent, and the practice referred to is in existence all over the Highlands. We accordingly expressed the view that a farmer who kills sheep occasionally for his own table and for the accommodation of his neighbours cannot be said to be a slaughterer of cattle in the sense of the Statute. But if it appeared from the extent of the operations that he united the business of a slaughterer of cattle with his own, it might be otherwise. There will be cases where it is extremely difficult to decide, and the Local Authority must use their discretion.

In cases where it appeared that farmers were in the habit of killing on their own premises sheep and cattle for the London market, we added that the question was one of the construction of the definition of "Slaughterer of cattle or horses" as given in Section 3 of the Act, and it is for the Local Authority, in the first instance, to decide in each case. If the farmer contravenes Section 33, and the Local Authority prosecute for the penalty, it will fall to the Sheriff to decide whether the Section applies.

Procedure.

In our last Report we explained that the coming into force of the new Act entailed on us the further duty of revising the forms of procedure under the old Act, and on the 6th May, 1898, we were able to issue revised forms as promised. It appeared to us that the possession of carefully prepared forms adapted to the changes introduced by the new Act would materially lighten the labours of Local Authorities, and might probably diminish the risk of miscarriage. The forms were accordingly prepared by experienced counsel, and afterwards revised by us. A copy of the Circular and relative Forms of Procedure will be found in the Appendix.

Circular as to Disinfection.

Our next Circular was one dated 1st June, 1898, in which we drew the attention of Local Authorities to the new and comprehensive provisions dealing with disinfection. We pointed out that the Act of 1897 imposed upon Local Authorities powers and responsibilities even in this one branch of public health work greatly in advance of the requirements of the Public Health Act of 1867, foremost of these being the power to establish disinfecting stations. A copy of the Circular will be found in the Appendix.

App. (A.) No.

We had received so many letters from Local Authorities or their Officers, and from Clerks to School Boards, requesting advice as to the interpretation of Section 57 of the Act and the proper procedure in connection therewith, that we issued a Circular on 7th July, 1898, dealing with that subject. There appeared to be a general impression that the provisions of that Section applied only to the diseases specified in the Infectious Disease (Notification) Act, 1889; but we stated that, in our opinion, the Section extends to infectious diseases generally—such, for example, as measles, whooping-cough, and chicken-pox. We also advised Local Authorities to keep the School Boards within their district informed of cases which occurred in houses where there were children of school age, and recommended them to warn householders, by means of handbills, of the statutory requirements.

As a similar statutory provision had been for some years in force in Glasgow under the Glasgow Police Amendment Act, 1890, we asked that Local Authority to favour us with a brief statement of the procedure under their local Act, which we have inserted in the Appendix for the information and guidance of Local Authorities.

Similar provision in Glasgow
Local Act.

App. (A.),
No. 35.

Our last Public Health Circular issued during the year had reference to Loans to Local Authorities. The reduced rates of interest now chargeable on loans authorised by the Public Works Loan Board having led to a large increase in the number of applications for such loans, we thought it advisable to bring under the notice of Local Authorities certain considerations to be kept in view by them in applying to the Public Works Loan Board for advances for public works.

Loans to Local Authorities.

We therefore issued a Circular on 21st October, 1898, in which we urged the necessity of applying for such loans and asking our recommendation before the works are begun, or at least before any payments (which the Local Authority are not to meet out of the current assessment) have been made. It has always been the rule of the Public Works Loan Board that they will not advance money on account of works already completed and paid for out of borrowed money obtained on the security of the assessments, their reasons being that in their view it was the intention of the Legislature that the ratepayers who immediately benefit by the execution of a work should bear the burden of repayment, and pay the instalment towards the capital of the debt.

We also reminded Local Authorities of our practice of appointing engineers, architects, or surveyors of repute (according to the nature of the works) to report on the efficiency of the schemes for which loans were required, and of the obvious advantages to the Local Authorities of consulting our expert Commissioners as to the proposed schemes and benefiting by their experience and advice. A copy of the Circular will be found in the Appendix.

App. (A.),
No. 32.

We may also add that our recommendation is not confined to loans applied for under the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, but applies also to loans for sanitary purposes proposed to be incurred under the Burgh Police (Scotland) Act, 1892.

Duties of Medical Officers of Health and Sanitary Inspectors.

Another important question in connection with the administration of the Public Health Act, and which has received very considerable attention both by us and by Local Authorities throughout the country, is the regulation of the duties of Medical Officers of Health and Sanitary Inspectors, and their relations to each other. In our opinion the Act seems to imply that the initiative in this matter should be taken by the Local Authority (see Section 15 of the Act).

Draft Regulations.

App. (A.),
No. 24, 25.

Accordingly, while we did not issue model regulations for regulating the duties of Medical Officers of Health and Sanitary Inspectors as a general Circular, we prepared a set of draft regulations for the guidance of such Local Authorities as sought our advice on the matter. Copies of these will be found in the Appendix. They have been largely made use of by Local Authorities.

While many Local Authorities adopted the draft Regulations with little or no modification, others introduced modifications which we criticised so as not to interfere with the legitimate discretion of Local Authorities, but at the same time to maintain general principles of administration and secure conformity to the Public Health and other Acts. It is gratifying to be able to state that the suggestions made by us have been carefully considered and satisfactory adjustments arrived at.

In the course of these discussions we had occasion to point out that all previous Bye-laws recommended by the Board of Supervision for regulating the duties of Sanitary Officers under the Act of 1867 had been superseded, and especially that the additional Bye-laws relative to the Infectious Disease (Notification) Act, 1889, recommended in 1890, were rendered obsolete by subsequent legislation and could no longer be approved by us.

Qualifications of Medical Officers of Health.

In our First Annual Report we referred to the difficulty experienced by burghal Local Authorities in obtaining the services of a Medical Officer who had the statutory qualifications, viz., a diploma in sanitary science, public health, or State medicine. This difficulty has also been experienced by district Local Authorities. Under Section 54 of the Local Government Act of 1889 such a qualification was only necessary in the case of a county, district, or parish having a population of 30,000 or upwards; but this condition of population is not imported from the Act of 1889 and to be read into Section 15 of the Public Health Act of 1897. That Section provides that the Medical Officer must possess the qualifications set forth in Section 54, and, in our view, the word "qualifications" refers solely to the Medical Officer being a registered medical practitioner and the holder of a diploma in sanitary science, public health, or State medicine. It is evident that the intention of the Legislature was to have no exceptions to the rule as to qualifications in the case of Medical Officers subsequently appointed under the Burgh Police and Public Health Acts. In the case of the smaller burghs we favour arrangements being made for the services of the Medical Officer of the County.

Arbitrations.

During the past year there were three arbitrations, arising out of questions in connection with Public Health administration, which we were asked to undertake for Local Authorities with the view of settling their differences speedily and without the expense of Public Health litigation.

The first of these cases had reference to a submission by the Commissioners of Pulteneytown, the Parish Council of the Parish of Wick, and the Town Council of Wick as to the respective liability of these three parties to contribute to the construction of a new sewer or drain through the Burgh of Pulteneytown. After careful consideration of the views expressed by all parties interested and an inquiry on the spot, we issued, on the 27th day of August 1898, a Determination to the effect that the expenses of the diversion of the main sewer, the construction of a new main sewer, and the preparation of the plan and specification were expenses for which the Commissioners of the Burgh of Pulteneytown, as Local Authority, were alone liable; while the expense of the execution of the submission should be divided amongst the parties equally.

As to Liability for Expenses connected with construction of a Sewer.

In the second case we were asked to arbitrate between the Lochaber District Committee and the Parish Council of Arisaig as to which body was liable for the expenses incurred in removing a patient to a hospital and for his maintenance therein.

Respective Obligations of a Local Authority and Parish Council.

In our opinion the Parish Council is bound to treat cases of infectious disease occurring among paupers or proper objects of parochial relief. The Public Health Act does not relieve them of that obligation, and their liability continues.

But when a Local Authority, acting under the Public Health Act and for the protection of the public health, remove or isolate the patient, all the expenses necessarily incurred for this purpose form a charge against the Public Health assessment and cannot be recovered from any other person or body.

We understood that in the case submitted to us for arbitration no parochial relief had been applied for or granted, and that prior to the appearance of the infectious disease the patient could not be considered a proper object of relief. This was consequently a case in which the obligations to take immediate action appeared to us to have rested solely on the Local Authority.

We therefore, in terms of the submission made to us, found that the expenses incurred in removing the patient to the hospital, and for his maintenance therein, were expenses for which the Lochaber District Committee as Local Authority were alone liable, and to which the Parish Council were not bound to contribute, and we determined accordingly.

The third case dealt with the relative powers of a Local Authority, the Aird District Committee, and its sub-committee appointed under Section 14 of the Public Health Act, 1897, and of a special water and drainage sub-committee appointed under Section 81 of the Local Government Act of 1889, as amended by Section 44 of the Local Government Act of 1894.

As to Power of Sub-committees.

An interesting point was raised in connection with a set of bye-laws for regulating public conveyances submitted by a Local Authority for our statutory confirmation. The authority for the framing of such bye-laws is Section 65 of the Act, and their purpose is twofold—(1) For securing the cleanliness and sanitary condition of public conveyances plying within the district of the Local Bye-laws as to Public Conveyances.

Public Health.

Authority and (2) for preventing over-crowding in such conveyances

Application of such Bye-laws to Railway Carriages.

Among the bye-laws submitted in this particular case were two applicable to railway carriages. In the absence of a definition of the expression "public conveyances" in the Act, we had to consider whether the Legislature intended that such bye-laws should apply to railway carriages.

We intimated our opinion, as advised by the Law Officers, that railway carriages were not included in "public conveyances" under the Act.

We added that we were prepared to approve the bye-laws, so far as they applied to omnibuses and hackney or stage carriages; but the Local Authority, after reconsideration, submitted bye-laws of new which applied to "public conveyances" generally without distinction, thus leaving open the question of their applicability to railway carriages.

Interpretation of Section 39
of the Act.

A District Committee had occasion recently to consider the practical working of Section 39 of the Act in connection with the paving of private streets within a special district, and several points came up for consideration regarding which they wished to be advised by us. These were as follows:—

(a) We were asked whether, in issuing the Orders as to paving, &c., referred to in the second paragraph of the Section, it is necessary that the works should be practically and specifically described in the Order, or whether it is sufficient that the Order should be in general terms. In reply, we expressed the opinion that a general Order would not be held to be sufficient, and we cited the case of Campbell v. Magistrates of Edinburgh, November 24, 1891, 19 R. 159, under the Edinburgh Municipal Act. Section 39 seems to require a detailed specification of the works demanded by the District Committee, because the Section of the Public Health Act goes on to say that, "if such Order is not complied with, the said Authority may, if they think fit, execute the works mentioned therein," thus implying specification.

(b) To the question whether, in the exercise of their discretion, the District Committee were entitled to insist on the adoption of the granolithic form of pavement, we replied that their demands must not exceed what is reasonable; but whether granolithic pavement was reasonable or unreasonable we were not prepared to say.

(c) The District Committee believed that in practice it will be found in the majority of cases that a certain amount of expense will fall upon them which it will be impossible to recover from the respective owners, and also that provision will require to be made in many cases for disbursing monies to the contractor before the various sums are recovered from the owners, and the question arose as to what fund such unrecovered expenses and interim payments should be debited. This is a difficult question, but we are of opinion that the District Committee may assess for any balance not recovered from owners, and that the assessment must be under Section 135 of the Act, and over the whole district of the Local Authority.

(d) Then the expenses must be calculated "in proportion to the frontage and valuation," and we were asked whether we had considered on what system or principle such an allocation should be made. The intention was to reach a mean between frontage and valuation, and, although a new departure in extra-burghal rating, it is not inequitable; but, in reply, we simply stated that we were not disposed to anticipate difficulties under this head, particularly as it will fall to the Sheriff to deal with such questions when they arise.

Public Health.

Before the passing of the Public Health Act of 1897, burghs could proceed to construct water-supply works and assess for the same, either under the Public Health Act or the Burgh Police Act; but, as we pointed out in our last Report, the provision of water supply in burghs, as regards all future operations, will entirely depend on the powers conferred by the Burgh Police Act, or by local Acts obtained by burghs.

Supply of Water for Burghs. Effect of Public Health Act, 1897.

Frequent cases of difficulty have come before us in consequence of this change in the law, and in our view some of the questions can only be properly solved by further legislation. A Bill for that purpose was prepared and presented to Parliament towards the close of last Session.

Where a loan has already been obtained and water introduced under the Public Health Act, it has frequently been found necessary to apply for an additional loan for additional works, such as enlarged storage of water, improved filtration, &c., and it is obvious that, if these cannot be obtained under the Public Health Act, much confusion and difficulty will arise through the incidence of assessment being different under the two Acts—the cost of original works being assessed for under the Public Health Acts, and the cost of reconstruction or extension, in the case of burghs, under the Burgh Police Act. Section 140 of the Public Health Act, it will be observed, only gives power to borrow for “such works as are herein authorised,” and, consequently there appears to be some doubt whether there is authority in the Public Health Act for a burgh to borrow for water-supply purposes.

To cite another instance, the question was asked whether the Commissioners of a burgh had power to alter the boundaries of a Special Water Supply District within their burgh. Had Section 131 of the Act applied to burghs, there would have been no difficulty; but we informed the Local Authority that, in our view, neither the Act of 1897 nor the Burgh Police Act contains authority to alter or enlarge the boundaries of a Special Water Supply District within a burgh. It follows that the Special District within the burgh will continue to exist as at present, and it will fall to be assessed in terms of Section 134 of the Public Health Act, 1897.

With respect to a water supply for the portion of the burgh outwith the Special District, it appeared to us that the provisions of the Public Health Act are not available, and that the Commissioners can only proceed under the Burgh Police Act. Any expense will therefore form a charge against the Burgh General Assessment; but, in terms of the proviso in Section 134 of the Public Health Act, the area and ratepayers within the Special Water Supply District will be exempt from the Burgh General Assessment leviable for the water supply given to the other portions of the Public Health. burgh. The result will be that the assessment for water within the Special District will be half on owner and half on occupier, while outwith the Special District it will be wholly on the occupier.

Assessment Provisions. A great many Local Authorities sought our advice as to the effect of the assessment provisions of the Act. Of course, the special circumstances of each case had to be considered, and our replies varied accordingly; but, speaking generally, we pointed out that Sections 133, 134, and 136 of the Act provide that in burghs the Public Health Assessments, both special and general, shall be assessed, levied, and recovered in like manner as the General Improvement Rate under the Burgh Police Act.

We were also asked whether, in assessing under the Public Health Act, a Burgh Local Authority are bound to give effect to the reduced valuation provided by Section 347 of the Burgh Police Act. Our view is that, looking to the terms of the two Statutes, the provisions of Section 347 are imported, and that the value of the subjects to be assessed for Public Health purposes must be as provided in that Section.

Hospital Provision. The fact that we are now armed with compulsory powers under Section 66 of the Act has enabled us to give an impetus to hospital provision. Wherever we found that a Medical Officer of Health in his annual report had been urging hospital accommodation for his district we gave the matter special attention, and, where we thought it advisable, seconded the efforts of the Medical Officers, reminding the Local Authority of our powers under the aforesaid Section.

Influence of Hospital on surrounding Neighbourhood. In connection with this procedure some questions of general interest have been submitted by Local Authorities. Where objections had been raised that the establishment of a hospital might destroy the amenity of the surrounding neighbourhood, as well as be a danger to the public health, we expressed the opinion that there is no risk to the public in the aggregation of infected persons in a properly constructed and well-regulated hospital; whereas the same persons treated in private houses—which are, for the time being, badly contrived and ill-regulated hospitals—are inevitably a source of substantial risk even in sparsely populated districts.

Relation of Beds in Hospital to superficial Area of Site. A question was put as to the proportion of beds to superficial area, to which we replied that while it is necessary that our approval of a site should be given with reference to a hospital of known size measured by the number of beds, it is impossible to lay down an absolute rule of universal application as to the relation of beds to superficial area of site. Modern opinions as to hospital construction tend to, and so far necessitate, liberal area of all hospitals, but especially of those for infectious disease. The breaking up and distribution of the necessary structures; the removal of the mortuary, washing-house, and disinfecting apparatus to a distance from the wards; the protection of free ventilation from interference by neighbouring buildings; the interposition of free space between wards, etc., and public roads; the reservation of room for exercise of patients suffering from different diseases without necessary contact; possible extension where there is a growing population or to meet epidemics—these and the like considerations must be kept in view in determining the sufficiency of the area of a site.

Under the Public Health Act of 1867, while there was no express authority to provide nurses, we did not doubt the power of the Local Authority to engage the services of nurses whenever they deemed it necessary to do so. But their legal obligation only arose when that necessity was apparent to them; in short, when the failure to make such provision would have been a source of danger to the health of the inhabitants. Under Section 66 (1) (d) of the Act of 1897 there is no such restriction, but our consent is required to the employment of nurses to attend persons suffering from infectious disease in their own houses.

Public Health.
Employment of Nurses.

A Local Authority enquired of us whether, in every case of emergency, it was necessary to procure our sanction to the employment of a nurse. To require consent in each case would often frustrate the object in view—viz., the immediate and thorough isolation of the patient. In our view the intention of the Legislature was that it should be in our power to give a general sanction to the employment of nurses in very special local circumstances such as exist in insular or remote sparsely-peopled districts intersected by arms of the sea.

Accordingly, in one case where application was made for our consent in terms of Section 66 (1) (d) of the Act, after satisfying ourselves (1) that such employment was not intended to supersede the existing arrangement with regard to hospital provision, and (2) that the average cost for nursing had in past years been small in proportion to the cost of hospital provision, we consented to the present system of employing temporary nurses as occasion requires for cases of infectious disease, subject to the condition that we reserved to ourselves the right to recall our consent if this should be found advisable.

In two other instances in Highland districts we consented to the employment of nurses for one year only in the meantime as an experiment, and called for a report from the Medical Officer of Health on the working of the arrangement at the end of the twelve months, which have not yet expired. Should these experiments give satisfaction, we shall be prepared to consider further schemes on a larger basis, as we think that, within reasonable limits, the larger the number of Local Authorities which combine for fever nursing the less will be the difficulty in meeting demands which may suddenly arise. At the same time we cautioned the Local Authorities that our consent was not to be construed as implying that the employment of nurses was a sufficient substitute for hospital accommodation for infectious disease within the districts of the respective Local Authorities, which they might be called upon to supply under the 66th Section of the Act.

We have already referred in the Poor Law portion of this Report to the circumstances attending the death of a pauper, Widow M'Innes, which was the subject of an inquiry on our behalf by Sheriff Campbell, Stornoway. Apart from the question of Poor Law administration, the reports received, both from our Commissioner and the Sanitary officials, illustrated in a most painful manner the serious difficulties in the way of Sanitary administration in the Western Islands. In September 1897 we learned through

Infectious Disease at South Uist
and Eriskay.

Public Health. — the Sheriff-Substitute at Lochmaddy that a fever epidemic prevailed in the islands of South Uist and Eriskay, and we at once wrote to the County Medical Officer at Inverness for any information on the subject which may have been in his possession. If his information was incomplete, we advised him to pay a special visit to the district.

In reply, we were informed by Dr. Ogilvie Grant that he had already visited these islands on learning of the existence at Eriskay of an obscure disease, supposed to be influenza. From a return received from the Registrar for the registration district of Boisdale, it appeared that out of sixteen deaths in the island of Eriskay between the 17th April and the 18th June inclusive, the cause of death in fourteen cases was registered as influenza. Although the epidemic in Eriskay was thus abnormally severe and fatal, it was universally believed to be only severe cold or influenza. The people did not dread it, and they tended one another in their sickness. When, however, the infection spread to South Uist, and culminated in the untimely death of the Rev. Father Rigg, who died, under the most heroic circumstances of self-abnegation, of a fever which proved to be typhoid of a most malignant type, it was impossible, in the case of Widow M'Innes, to persuade either relatives or neighbours to perform the simplest duties to alleviate the sufferings of the fever-stricken patient.

A short account of the epidemic, by Dr. Ogilvie Grant, the County Medical Officer, will be found in the extracts from the Sanitary Officers' Reports in the Appendix.

App. (A.), p. 142.

In view of the evidence submitted to us regarding the conduct of the officials in connection with the outbreak, and in pursuance of our powers under the Act, we dismissed the local Sanitary Inspector in respect of his failure to discharge the duties of his office. At the same time we recorded our high appreciation of the services of the local Medical Officer, Dr. Lamont, who, in the case of Widow M'Innes, found himself hampered at every turn by the want of hospital provision and nurses as much as by the inhuman desertion of the patient by her relatives and neighbours.

In connection with previous outbreaks of infectious disease, we have had occasion to refer to the morbid and irrational dread of infection which unfortunately exists in many parts of the Highlands; and we pointed out in the present case that, in view of this prejudice, it was all the more incumbent upon the Local Authority to proceed without delay to make such provision as would enable them to cope with a similar state of matters if it should unfortunately recur. Had the Local Authority been in a position to isolate the first cases which occurred, there is a probability, with regard to the Eriskay outbreak in particular, that a large amount of mortality, suffering, and expense would have been avoided.

We accordingly felt it our duty to call upon the Local Authority of the South Uist district, in a letter dated 26th January, 1898, to provide, furnish, and maintain a hospital for the use of the inhabitants of their district suffering from infectious disease. Since the above date we have learned (1) that the Local Authority are taking steps to have certain buildings converted into hospitals—one for Benbecula and the other for South Uist; and (2) that during the past year the Local Authority have spent a considerable sum in providing skilled nurses obtained from Edinburgh. Public Health.

Another fever outbreak which came under our notice broke out in November 1897, in the crofting township of Sconser, situated by the seashore of Loch Sligichan, about twelve miles from Portree. The circumstances connected with this outbreak of typhus were duly reported to us from time to time by Dr. Dewar, the Medical Officer of Health, and we were satisfied that every effort was made by the Medical Officer and his staff to cope with the infection and alleviate the sufferings of those concerned. We may note in passing that in this case also there were similar difficulties to those experienced at South Uist. Fortunately there were both hospital provision and nurses, but where the patients had died at home the Sanitary Inspector, Mr. John Nicolson, had to coffin the bodies, carry the remains outside the house, and, with the assistance of the nurses, place the coffin in the cart. The Medical Officer, in reporting the details, adds that "this is only one of the many instances where the Sanitary Inspector had to bury the remains." Outbreak of Typhus Fever at Sconser, Skye.

In his final report, dated 7th April 1898 (written at our request with special reference to the origin of the outbreak), Dr. Dewar stated that in all there had been seventeen cases, of which four proved fatal.

In describing the hut where the fever broke out, Dr. Dewar reports that even at mid-day there was so little light that he was obliged to find the patients by means of match-light. The small fixed windows were grimy with dirt and smoke. For six weeks before his visit the whole family of six had been living solely on mashed potatoes and tea, partaken of three times a day. Comparing this outbreak with previous outbreaks, he found the condition and surroundings practically identical. These were—overcrowding, want of ventilation, filth, and poverty.

We continue to receive intimations from Local Authorities of the cases of smallpox occurring throughout the country, and we are glad to be able to report a further decrease in the number of cases. During the past year 28 only (23 from Burghal Local Authorities, and 5 from District Local Authorities) were intimated, as compared with 86 in 1897. Of the 28 cases, seven occurred in the Burgh of Leith, six in Arbroath, five in Edinburgh, two in Troon, and one in each of the Burghs of Glasgow, Kirkcaldy, and Saltcoats. There were also three cases notified in the Northern District of Ayr, one in the District of Perth, and one in the Middle Ward of Lanark. Smallpox.

The Annual Reports furnished to us by the Medical Officers and Sanitary Inspectors of counties continue to afford evidence of the zeal of these officers. These Reports were this year, as in previous years, carefully considered by us, and the attention of the respective Local Authorities was directed to any matter on which it appeared to us that action should be taken. We are satisfied from the answers received that the County Local Authorities in general are alive to the important nature of the duties imposed on them, and ready to give effect to the valuable recommendations in the Reports. This year we again quote a few extracts on subjects of general interest and importance. Annual Report of Sanitary Officers of Counties.

Proceedings
under Section 32.

We have approved of regulations for regulating the duties of Medical Officers and Sanitary Inspectors in the districts of 37 Local Authorities. In three of these cases the regulations applied to the Sanitary Inspector only.

During the past year we gave our sanction in four cases, in terms of Section 15 of the Act, to the removal of Sanitary Inspectors by Local Authorities. As already pointed out, we further exercised our authority by removing a Sanitary Inspector from office on account of incapacity and failure to discharge his duties.

We have approved of the forms of the periodical returning of Births and Deaths as adopted by 126 Local Authorities. These forms were framed on the model recommended by us, and printed in the Appendix.

As empowered by Section 32 (1) of the Act, we confirmed two Orders declaring certain trades to be offensive businesses within the meaning of the Section. One Order referred to the business of a gluemaker, and the other to the businesses of a glue and size manufacturer and a cat-gut maker and manufacturer.

We have been called upon to exercise our powers, under Section 32 (2) of the Act, upon two occasions by parties dissatisfied with resolutions of Local Authorities giving their sanction to the establishment of offensive businesses within their districts. In both cases we dismissed the appeal, and determined that the sanction of the Local Authority was properly given.

Under Section 32 (3) of the Act, 50 Local Authorities have framed bye-laws for regulating offensive businesses within their district. Of this number, bye-laws for regulating the business of a slaughterer of cattle were submitted by 40 Local Authorities; for the regulation of a knacker's business by four Local Authorities; for the business of a tallow melter by three Local Authorities; and for the business of a gut or tripe cleaner by three Local Authorities. These and subsequent bye-laws referred to were confirmed by us in terms of Section 185 of the Act. Most of the Slaughter-house Bye-laws were framed on the model recommended by us, and printed in the Appendix.

We have received three appeals under Section 33 (7) of the Act against the resolutions of Local Authorities granting licences for slaughter-houses. In one case we held that a licence ought to have been granted, and sustained the appeal; and in the other two cases we dismissed the appeals, and determined that the Local Authorities properly refused licences for the premises.

We have confirmed bye-laws for regulating the construction, &c., of pigstyes, submitted by 14 Local Authorities in terms of Section 35 of the Act.

In one case we have confirmed bye-laws for public conveyances adopted under Section 65 of the Act.

In terms of Section 66 (3) of the Act, we approved the sites of a hospital for the Aberdeen District of the County and the Smallpox Hospital for the Burgh of Tayport; also plans of hospital for the Burgh of North Berwick, and amended plans of the Joint Hospital for the Western District of Dumbarton and the Burgh of Dumbarton. We also approved the site and plans of the Emergency Hospital for the Burgh of Burmtisland, also of the Joint Hospitals for the County and Burgh of Elgin, and for the Bathgate District of the County of Linlithgow, and the Burghs of Bathgate, Arma-dale and Whitburn. We further approved the plans of additions and alterations at Shotts Hospital for the Middle Ward District of Lanarkshire, and at the Fever Hospital for the Burgh of Airdrie. Public Health.

In 47 cases we have confirmed bye-laws adopted by Local Authorities under Section 72 (1) of the Act for regulating houses, or parts of houses, let in lodgings or occupied by members of more than one family, such houses, or parts of houses, not being common lodging-houses in the sense of the Act. In most cases these were framed on the model of the bye-laws recommended by us, and printed in the Appendix to our Third Report. In one instance we called upon a Local Authority to make bye-laws under the aforesaid Section. Proceedings under Section 72.

In 6 cases we have confirmed bye-laws for tents and vans adopted by Local Authorities under Section 73 (2) of the Act. Proceedings under Section 73.

As empowered by Section 89 of the Act, we have approved in 35 cases of the sum payable per night, according to which it is ascertained whether a house, or part thereof, is a common lodging-house, being raised from fourpence to sixpence. Proceedings under Section 89.

We have also in 104 cases confirmed bye-laws for regulating common lodging-houses adopted by Local Authorities under Section 92 of the Act. These were in most cases similar to the bye-laws framed by us and recommended to all Local Authorities for adoption, and which were printed in the Appendix to our Third Report. Proceedings under Section 92.

In connection with three applications to the Board of Trade under Section 119 of the Act, we have been consulted by that Department as to whether their consent ought to be given to Local Authorities discharging drainage below low-water mark. Proceedings under Section 119.

In terms of Section 122 (1) of the Act, copies of resolutions as to the formation of special drainage districts were forwarded to us by 17 Local Authorities. In eight cases the Local Authorities resolved to form districts, in seven cases to enlarge existing districts, and in the other two cases the Local Authorities refused to form districts. Proceedings under Section 122.

We also received, in terms of Section 131 (1) of the Act, copies of 25 resolutions by Local Authorities regarding the formation of special water-supply districts. Of these, 15 resolved to form districts, nine to enlarge existing districts, and in one case the Local Authority refused to form a district. Proceedings under Section 131.

In terms of Section 137 of the Act, we approved of the Special Sewer Assessment within the Ballantrae Special Water Supply and Drainage District for the current year and the two succeeding years being increased, but so as not to exceed a rate of 3s. 6d. per £ in any one of these years. Proceedings under Section 137.

We have received during the year 37 applications by Local Authorities for our recommendation of loans from the Public Works Loan Board, the aggregate amount being £102,648 11s. 3d., all of which we were able to recommend. Of these applications the sum of £32,330 was for the execution of water works, £21,143 11s. 3d. for drainage works, £42,825 for the erection of hospitals, £3,500 for public baths, and £2,850 for public slaughter-houses. Loans from Public Works Loan Board. Section 142.

Public Health.

Since the passing of the Public Health (Scotland) Amendment Act, 1875 (11th August 1875), we have received 577 applications from Local Authorities for our recommendation of loans. The aggregate amount of these proposed loans is £2,011,000 1s. 3d. The total amount of loans recommended by us during the above period is £1,943,850 11s. 3d.; the amount which we have declined to recommend during the same period being thus £67,149 10s. Of the loans recommended by us, £1,286,219 was for the execution of water works, £386,741 11s. 3d. for drainage works, £52,712 for water and drainage combined, £211,828 for the erection of hospitals, £3,500 for public baths, and £2,850 for public slaughter-houses.

App. (B.),
No. 13.

We print in the Appendix a Table showing the applications which have been made and the manner in which they have been dealt with by us.

Proceedings
under Section 180.

We have confirmed bye-laws made by the Local Authority of the Burgh of Dundee under Section 180 of the Act for the removal to hospital of infected persons brought into their district by ship.

Proceedings
under Section 181.

In six cases we have confirmed bye-laws adopted by Local Authorities under Section 181 of the Act for the regulation of buildings.

Bye-laws
under Burgh Police
Act.

By Section 318 of the Burgh Police (Scotland) Act, 1892, the duty is laid upon us of confirming bye-laws made under that Act relating to sanitary matters. Nineteen applications were made to us during the year ending 31st December 1898. Seven of these related to cleansing bye-laws, five to slaughter-houses, five to the keeping of swine and other animals, while the remaining two dealt with the regulation of water supply and drainage. These we confirmed, in so far as they related to sanitary matters.

Burgh Police
Act.
Section 108.

In terms of Section 108 of the Burgh Police Act, statutory authority was given by us to the Commissioners of the Burgh of Haddington to acquire otherwise than by agreement under the provisions of the Lands Clauses Acts the piece of ground presently held by them on lease at the Tongues, near Haddington, and used as a manure dépôt for the purposes of the burgh.

Infectious Disease
(Notification)
Act. Section 7.

Two Local Authorities availed themselves of the power to extend the notification of infectious diseases not specified in the Act, viz., one adding measles to the statutory list, and the other measles and whooping-cough.

Notification Returns.

We have received for the year ending 31st December 1897, returns of infectious cases notified to 98 county and district Local Authorities and 130 burghal Local Authorities, in which the system has been introduced either under the General or Local Acts. These returns have been tabulated and printed in the Appendix.

App. (B.),
No. 14.

The total cost in Medical Practitioners' fees for notifying Infectious Disease in the burghs and districts from which returns have been received amounted in 1897 to £4,482 12s. 0d., of which Glasgow contributed £644 8s. 0d., Edinburgh £309 17s. 6d., and Aberdeen £414 17s. 0d., respectively.

VACCINATION.

An abstract of the modifications of the Vaccination Act presently in force framed by us, in pursuance of the powers conferred by the 12th Section of that Statute, and approved by the Lord Advocate, is printed in the Appendix, showing the parishes from which the applications were made, and the modifications which were granted.

Modifications.
App. (B.),
No. 20.

We print in the Appendix abstracts of returns from all parishes in Scotland, which have been made, in compliance with our Regulations, by the Vaccinators appointed under the Vaccination Act, for the half-years ended 31st December 1897 and 30th June 1898. These returns show the number of persons vaccinated successfully and unsuccessfully during the half-year, the number of cases in which certificates of insusceptibility have been granted, and the number of persons vaccinated who were not in receipt of parochial

They relate exclusively to vaccinations performed by the Vaccinators in their official capacity—i.e., cases of paupers and the children of paupers, and of those persons not paupers whom the Parish Council have authorised the Vaccinator to vaccinate; and they do not include vaccinations performed by the Vaccinators, or other medical practitioners, in the course of their private practice.

Number of Defaulters. In compliance with our Regulations, the Inspectors of Poor of every parish in Scotland furnish returns of the number of defaulters under the 18th Section of the Vaccination Act. We print in the Appendix an abstract of these returns for the year ended 30th June 1898. That abstract shows the number of defaulters, the number of persons vaccinated during the year in terms of the Section referred to, the number of prosecutions under Sections 17 and 18 respectively, and the number of such prosecutions in which penalties have been adjudged.

Superintendent's Annual Report. App. (A.), No. 36. The operation of the Central Institution for the Collection and Distribution of Vaccine Lymph in Scotland during the past year has continued to be entirely satisfactory. We print in the Appendix the Report for the past year by Dr. Husband, Superintendent of the Institution.

DEPARTMENTAL.

Appointment of Medical Member. Dr. McLintock having resigned his appointment as Medical Member of the Board at 31st August 1898, your Lordship was pleased to appoint Dr. James B. Russell to the vacant office. Dr. Russell entered on his duties on 12th October, 1898.

General Superintendents' Reports. During the year ending 31st December 1898, Mr. Barclay visited 173 parishes and conducted 18 special inquiries. He also paid 74 visits to Poorhouses, and conducted 23 special Poorhouse inquiries. Mr. Mackenzie visited 293 parishes, and conducted 38 special inquiries. Mr. Penney visited 156 parishes, and conducted 13 special inquiries. Mr. Stuart visited 221 parishes, and conducted 14 special inquiries.

App. (A.), Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4. There will be found in the Appendix the latest General Reports of our officers.

Inspecting Officers' Reports. The Inspecting Officers of the Board have reported upon the sanitary defects of many places, as their time permitted. During the above period Mr. Barclay has made 18 special reports, Mr. Mackenzie 19, Mr. Penney 10. Mr. Stuart has made 21 special reports. Our Medical Officer, Sir Henry Littlejohn, has also made 13 special reports in cases where the existence of disease or other circumstances rendered his services desirable. We have, in certain cases, transmitted copies of these officers' reports to the Local Authorities of the places reported on, and have called their attention to the defects specified.

Work of the Department. A considerable and increasing amount of labour continues to be imposed upon us in the collection, examination, and tabulation of returns from Local Authorities and Parish Councils for the information of Parliament or the Government. During the past year we have obtained and furnished Annual Returns in terms of the "Local Taxation Returns (Scotland) Act, 1881." We have also obtained, for publication in the Labour Gazette, monthly statistics of pauperism from certain parishes situated in the chief industrial centres.

In my Report for 1897, when comparing the pauperism of the district in January 1897 with January 1896, I pointed out that the rate of increase of pauperism was diminishing, and expressed a hope that this year I might have to record not only a retarded increase, but an actual decrease. Except in Lanarkshire, my hopes have been very surprisingly fulfilled ; and in the case of Lanarkshire the population is increasing so rapidly that it is impossible to calculate the exact position until we have an accurate census.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

R. B. BARCLAY,
General Superintendent.

*The Secretary,
Local Government Board.*

NO. 2.—REPORT BY GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT, SOUTHERN HIGHLAND DISTRICT, FOR THE YEAR ENDED 15th MAY 1898.

Balboughy, Perth, 15th May 1898.

Sir,—I have the honour to inform you that since the date of my last annual Report (30th June 1897) I have visited and reported on the administration of the Poor Law in 285 parishes, and conducted 37 special enquiries—131 of these visits, and 12 special inquiries, have been overtaken since 1st January 1898. Two of the inquiries remitted to me in the past year occupied me for two weeks.

Owing to the change in the district I superintend, I am unable to present complete comparative tables of pauperism at 1st January 1897 and 1898 ; but as regards the counties of Perth, Forfar, Kincardine, and Aberdeen, the total pauperism was 168 less this year than last ; while the number of persons chargeable on account of lunacy had only increased by four. As the numbers of lunatics have increased largely of late years, it is satisfactory to find such a small increase this year in this most expensive form of pauperism ; while the reduction of 168 in the total of those chargeable is approximately one per cent.

This clearly indicates to me that, generally speaking, Parish Councils are careful in administering relief.

In going through the books of nearly 300 Inspectors in the course of the year, I marvel at the general excellence of their condition. There are some that I could wish received more attention ; but in quite ninety per cent. everything is in excellent order and up to date, however unexpectedly I drop into an office.

One point, on which I venture to think legislation is urgently required, has been pretty constantly brought before me during the last three years, and this seems a fitting opportunity to bring it to your notice. I allude to persons disabled by age or infirmity who live alone, and decline to be removed to the poorhouse or any place where they could be supervised and cared for. Such cases are unable to keep themselves or their houses clean; and there is an ever-present risk of their being burnt to death by accidentally falling into the fire. Frequently they refuse to allow a nurse or caretaker to be put into their houses with them; and sometimes, even when they will, their powers of temper and language are such that no nurse will stay at any price she may be offered. Inspectors of Poor are consequently put into most difficult positions, and very frequently by paupers of this description who belong to other parishes.

Recently I heard of a case where a pauper of this description was living in a house which is to be pulled down as uninhabitable at this term. The parish of settlement refuses to pay rent (quoting the Board's recommendation on this point), so that the Inspector of the parish of residence is unable to get another house for the woman, who refuses absolutely to be removed to the parish of settlement or to the poorhouse. She is half paralysed, except in the tongue; but that little member is so active that none will go near her who can help it, and yet the Medical Officer is not able to certify her insane. She maintains that if her house is pulled down the Inspector is bound to provide her with another house, and that she will sit on her chattels at the roadside till he does. Now, what can that unfortunate man do? Her parish of settlement has declined to pay rent for her, so that if he takes a room for her he will have to pay for it out of his own pocket; and if he does not do so, and she sits at the roadside firm in her resolve not to go to the poorhouse, and dies from exposure, he is liable to be tried for her death. Such a man stands "between the devil and the deep sea"; and it appears to me that, as the law holds him responsible, the law should also afford him reasonable protection in such a case.

I think, without any undue interference with the liberty of the subject, such protection could be afforded. The subject could be safeguarded against unnecessary or vexatious removal by making it necessary for a Parish Council to obtain an order for removal to a poorhouse from the Sheriff or the Local Government Board. Such permission to remove would, of course, only be granted by either of the authorities I suggest on satisfactory evidence that the person was really unsafe where he, or she, was residing, and that no other reasonable alternative was open to the Parish Council. Fortunately, these impracticable cases are few, though they are serious when they do occur.

A good deal of misconception appears to have existed amongst Collectors and Parish Councils as to the amount of money derivable from the Agricultural Rates Act.

I attach a Table showing the pauperism of the district at 1st January 1898, and the per cent. of pauperism and population (in 1891), for the different counties.—I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

KENNETH J. MACKENZIE.

No. 3.—REPORT BY GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT, NORTHERN HIGHLAND DISTRICT, FOR THE YEAR ENDED 15TH MAY 1898.

Sir,—I have the honour to report as follows for the year ended 15th May 1898:—

During that period I reported on the administration of the Poor Law in 165 parishes, and conducted 25 special inquiries.

On 1st January 1898 the returns of pauperism throughout my district showed a slight increase as compared with those on 1st January 1897. The increase, however, was almost imperceptible and calls for no explanation.

I regret to have once more to comment on the number of women receiving relief “solely on the grounds of having illegitimate children.” On 1st January 1898 the number of such women was 111, as against 112 on 1st January 1897.

Of the 111 cases above mentioned, in no less than 92 is outdoor relief allowed. It seems impossible to convince the rural Parish Councils that, by granting such relief, they are pursuing a most short-sighted policy, and doing actual harm.

It is rare to find urban Parish Councils granting such relief. This is doubtless due to the better education of public opinion in towns, and to the consequent greater freedom of individual action on the part of the Parish Councilors.

It is also matter for regret that in many country parishes the members of Council continue to bring forward applications for relief, instead of referring them to the Inspector for inquiry in the first instance.

The periodical and systematic examination of the Cash Books kept by the Inspector and Collector is also, I find, too often neglected. It is enjoined by the Instructions issued by the Board, and often acts as a great safeguard.

In some places a monthly audit is held by the Parish Council, and this course cannot be too strongly commended. I would urge its adoption in all parishes. At present, nine-tenths of the time occupied by a Council meeting is consumed in considering applications for relief. This is, doubtless, a most important duty, but only one of many duties devolving on the Councilors.

The question of compulsory removal to the poorhouse in certain cases has attracted considerable attention of late. In outlying parishes it is often extremely difficult for the Inspector to procure proper attendance for paupers living by themselves, by reason of their temper or habits. The offer of the poorhouse is frequently refused by such people, and the Inspector is seriously embarrassed in his endeavours to do his duty.

It does not seem unreasonable to ask that power should be given to the Sheriff to order the removal to the poorhouse of paupers whose lives are endangered by their living alone, but who either refuse attendance or for whom it is well-nigh impossible to procure proper care in their own houses.

The proposed alteration of the length of time necessary to acquire a residential settlement will, I think, operate in favour of poorer parishes. These are too frequently burdened with the support of worn-out members of the community who have failed to acquire a settlement elsewhere, although they have spent all, or nearly all, their active years away from their native parish.

I am glad to be able to speak in terms of commendation of the manner in which the Inspectors throughout my district, as a body, continue to discharge their duty. They have frequently many difficulties to contend with, and hardships to encounter, which can only be realised by those who have traversed the more distant parts of the Northern Highlands. The salaries attached to their offices are often very inadequate for the work to be done, and yet it is, as a rule, satisfactorily performed. This is highly creditable to the officers concerned, and the more so when it is remembered that, in many instances, the Inspectorship is only an adjunct to their ordinary occupation, and that they cannot, therefore, devote their whole time to discharging its duties.—I have the honour to be, Sir, your most obedient servant,

W. PENNEY,

General Superintendent, Northern Highland District.

*The Secretary,
Local Government Board.*

No. 4.—REPORT BY GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT, SOUTH-EASTERN DISTRICT,
FOR THE YEAR ENDED 15TH MAY 1898.

Edinburgh, 15th May 1898.

Sir,—I have the honour to report as follows for the year ending 15th May 1898:—

Since the date of my appointment in June 1897 I have made 215 visits to parishes, and conducted 27 special inquiries by instructions from the Board, 11 of which being in connection with the administration of the Poor Law. I have also visited 49 of the 52 burghs in my district, many of them upon several occasions, and have paid 93 visits to Medical Officers and Sanitary Inspectors, reporting to the Board when considered expedient.

At the date of my appointment, 3 counties, Argyll, Bute, and Dumbarton, were transferred to my district, the counties of Fife, Clackmannan, and Kinross being taken in exchange. My district is now composed of 11 counties, with 226 parishes and 52 burghs.

The pauperism of my district, as at 1st January 1898, will be seen from the following Table:—

The total number being—

Paupers, . . . . . 13,250
Dependants, . . . . . 7,851

Total, . . . . . 21,101

Of these, 2225 are lunatics in asylums or in lunatic wards of poor-houses. I am unable to give the total amount of lunacy, as boarded-out lunatics are returned to me under the heading of Outdoor Poor.

I have for purposes of comparison given the amount of pauperism for the year 1894 when Parochial Boards were still in existence; it will be observed that pauperism has increased by 1522 since their abolition, not a large number when the increase of population is taken into account. Out of the 11 counties in my district, 3, Argyll, Berwick, and Peebles, have fewer paupers now than in 1894, the decrease being 31, 28, and 27 respectively. Edinburgh has increased by 723, and Selkirk, with only 6 parishes, has risen from 244 in 1894 to 444 in 1898, the parish of Galashiels being responsible for the increase of 200, chiefly caused by the transference of part of Melrose parish to Galashiels.

I have also given in Column 8 the ratio of indoor to outdoor poor; the county having the largest proportion of indoor poor is Edinburgh, with 1 in 2·3, while the county of Berwick has the smallest, viz., 1 in 54·7. Yet pauperism is higher in Edinburgh than in Berwickshire, the figures being—Edinburgh, 1 in 46·7; Berwickshire, 1 in 49·9. One would have expected, on the contrary, that where the poorhouse was most freely made use of pauperism would have been least. The ratio for the whole district is 1 in 4·1; in England the ratio is nearly 1 in 3.

The number of single women who were in receipt of relief on account of illegitimate children was, in 1894—68, with 125 children; in 1898—55, with 107 children, a reduction of 13 women and 18 children, which is so far satisfactory, but I find a reluctance in a good many parishes to enforce the rules in dealing with persons of this class, which the Board have laid down, the favourite excuse being the expense. An Inspector will say "It is surely much cheaper to give a woman 2s. 6d. a week than to board her in the poorhouse and have to board out her children as well" forgetting that there is a principle to be kept in view; strict dealing with such cases will act as a deterrent to others and, if relief in the poorhouse were offered to a woman after her first error, it might have the effect of preventing subsequent lapses.

There are 313 children in poorhouses; of these, 72 are orphans or deserted. I have in every case strongly urged that these should be boarded out, and am glad to say that almost without exception Parish Councils are willing that this should be done, though I regret to say that in one Highland parish where there are several children in the poorhouse the Parish Councillors "still consider the poorhouse the best place for them," notwithstanding the overwhelming evidence to the contrary disclosed by the numerous inquiries which have been held by the Board's instructions. I trust, however, that they may see their way to adopt the Board's strong recommendations on this subject, especially as the Medical Officer of the district informed me that many respectable people in the surrounding neighbourhood were most desirous of having children boarded with them.

I would venture to impress upon this Parish Council that a central authority must, from the large amount of accumulated evidence in its possession, have a wider experience than those local bodies whose point of view is sometimes narrow, often purely local, and necessarily limited, and who frequently dispose of a case after consideration of the individual circumstances alone, leaving out of sight those general principles which should always be kept in view before arriving at a decision.

It is a matter of national importance that our Poor Law should be administered with due regard to those principles which have been found by long experience to be most fitted to benefit not only the general community, but also in the long run individual paupers themselves.

I regret that there are still in my district 1475 vaccination defaulters.

Twenty-eight parishes are still without poorhouse accommodation, and 113 have not yet provided themselves with Casual Sick Houses; this is greatly to be regretted, and one is surprised that the number is so large when one reads the numerous and urgent remonstrances of the Board upon the subject. When calling attention to the want of a Casual Sick House, a common excuse is "If we had a Casual Sick House it would only bring tramps about." On being asked what becomes of the tramps at present, the reply is, "Oh, they go on to the next parish where there is a Casual Sick House." I have always pointed out how unfair this is to neighbouring parishes, who suffer merely from having fulfilled their duty by providing Casual Sick House accommodation. I earnestly look forward to the day when every parish will be obliged to have Casual Sick accommodation, and so prevent the excuse often made at present, "We are no worse than our neighbours."

I am glad to say that with very few exceptions the Inspectors in the South-Eastern District perform their responsible and often difficult duties with care and discretion, but while fully recognising that as a rule the practical administration of the Poor Law is satisfactorily performed, I have been astonished at the very small number of parishes (not more than 5 per cent., I believe) in which the Board's instructions are literally carried out. It is often difficult and irksome for an Inspector to find out the earnings of paupers' families, but however troublesome this may be, it must be done before a Parish Council can decide or a General Superintendent recommend the form of relief which should be offered to the pauper.

I am glad to notice that aliments of that objectionable description—1s. or 1s. 6d. weekly—are gradually disappearing, though there are still too many; they are in all likelihood either inadequate or unnecessary, and surely it is hardly worth while making a person a pauper for 1s. a week? I would also remind Parish Councils that these small aliments act as relief in aid of wages, and so lower the wages of non-paupers in the districts in which they are given.

I would now beg to call attention to a practice which is much too prevalent in my district. I refer to the custom of allowing the police to send tramps, in many instances quite able-bodied, to Casual Sick Houses, thereby greatly increasing the expense incurred for casual sick poor. The following case which occurred in my district may, I trust, demonstrate to Parish Councils that the remedy is entirely in their own hands. A parish in which the police had the power of sending vagrants to the Casual Sick House used annually to house about 1400. The Parish Council have now resolved that every tramp must pass through the Inspector's hands, with the result that the numbers have fallen to 55 for the last year.

Out of the 226 parishes in the South-Eastern District only 71 publish and distribute a yearly list of their paupers with their allowances. I would strongly urge that this should be done by every parish, as there is no doubt that it tends to decrease the number on the roll. If, in addition, the names of relatives legally or morally bound to support them were published, I expect the numbers would be still further reduced, by awakening to their moral responsibilities many of the paupers' relations.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

NO. 5.—CIRCULAR AS TO DIETARY IN POORHOUSES.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 2nd February 1898*

Sir,—The Board have recently been approached by several Parish Councils and Poorhouse Committees on the subject of the dietaries prescribed in Rule LXVII. of the Rules for Poorhouses, and, having regard (a) to the changes in the food of the general population which have occurred since the scale was originally framed, and (b) to the emergence of a new class for which provision is required, they decided to obtain expert opinion on the whole question. The Board are advised that few alterations are necessary, but some inconsiderable additions and modifications are recommended.

A new scale has therefore been framed, to be substituted, where the House Committee shall so determine, for the scale at present in use with the sanction of the Board.

I am, however, to point out that, with the object of simplifying the audit, it is desired that, wherever practicable, either the scale now suggested, and herewith enclosed, should be used without change, or that the one prescribed in the Rules should be adopted in its entirety.

You will lay this letter before an early meeting of the House Committee, and thereafter inform me of their decision.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary,

The Governor of the Poorhouse.

Supper—Skimmed milk, three-fourths pint imperial; meal, three ounces, four days in the week; and bread, four ounces (instead of porridge), the remaining three days.

Note.—To the members of Class H who prefer a tea, bread, and butter diet, to a porridge and milk one, it is recommended that the tea diet be allowed on the four mornings in which they partake of porridge and milk for supper, i.e., three breakfasts and four suppers of porridge and milk in the week, ensuring one such diet daily. It is recommended that Class H be allowed to dine earlier and to sup a little later than the ordinary inmates.

4. The meal may be either oatmeal or Indian meal, or a mixture of these two kinds. It is recommended that Indian meal be dispensed with.

5. The suet pudding shall be made with one ounce of suet to every three ounces of flour. It should be sweetened when eaten as a pudding, and unsweetened when partaken of with the meat.

6. The bread, except for Class G (Seventh Rate), may be of such sort as is generally used by the labouring population in the parish or parishes to which the poorhouse belongs.

7. The broth shall be made with two ounces of meat exclusive of bone, two ounces of barley, half-an-ounce of peas, one-and-a-half ounces of carrots, turnips, or other vegetables approved by the Medical Officer, and a due quantity of salt, for each ration of one-and-a-half pints imperial; and for other quantities in the like proportions.

8. The rice soup for Class D (Fourth Rate) and for Class H (Eighth Rate) shall be so made that for each ration for an infirm inmate there shall be four ounces of meat (which shall be left in the soup or not, as the Medical Officer shall direct, in each case); rice, one-and-a-half ounces; vegetables, two ounces; salt and pepper, the due quantity.

9. The tea for Class D (Fourth Rate) and for Class H (Eighth Rate) shall be made with—sugar, half-an-ounce; new milk, one ounce; and tea, one-eighth of an ounce for each half-pint imperial.

10. In the First, Second, and Third Rates, there may be substituted, not more than three times a week, for the broth at dinner, one-and-a-half pints imperial of pea soup, made with two ounces of whole or split peas, one-and-a-half ounces of pea flour, one ounce of vegetables, and a due proportion of salt and pepper.

11. In the Second, Third, and Fourth Rates, there may be substituted, not more than once a week, for the broth at dinner, three ounces of skimmed-milk cheese; and for the broth and meat together, four-and-a-half ounces.

12. In the Second and Fourth Rates, there may be substituted, not more than twice a week, for the broth at dinner, eight ounces of white fish; and in the Third and Fourth Rates, twelve ounces of white fish, for the broth and meat together.

13. In the First Rate, there may be substituted, not more than twice a week, for the bread and broth at dinner, one-and-a-half pounds of boiled potatoes, with three-fourths of a pint imperial of butter milk; in the Second and Fourth Rates, two pounds of boiled potatoes, with three-fourths of an imperial pint of skimmed milk; and in the Third Rate, for the bread, broth and meat together, three pounds of boiled potatoes, with one imperial pint of skimmed milk; while in the Fourth Rate, when a member of Class D is earning beef, he, or she, may be allowed eight ounces of potatoes as a substitute for the rice soup or broth.

14. The House Committee may, under the written advice of the Medical Officer or Medical Officers, and by an order entered in the minutes of their proceedings, direct the use of other articles, in other proportions than the above, whenever the scarcity of any article, the season of the year, or any circumstance affecting the sanitary condition of the inmates, shall be deemed to justify such changes; but, in any such change, there shall be no diminution of the amount of nutriment, or of the proportion of nitrogenous or azotised nutriment required by these rules, unless with the previous consent of the Local Government Board.

15. The diet for any inmate who is under medical treatment shall be such as the Medical Officer shall prescribe for him, and shall enter in a book, to be kept for that purpose, and to be called "The Medical Officer's Sick-Diet Book," which shall be submitted to the House Committee at every ordinary meeting.

DIET OF INMATES.—INTERPRETATION OF RULE LXVII.

The Circular, issued November 18th 1869, explains that the inmates are not entitled, as a matter of right, to be served with the solid meat with which the broth or rice soup is made.

The meat used in the preparation of the broth and rice soup imparts flavour and some nutriment, in the same manner as "stock," or the water in which meat has been for some time boiled. The calculation of the amount of proteids, fat, and carbohydrates, as well as the heat-producing power (calories) of all the diets, has been made on the assumption that the meat boiled in the broth or rice soup has been removed—to be ultimately consumed by the workers in the Poorhouse, who are entitled to four ounces of boiled meat at dinner. When the Medical Officer has occasion to order meat, he will probably find it more convenient to order it to be served separately, and not left in the rice soup or broth.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORT BY DRS. BELL AND LITTLEJOHN, DECEMBER 31ST 1887, ON "DIETARIES OF CHILDREN IN POORHOUSES."

We are of opinion that the time has now arrived when the Board may safely dispense with the alternative use of Indian meal, and should insist on oatmeal being used in all cases, and we beg to recommend accordingly.

Where broth is ordered, a variety should be allowed in the kind of soup. We found in several of the poorhouses that a rotation of soups was in regular use, viz. :—Broth, pea, rice, and potato soups.

As to the ration of meat which we have recommended in Classes E and F, a similar variety in the mode of cooking should be enforced.

In the course of this inquiry we were impressed with the importance (whatever the dietary employed) of the younger children being carefully watched and superintended during the time of meals.

In poorhouses of limited size, there was apparently more of a home arrangement, and the older paupers took a great interest in the children. In large establishments, on the other hand, where stricter discipline was necessary, and was maintained, there was some difficulty in insuring careful superintendence, and there was a chance of the weaker children not receiving due attention and consideration.

We take the liberty of recommending that the children at meal hours might, with advantage, be divided into groups or companies, consisting, say, of ten, and that each group should be superintended by one of the pauper inmates. If these happened not to be suitable, the nurses might discharge this duty (of short duration) without detriment to their patients.

NO. 6.—CIRCULAR AS TO PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO CHILDREN ACT, 1894.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 15th April 1898.*

Sir,—From circumstances which have recently come to the knowledge of the Board, they have reason to believe that Inspectors of Poor and Governors of Poorhouses do not always sufficiently realise their responsibilities and duties under the Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1894, and the Board have accordingly been invited by the Secretary for Scotland to advert to the following provisions of the Act.

Section 5 provides :—

1. A constable may take to a place of safety any child in respect of whom an offence under paragraph (a) of Section 2 of this Act has been committed, or in respect of whom an offence of cruelty within the meaning of this Act, or any of the offences mentioned in the Schedule to this Act has been, or there is reason to believe has been, committed.

2. A child so taken to a place of safety, and also any child under the age of sixteen years who seeks refuge in a place of safety, may there be detained until it can be brought before a court of summary jurisdiction, and that court may make such order as is mentioned in the next following Sub-section, or may cause the child to be dealt with as circumstances may admit and require until the charge made against any person in respect of any offence as aforesaid with regard to the child has been determined by the committal for trial, or conviction, or discharge of such person.

3. Where it appears to a court of summary jurisdiction or any Justice that an offence of cruelty within the meaning of this Act, or any of the offences mentioned in the Schedule to this Act, has been committed in the case of any child that is brought before such court or Justice, and that the health or safety of the child will be endangered unless an Order is made under this Sub-section, the court or Justice may, without prejudice to any other power under this Act, make such Order as circumstances require for the care and detention of the child until a reasonable time has elapsed for a charge to be made against some person for having committed the offence, and, if a charge is made against any person within that time, until the charge has been determined by the committal for trial, or conviction, or discharge of that person, and any such Order may be carried out notwithstanding that any person claims the custody of the child.

4. Boards of Guardians, and, in Scotland, Parochial Boards [Parish Councils] shall provide for the reception of children brought to a workhouse in pursuance of this Act, and where the place of safety to which a constable takes a child is a workhouse, the Master shall receive the child into the workhouse if there is suitable accommodation therein for the same, and shall detain the child until the case is determined, and any expenses incurred in respect of the child shall be deemed to be expenses incurred in the relief of the poor.

Section 26 provides that the expression "workhouse" shall also mean poorhouse.

The Board desire to point out that, in all cases where application is made under the Act, Inspectors of Poor and Governors of Poorhouses should lose no time in attending to such applications, and should at once make sure that the child, or children, on behalf of whom the application is made, are, where necessary, suitably provided for.

When application is made to the Inspector of Poor to have the child sent to the poorhouse, he will, unless there are obvious reasons why he should decline to deal with the case, immediately obtain the necessary documents and have the removal effected. When, in terms of the Act, the child is taken direct to the poorhouse without application having been first made to the Inspector of Poor, the Governor will at once take steps to obtain the necessary Medical Certificate—as would be done in the case of any other person sent to the poorhouse.

The Board trust that Inspectors of Poor and Governors of Poorhouses will carefully carry out the foregoing Instructions, and that they will at all times endeavour to act up to the spirit and intention of the Act, when application is made to them.

The Board direct a copy of this Circular to be sent to all Inspectors of Poor and Governors of Poorhouses.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

NO. 7.—CIRCULAR AS TO THE EXPENSE ENTAILED ON PARISH COUNCILS BY ACCOUNTS INCURRED TO PROCURATORS-FISCAL IN PROCEEDINGS UNDER SECTION 15 (2) OF LUNACY (SCOTLAND) ACT, 1862.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 15th April 1898.*

Sir,—The Board have from time to time received communications calling attention to the expense to which Parish Councils are frequently put when Procurators-Fiscal take proceedings under Section 15 of the Lunacy (Scotland) Act, 1862.

As a result of representations which the Board have made, I am directed to transmit herewith for the information of your Parish Council and yourself the accompanying copy of Instructions, which have been addressed by the Lord Advocate to Procurators-Fiscal throughout Scotland, and which it is hoped will have the effect of removing any ground for complaint.

The Board trust that Inspectors of Poor will always endeavour to act harmoniously with the police when action in cases of lunacy is called for.

I am further to draw your special attention to paragraph 4 of the Instructions, and to express the hope that, should occasion arise, the undertaking there mentioned will be at once given.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Inspector of Poor.

14 Circular as to Section 15 of Lunacy (Scotland) Act, 1862. [APP. (A.)]

INSTRUCTIONS TO PROCURATORS-FISCAL WITH REFERENCE TO APPLICATIONS FOR THE COMMITMENT OF DANGEROUS LUNATICS (25 & 26 VICT. CHAP.
54, SEC. 15).

Complaints have from time to time been made of the expense entailed upon Parish Councils by accounts incurred to Procurators-Fiscal in proceedings under Section 15 of the Lunacy (Scotland) Act, 1862, for which Parish Councils are liable. On the other hand it has been represented that, in the great majority of cases begun by the Procurator-Fiscal under that Section, the Inspector of Poor intervenes, and obtains the committal of the patient as an ordinary lunatic under Section 14, without any special safeguards against his imprudent release, and that, in this way, it has happened that lunatics have been discharged from confinement at the instance of Parish Councils, when, as the result showed, it would have been prudent to have retained them in confinement. The following rules should be acted upon in the future :—

1. Certain cases are brought before the Procurator-Fiscal in the form of a charge of serious crime against a person, who, on investigation, appears to be insane. Such cases are reported by the Procurator-Fiscal to the Crown Office, and Crown Counsel, instead of ordering the trial of the accused with a view to his committal as a criminal lunatic, may, in their discretion, direct that proceedings be taken under Section 15 aforesaid, for his committal as a dangerous lunatic. In such cases, where the offence is one of serious violence, or of fire-raising, it is desirable that the lunatic should be committed under Section 15, with the safeguards thereby secured, and not under Section 14, through the intervention of the Inspector of Poor ; and the Procurator-Fiscal will so represent to the Sheriff, in case the Inspector of Poor intervenes.

2. In all cases which take their origin in charges of serious crime, the investigation of the alleged offence is part of the official duty of the Procurator-Fiscal, and any expenses incurred fall to be included in the Sheriff's accounts and rendered to the Exchequer in the usual way. The Parish Council is to be made chargeable only for accounts incurred for work done after Crown Counsel's instructions have been received that the case is to be treated as one of lunacy and not of crime.

3. In other cases where lunatics are found in a state threatening danger to the lieges, or offensive to public decency, it will generally be unnecessary for the Procurator-Fiscal to take a Precognition before applying to the Sheriff for a Warrant, as the police information will be sufficient.

4. Whenever the Procurator-Fiscal is about to apply for a Warrant under Section 15 of the said Act, he shall at once give notice to the Inspector of Poor of his intention so to do, so that, if practicable, the Inspector of Poor may be present when application for the Warrant is made, and have an opportunity of making an arrangement satisfactory to the Sheriff without service or further procedure. Where the arrangement proposed is a Committal under Section 14 of the said Act, the Procurator-Fiscal will move the Sheriff to make it a condition that the Inspector of Poor shall undertake, on behalf of his Council, that the lunatic shall not be discharged from confinement by them under Section 9 of the 1866 Act (29 & 30 Vict. chap. 51), without ten days' previous notice in writing to the Procurator-Fiscal. It is hoped that, under a recommendation from the Local Government Board, Parish Councils will respect such an undertaking, although the Parish ultimately liable may not be the Parish of the Inspector who gave the undertaking.

5. If the foregoing arrangements are carried out, the legal and agency charges in cases which are taken over by the Inspector of Poor generally ought not to exceed a sum, varying according to circumstances, of from one to three guineas.

6. Nothing in the foregoing Instructions is to be held to supersede the discretion of the Procurator-Fiscal to take such action as may appear to be necessary in cases of emergency, or to take a precognition in cases of delicacy or difficulty.

NO. 8.—CIRCULAR AS TO POOR LAW (SCOTLAND) ACT, 1898.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 31st August 1898.*

Sir,—I am directed by the Local Government Board to call the attention of the Parish Council to the Poor Law (Scotland) Act, 1898, 61 and 62 Vict., cap. 21, and to transmit:—

1. A copy of the said Act;
2. Two copies of Regulations framed by the Board, in terms of Section 7, for giving effect to the provisions of the Act;
3. Forms of Appeal against, and Intimation of, a Proposed Removal of a Pauper;
4. Amended Forms of Petition to the Sheriff for Removal of a Pauper to England or Ireland.

I am to call your attention specially to the fact that Appeals against Removal are competent only in respect of poor persons who shall have resided continuously for one year in the parish where application is made for relief.

You will be good enough to observe that the Board require strict and scrupulous adherence to the Rules and Regulations which they now prescribe.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Inspector of Poor.

APPEALS AGAINST REMOVAL.—RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The Local Government Board, in virtue of the powers vested in them by Section 7 of the Poor Law (Scotland) Act, 1898, 61 and 62 Vict., C. 21, have made the following Rules and Regulations regarding the form and manner in which Appeals may be taken against the proposed removal of poor persons from parishes in Scotland, when such poor persons shall have resided not less than one year within the parish in which they apply for relief:—

1. The Inspector of Poor of each parish shall at all times be provided with the printed Forms of Appeal (hereinafter prescribed) for the use of poor persons and Boards of Guardians desiring to lodge Appeals with the Local Government Board.

2. When an Inspector of Poor has obtained a warrant for the removal of a poor person to England or Ireland he shall, in intimating the proposed removal to the Clerk to the Board of Guardians, enclose a Form on which the Board of Guardians may appeal against the removal to the Local Government Board if they shall so think fit.

3. It is the duty of the Inspector, on communicating to a poor person an Order or Warrant for his removal, to inform him of his right of appeal to the Local Government Board, and the Board attach special importance to the punctual discharge by Inspectors of this statutory obligation.

4. The Inspector shall deliver a copy of the Form of Appeal to each poor person who may demand it after an Order of Removal has been made or a Warrant has been granted by the Sheriff.

5. The Inspector, if required by the appellant so to do, shall fill up the Form of Appeal in such terms as the appellant may desire.

6. If the appellant shall prefer to have the Form of Appeal filled up by any other than the Inspector, he shall be at liberty to have it so filled up.

7. Every Appeal before being transmitted to the Local Government Board must be signed at the places and in the manner indicated in the printed form.

8. Every Appeal by a poor person before being transmitted to the Local Government Board shall be delivered open, filled up, and signed as above directed, to the Inspector, who shall thereafter write in such remarks as he may have to make, and sign them with his name at the place indicated for his signature.

9. The Inspector, if required by the appellant so to do, shall, within twenty-four hours from the time when the Appeal shall have been delivered to him for that purpose, open, filled up, and duly signed, forward it to the Local Government Board with such remarks as he may have to make written in.

10. If the appellant shall prefer to transmit the Appeal to the Local Government Board otherwise than through the Inspector, he shall be at liberty to do so; and, in that case, the Inspector shall return the Appeal to the appellant, with such remarks as he may have to make written in, within twenty-four hours from the time when it shall have been delivered, open, filled up, and duly signed, to the Inspector.

11. A Medical Certificate, in the form prescribed for admission to poor-houses, must accompany every Appeal made by a poor person against removal from one parish to another within Scotland, and the fitness (or otherwise) of the appellant to be removed to his proposed destination must be expressly stated.

12. The Inspector must retain a copy of every such Appeal which may pass through his office.

13. Every appeal by a poor person against removal from one parish to another within Scotland shall be in the form of Schedule A herewith.

14. Every Appeal by a poor person against removal to England or Ireland shall be in the form of Schedule B.

15. Intimation of a proposed removal to England or Ireland shall be made to the Clerk to the Board of Guardians in the form of Schedule C, having a Form of Appeal annexed.

THE PETITION AND COMPLAINT OF

INSPECTOR OF THE POOR FOR THE PARISH OF

Humbly Sheweth,

That by Statute Eighth and Ninth Victoria, Chapter Eighty-third, intituled, Poor Law (Scotland) Act, 1845, it is enacted, Section Seventy-seventh, that :— 'If any poor Person born in England, Ireland, or the Isle of Man, and not having acquired a Settlement in any Parish or Combination in Scotland, shall be in the course of receiving Parochial Relief in any Parish or Combination in Scotland, then and in such Case it shall be lawful for the Sheriff or any two Justices of the Peace of the County in which such Parish or any portion thereof is situate, to cause such poor Person, his Wife, and such of his Children as may not have gained a Settlement in Scotland to be removed by Sea or Land, by and at the Expense of the complaining Parish, to England, or Ireland, or the Isle of Man, respectively, according as such poor Person shall belong to England, Ireland, or the Isle of Man: Provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent any Parochial Board or their Inspector from making Arrangements for the due and proper Removal of such poor Persons either by Land or Water, provided the Arrangement be made with the Consent of such poor Persons themselves.'

That by the Act 25 and 26 Vict., cap. 113, further provision was made in reference to the Removal of Paupers from Scotland to England and Ireland. By said Statute it is provided in Sections First, Second, and Fourth thereof as follows, viz. :—

'I. No application for a Warrant ordering the Removal from any place in England to Scotland, or in Scotland to England or Ireland, of any poor Person who shall have become chargeable in such place, shall be heard and determined in England, except by two or more Justices in Petty Sessions assembled, or by a Stipendiary Magistrate or Metropolitan Police Magistrate sitting in his Court; and in Scotland, except by the Sheriff or any two Justices of the Peace of the County in which the Parish is situated to which such poor Person may have become chargeable, which Justices or Magistrate, and Sheriff or Justices (as the case may be) shall see such poor Person, or the Person who is the Head of the Family, proposed to be removed, and shall be satisfied that every Person who is proposed to be removed by the Warrant is in such a state of Health as not to be liable to suffer bodily or mental injury by the Removal.

'II. Such Warrant of Removal shall be granted in England only on the Application of the Relieving Officer, or other Officer of the Guardians of the Union or Parish, and in Scotland only on the Application of the Inspector of the Poor of the Parish or Combination, or other Officer appointed by the Parochial Board of such Parish or Combination, where such poor Person shall have become chargeable, and shall contain the name and reputed age of every Person ordered to be removed by virtue of the same, and the Name of the Place in Scotland or England or Ireland (as the case may be) where the Justices or Magistrate, or Sheriff or Justices, shall find such Persons to have 'been born, or to have last resided for the space of Five Years in the case of a poor Person to be removed to Scotland, and Three Years in the case of a poor Person to be removed to England or Ireland, and a Statement of such Examination having been made as to the state of Health of every Person ordered to be removed as aforesaid; and such Warrant shall be addressed to the Party applying for the same, and in the case of a Removal to Scotland, to the Parochial Board or Inspector of the Poor of the Parish or Combination to which such poor Person is to be removed, and in the case of a Removal to England or Ireland (as the case may be), to the Guardians of the Union or Parish to which such Person is to be removed, and a Copy shall be given by and at the Cost of the Person applying for such Warrant to the Person or the Head of the Family about to be removed by virtue of it: Provided that, in the case of any Native of England, Ireland, or Scotland, where the Justices or Magistrate, or Sheriff or Justices (as the case may be), shall not be able to ascertain, upon the Evidence before them, the Place of Birth, or of such continued residence as aforesaid, they shall order the Pauper to be removed to the Port or Union or Parish in England or Ireland (as the case may be), or Port or Parish in Scotland, which shall, in the judgment of such Justices or Magistrate, or Sheriff or Justices (as the case may be), under the circumstances of the case be most expedient.

'IV. Such Warrant shall order the Removal of the poor Person to be made to the Place mentioned therein as aforesaid, and shall order the Persons charged with the execution thereof to cause such poor Person, with his Family (if any), to be safely conveyed to such Place in England, Ireland, or Scotland (as the case may be), to be delivered, in the case of a Removal to Scotland, to the Inspector of the Poor of the Parish or Combination, and in the case of a Removal to England or Ireland, at the Workhouse of such Place, or of the Union or Parish containing the Port or Place nearest to the Place mentioned in the Warrant as the Place of the Pauper's ultimate Destination.'

That by the Act 61 and 62 Vict., cap. 21, it is enacted, Section 6, in Amendment of the forecited Acts, that 'The power of granting Warrants of Removal shall in Scotland be exercisable by the Sheriff only, and in the case of a Lunatic poor Person proposed to be removed to Ireland shall order his delivery at the District Asylum of the Place to which he is to be removed.'

That by the Act 57 and 58 Vict., cap. 58, it is enacted, Section 21, that 'on and after the fifteenth day of May in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five . . . every Reference in any Act of Parliament, Scheme, Deed, or Instrument to a Parochial Board constituted under the law in force at the passing of this Act shall be read and construed as referring to a Parish Council constituted under this Act.'

Inquiries may be addressed to the Local Government Board, London, with regard to such Unions in England; and as regards such Unions in Ireland, Inspectors are referred to the Board’s Rules, p. 113.

NO. 9.—SUMMARY OF SHERIFF CAMPBELL'S REPORT, DATED 28TH DECEMBER 1897, ON CONDUCT OF OFFICIALS IN RECENT OUTBREAK OF INFECTIOUS DISEASE IN SOUTH UIST.

What responsibility attaches, and in what degree, to the several parties dealt with in this enquiry?

Primarily, the position of the Parish Council and officials came under notice.

1. DRS. CAMERON, SCOBIE, AND FLETCHER.

These medical gentlemen were successively in office when the outbreak began, and for over four months during its progress. As they have since left South Uist, and were not witnesses at the enquiry, and consequently have not had an opportunity of defending their action or inaction, I feel precluded from doing more than express my great surprise and disappointment that, in face of the facts stated by Father Allan Macdonald in his letter of 19th July last to Dr. Ogilvie Grant, and in Dr. Fletcher's letter of 3d August—both quoted from above, none of them “notified” a single case to the Medical Officer of Health or Sanitary Authorities.

2. DR. LAMONT.

This gentleman entered on his duties on 10th August. He was an absolute stranger to the parish, and to the people and their habits. He got no instructions, information, or guidance from the Parish Council or Inspector as to the health or condition of the people or paupers, or any specific duties he was expected to undertake, in face of this notorious and fatal epidemic at Eriskay, &c. He was on duty practically night and day, in frequent storms and rains, over moors and across dangerous fords all over the parish, from the Island of Eriskay in the south to the Island of Benbecula in the north—38 miles apart. Notwithstanding this he paid six visits to the deceased Mary M'Innes during the twelve days she lived after his first visit. He ministered to her professionally and in many menial services without aid, and on her death he also, practically unaided, prepared her body for interment under extraordinary and exceptional difficulties.

When he satisfied himself that her case was typhoid he should have at once “intimated in writing to the Inspector the description and extent of relief which he considered necessary for the proper treatment” of Mary M'Innes, in terms of Rule 4 for Medical Relief of the Poor, even although he did this verbally. Notwithstanding this omission, I am of opinion that in the exceptionally trying circumstances he had to contend with Dr. Lamont deserves credit for all he did in this unfortunate case.

3. THE INSPECTOR OF POOR.

Rule 14.
Medical Relief.

General Rules,
18, 19.
Med. Rel., 4.

This official did not furnish the Medical Officer with a list of the aged and infirm poor persons in receipt of parochial relief in the parish. When he was informed verbally by the Doctor and Chairman on 17th August of the case of Mary M'Innes, and of the treatment necessary for her, and failed to procure a local nurse, he was not entitled to throw further responsibility on the Medical Officer, or to rely on the absence of more specific instructions from the Chairman. He "failed to furnish the relief prescribed or any part of it," and in my opinion he, as the responsible statutory executive officer of the Parish Council for the relief of the poor, is accountable for such failure.

The Doctor says that even the best nursing would not probably have saved the life of this woman, although it might prolong it for a few days, but this does not absolve the Inspector from discharging his clearly defined line of duty.

4. THE PARISH COUNCIL AND ITS CHAIRMAN.

There is no evidence that the outbreak in Eriskay was officially made known to the Parish Council or Inspector. The inference is the other way.

The Parish Council, through the Chairman and Inspector, must be held to have been informed of the case of Mary M'Innes on 17th August.

I am of opinion that the Chairman at that interview, as representing the Council, failed to realise the gravity of the case or the responsibility of his Council therein, and that he should have given more specific instructions to the Inspector to telegraph for a trained nurse from the mainland, especially as the Inspector informed him that he could not procure a local nurse, and as he admits that "the Inspector had been frequently found fault with for neglect of duty." In these circumstances he should have taken some trouble to ascertain if this poor woman was properly and humanely attended to, or he should have called a special meeting of his Council to deliberate on the case. Instead of this he did nothing in the case after the 17th, and in my view the only difference in the responsibility of the Parish Council, through its Chairman, and that of the Inspector, is one of degree.

5. FATHER MACDOUGALL.

This gentleman, who is a member of the Parish Council and of the District Committee, and resides in Benbecula, heard of this case for the first time on 14th August. He visited and ministered to her, but did not believe that she then had fever, and he left her case in the Doctor's hands. When consulted by the District Clerk on 21st August he at once instructed that a nurse be telegraphed for.

I do not find any neglect on his part.

Secondly,

THE DISTRICT COMMITTEE AND SANITARY OFFICIALS.

Under this head I include for convenience the County Medical Officer and County Sanitary Inspector.

1. Dr. Ogilvie Grant, County Medical Officer of Health, received notice of the outbreak at Eriskay from the local priest on or about 26th July. As this information was unofficial, he at once put himself in communication with the local Medical Officer, and followed this up by visiting the district and investigating the cases reported to him, and did what he could to relieve them.

The case of Mary M'Innes was not reported to him when in the district, and he had no opportunity of acting in it until such action was of no avail.

2. Mr. Wedderspoon, County Sanitary Inspector, heard of the case of Mary M'Innes for the first time on 19th August. He acted promptly, visited the patient, but through no fault of his was not in time to be of useful service.

3. Police-Sergeant Mitchell.—This officer also readily accompanied Mr. Wedderspoon in visiting and ministering to deceased.

4. The Clerk to District Committee heard of this case for the first time on 21st August, and at once consulted with Father MacDougall, a member of the District Committee. He did what he could, but of no avail.

5. The District Sanitary Inspector.—When informed of the case he refused to visit deceased or go near her house. He admits himself quite unfit for the office he holds.

Thirdly,

THE RELATIVES AND NEIGHBOURS OF MARY M'INNES.

The duties and responsibilities of these parties are more difficult to deal with. Although not strictly within the defined scope of this enquiry, I do not think I should, in the special circumstances of this case, absolve myself from commenting on them.

As seen from the evidence, deceased, from the beginning of her illness on 8th August until her burial on the 25th, was left absolutely alone. There were at least two sisters and a nephew, besides other relatives and neighbours, near her, but no one visited her sick bed, or even went inside her door, to see if she lived or died. The spectacle of her suffering and dying in neglect and squalor practically before their gaze, no one helping her to even a "cup of water," and that in a professedly religious and civilised community, is beyond words to characterise. Whatever the broadest stretch of charity may dispose one to palliate in the inaction of unrelated neighbours, looking to the conduct of the sufferer's own flesh and blood I can find no language strong enough for condemnation of the inhumanity of her sisters.

Having said so much, it must be remembered that, although the epidemic in Eriskay was abnormally severe and fatal, it was universally believed to be only severe cold or influenza. This view was supported by the priest and doctors. Therefore the people did not dread it, and they tended one another in their sickness, even although the whole community was affected thereby.

When Hector M'Intyre brought this sickness to South Lochboisdale, and all his family were stricken down with it, the people there became alarmed, and more especially as their own young priest caught it in that house, and, notwithstanding he had all the medical and nursing skill that anyone could have, he in a few days succumbed to it.

Now the people of the West Islands are not of a callous disposition. They are naturally unsophisticated, simple-minded, and kindly to friends and neighbours. Their habits of life, as a rule, are unfortunately not guided by sanitary and hygienic rules and considerations. The benefits of the newer systems of education have not yet had time to remove old prejudices and habits, of which they are unfortunately so conservative.

In these circumstances it is to be wondered at that, in face of what to their untutored view might naturally appear as the paralysed efforts of medical skill and sanitary science, they became panic-stricken, and resolved, in sorrow it may be, to keep away from this fever, which they looked upon as a dangerous and deadly plague. This, however, is only a possible explanation, not an excuse.

It is to be hoped that as a result of this enquiry a fever hospital will be erected in the island, and that the water supply will receive attention, and also that some more stringent rules may be adopted by the public bodies entrusted with the carrying out of the provisions of the new Public Health Act, and their officials in dealing with the health of those under their charge. This is all the more necessary in those island communities where the simplest laws of health are unobserved and practically unknown, and where the people need both advice and guidance by intelligent, sympathetic, and capable officials.

Commissioner.

AUDIT.

NO. 10. CIRCULAR AS TO PREPARATION OF ABSTRACT, &c.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 17th March 1898.*

Audit of Parish Council Accounts.

Sir,—During the audit of accounts of Parish Councils for the past year the Board have had under their consideration the course to be adopted by the Clerk of the Parish Council when preparing the abstract of the accounts.

The Board are of opinion that, as the accounts are those of the Parish Council, the abstract of the accounts to be deposited for the inspection of the ratepayers, and thereafter transmitted to the Auditor, should include only such payments as have been authorised or passed by the Parish Council. The Board recommend that a meeting of the Parish Council, or of a Committee of the Parish Council, duly empowered, be held as soon as possible after 15th May, but in no case later than 1st July, in each year, in order that any payments which have been made before the close of the financial year, and not previously authorised or passed, may be submitted, and, if approved, passed, and that the Parish Council should satisfy themselves that the abstract prepared by the Clerk is a true abstract of the accounts of the Parish Council, and thereafter formally accept it as such.

The remarks of the foregoing paragraph apply to the accounts of a Landward Committee, which should in the same way be examined and passed by them.

With reference to paragraph 10 of their Circular of 30th April 1897, the Board think it right to intimate that the following additional payments inter alia have been held by the Board to be contrary to law :—

- (1.) Cost of collection of School Rate in "unassessed" parish.
- (2.) Compensation to Collector for loss of office.
- (3.) Retiring allowances to former Collector of Rates and former Curator of Cemetery.
- (4.) Subscription to Fire Brigade where a Parish Council have no heritable property which might derive benefit from the services of the Fire Brigade in the event of a fire.
- (5.) Expenses of a member of Parish Council attending a conference on Light Railways.
- (6.) Gratuity to Letter-Carrier.
- (7.) Gratuity to widow of late Inspector of Poor.

—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Clerk of the Parish Council or The Clerk of the Landward Committee.

NO. 11.—CIRCULAR AS TO MANNER OF DEALING WITH GRANT UNDER AGRICULTURAL RATES, &c., ACT, 1896, IN ABSTRACT OF ACCOUNTS.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 10th June 1898.*

Sir,—Several inquiries having been recently received concerning the manner in which the Grants under the Agricultural Rates, &c., Act, 1896, should be dealt with in the Abstract of Accounts, and also as to what Rental should be entered as the Assessable Rental, I am desired by the Board to inform you that—

- (1) The amount of the Grant received by the Parish Council under the Agricultural Rates Act, in respect of each Rate (Poor, Education, Registration, &c.), should, in the Abstract of Accounts, be entered on the receipt side of the Current (or Inspector's) Account of such Rate under the head of "Government Grants," as "In relief of Agricultural Rates." It should not be included in the Assessment Accounts, but should appear in the Current Accounts only; and
- (2) In the statement of "Valuation of Parish," the Assessable Rental of Owners should be given. In view, however, of the different Assessable Rental of Occupiers, consequent on the passing of the Agricultural Rates Act, it would be well also to show the Assessable Rental of Occupiers in the Abstract.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Clerk of the Parish Council,

No. 12.—CIRCULAR AS TO INTIMATION OF NAMES OF PAUPER LUNATIC PENSIONERS AND RESERVISTS.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 1st July 1898.*

Sir,—It having been considered desirable, in view of Section 7 (2) of the Superannuation Act, 1887, that a system of notification of Lunatic Pensioners, the cost of whose maintenance might lead to a claim on the Grant, should be introduced, I am directed to request that, whenever a person becomes chargeable to the parochial funds as a Pauper Lunatic, who may be in receipt of a pension or reserved pay from any of the following Government Departments, viz:—

The Paymaster-General,
The Queen's and Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer,
The War Office,
The Admiralty,
The Board of Customs,
The Board of Inland Revenue, and
The Post Office,

you will immediately thereafter notify the same to the pension-paying authority concerned, and transmit a duplicate of such notice to the Board.

I have also to request that, in making claim on the Lunacy Grant, you will be so good as to insert a red-ink note on the claim directing attention to all cases of lunatics who may be in receipt of pension or reserve pay from any of the above-mentioned Departments.

I am to add for your information that the transmission of the above intimations will in no way relieve Inspectors of Poor of their duty under Section 112 of the Lunacy Act, 1857 (20 and 21 Vict., c. 71), of intimating to the General Board of Lunacy all cases of Pauper Lunatics which occur within the parish.

I am at the same time to recall your attention to the Circular of the Board of Supervision, dated 29th May 1893, which instructs that, in filling up the claims on the Lunacy Grant, the gross amount of expenditure on Pauper Lunatic Pensioners (or Reservists), without deduction of the amount received by the Parish Council in respect of pension (or reserved pay), should be entered.

A copy of a Form which the Board suggest might be used in making the supplementary intimations of Pauper Lunatic Pensioners and Reservists is annexed for your information and guidance.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Inspector of Poor,

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

NO. 13.—CIRCULAR AS TO PARISH WARDS AND NUMBER OF COUNCILLORS.

*Local Government Board,
 Edinburgh, 20th June 1898.*

Sir,—In view of the election at the close of this year, I am directed by the Board to point out that, if your Parish Council should think it desirable that the Parish should be divided into Wards, or that there should be a change in existing Parish Wards, they should make application to the proper authority, viz., in the case of Landward Parishes or parts of Parishes to the County Council, and in the case of Burghs or Police Burghs to the Town Council or Burgh Commissioners. It is essential that any such application should be made without delay, in order to admit of the necessary procedure being carried out in time for the preparation of the new Parish Council Register.

In like manner, if the Parish Council deem it advisable that there should be a change in the number of Councillors, they should lose no time in laying their views before the County Council or Town Council or Burgh Commissioners, as the case may be, so as to allow of the change being carried through in time for the election.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Clerk to the Parish Council.

NO. 14.—CIRCULAR TO TOWN CLERKS OR CLERKS TO BURGH COMMISSIONERS AS TO PARISH WARDS.

*Local Government Board,
 Edinburgh, 20th June 1898.*

Sir,—I am directed to transmit, for the information of the Town Council or Burgh Commissioners, a copy of a Circular which the Board have addressed to Parish Councils with respect to the formation or alteration of Parish Wards. In view of the provisions of Section 12 of the Local Government Act, 1894, which requires that the Municipal Register shall be framed and printed according to Parishes and Parish Wards, the Board have deemed it advisable to remind Parish Councils that any contemplated changes in Parish Wards should be intimated at once, otherwise it may be impossible to give effect to them.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

 or Clerk to the Burgh Commissioners.*

NO. 15.—CIRCULAR TO COUNTY CLERKS AS TO PARISH WARDS.

*Local Government Board,
 Edinburgh, 20th June 1898.*

Sir,—I am directed to transmit, for the information of the County Council, a copy of a Circular which the Board have addressed to Parish Councils with respect to the formation or alteration of Parish Wards. In view of the provisions of Section 12 of the Local Government Act, 1894, which requires that the County Council Register shall be framed and printed according to Parish Wards, the Board have deemed it advisable to remind Parish Councils that any contemplated changes in Parish Wards should be intimated at once, otherwise it may be impossible to give effect to them.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,

The County Clerk.

NO. 16.—CIRCULAR TO TOWN CLERKS OR CLERKS TO BURGH COMMISSIONERS AS TO THE ELECTION OF PARISH COUNCILLORS.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 24th September 1898.*

Sir,—The Board desire to direct the attention of Town Councils and Burgh Commissioners and of their Returning Officers to the provisions of the Local Government Act of 1894 relating to the election of Parish Councillors.

1. Section 15 of that Act provides :—“With respect to the second and subsequent elections of Parish Councillors for a Burghal Parish, or for the Burghal part of a Parish partly landward and partly burghal, the following provisions shall have effect :—

(1) “The election of such Parish Councillors shall take place in every third year, beginning with the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight, on the same day, and, as nearly as may be, in the same manner, in the same places, and with the same returning and presiding officers and clerks as the election of town councillors for such burgh, or if there is a contested election for parish councillors, but there is no contested election for town councillors, in such burgh or in any ward thereof (if it is divided into wards), as if there were a contested election for town councillors in such burgh, or in a ward or wards thereof.”

(4) “The enactments regulating the election of town councillors shall, with the necessary variations, and subject to the provisions of this Act, extend and apply to the election of such parish councillors.”

(6) “It shall be the duty of the town council of every burgh to make due provision for the election of such parish councillors.”

“The foregoing provisions shall apply to the second and subsequent elections of parish councillors in parishes or parts of parishes co-extensive with police burghs or parts thereof, with the omission of the words ‘burghal,’ and with the substitution of the expression ‘police burgh’ for ‘burgh,’ and ‘burgh commissioners’ for ‘town council’ or ‘town councillors.’”

2. There are several points in which the enactments applicable to municipal elections are modified by the Local Government Act of 1894, and to these the consideration of the Returning Officers and Town Clerks or Clerks to Burgh Commissioners is specially directed.

3. In municipal elections the duty of publishing the Notice of Election, of issuing and receiving the Nomination Papers and Notices of Withdrawal, and of publishing the list of persons nominated, is laid on the Town Clerk—in police burghs, on the Clerk to the Commissioners. On the other hand, the Local Government Act of 1894, Section 17 (1), provides that in parish council elections the Returning Officer shall take charge of the arrangements under which Nomination Papers and Notices of Withdrawal are to be obtained, received, and dealt with, but it makes no specific provision as to the person by whom the Notice of Election is to be issued.

It appears to the Board to be of the utmost importance that all these arrangements should be carried out by one individual, and they strongly recommend that the Returning Officer should delegate to the Clerk all his powers and duties in connection with issuing and receiving Nomination Papers and Notices of Withdrawal.

4. Preliminary Arrangements.—Prior to the day of election, certain preliminary arrangements require to be completed. The more important of these are specified in Section 17 (1) of the Act, which provides that the Returning Officer "shall make and publish such arrangements as he shall think fit for the purpose of enabling nomination papers for the election of Parish Councillors and notices of withdrawal to be obtained, and, when filled up, to be received and dealt with at some place within or adjoining the parish, and for that purpose may, by writing under his hand, delegate such of his powers as he shall think necessary to the Clerk of the Parish Council of the Parish or other fit person."

5. Notice of Election.—The Statute requires that the arrangements to be made as to the obtaining and receiving of Nomination Papers and Notices of Withdrawal shall be published. The time and mode of publication are not prescribed; but such publication should be provided for as will ensure timely publicity in the Burgh. This might probably in most cases be secured by intimation of the arrangements being included in the "Notice of Election," which is to be affixed to the doors of the Parish Churches not less than ten days before the day of election.

The Notices of Election for the Municipal and Parish Council Elections respectively may be separate or combined in one intimation. If the Returning Officer thinks fit, there seems to be no objection to the Notice of the Parish Council Election being appended to or combined with that of the Municipal Election. In the ordinary case this course would appear to be the more convenient and inexpensive.

6. Nomination Papers.—The Nomination Papers are to be obtained, and, when filled up, to be received and dealt with "at some place within or adjoining the parish." The office of the Town Clerk or Clerk to the Commissioners, or other place where Municipal Nominations are received, will be the appropriate place.

The Nomination Papers when filled up are to be lodged with the Returning Officer, or with the Clerk as his delegate, not later than 4 P.M. on the Tuesday preceding the day of election.

The Nomination Paper is not to be in the form prescribed for municipal elections, but in the form given in Schedule II. of the Act of 1894. It must be signed by two parish electors entitled to vote for the candidate nominated, also by the candidate, or by some person duly authorised by him in that behalf. Authority to sign should be given in writing, and the writing should be lodged along with the Nomination Paper. The five assenters required to the nomination in municipal elections are not necessary in the parish council elections.

The Nomination Paper must contain:—

(1) The Christian name or names and surname, place of abode, and designation of the candidate, all as set forth in the register of voters. The candidate must be a parish elector; but, in cases where there are parish wards, he need not be an elector in the ward for which he is nominated.

(2) The names, places of abode, and designations of the two electors who sign, all as set forth in the register of voters. In a parish divided into wards, the two electors must be electors within the ward to which the nomination applies.

When it appears to the Returning Officer, or to the Clerk as his delegate, that the Nomination Paper is defective in any of the above particulars or otherwise, he should direct attention to the defect with the view of having it rectified.

A Nomination Paper should not be rejected as invalid by a delegate unless he has received express authority to that effect. It will be safer in general to leave the question of its validity to be determined by the Returning Officer himself.

In the case of a parish partly landward and partly within a burgh or a police burgh, a candidate whose qualification is in a landward ward may be nominated for a burghal ward. The Returning Officer for the burghal part should therefore be furnished with the register for the whole parish.

The names of the candidates nominated (and not withdrawn, see infra) must be published not later than the Friday preceding the day of election; but it is advisable that they should be published as early as possible. The list is published by being affixed to the doors of the Parish Churches, and of the Town Hall or Council Chambers; and it may, in addition, be posted up in any place and published in the newspapers or in any other manner. A form of notice is appended.

As no nomination can be received after 4 P.M. on the Tuesday preceding the election, the names of the candidates might, with advantage, be made public shortly thereafter. Where the number of candidates nominated is in excess of the number of Councillors to be elected, such early intimation would enable arrangements to be made, if desired, for the withdrawal of candidates (the last day for withdrawals is the Thursday preceding the day of election, see infra), so as to avoid the expense of a contested election. Where the number of candidates nominated does not exceed the number of Councillors to be elected, there is no reason why the list should not be made public immediately after the last day for receiving nominations, as in that case there can be no contest, and the election is virtually concluded. But, in any case (even though there should be no contest), statutory publication must be made.

7. Notices of Withdrawal.—These are to be lodged with the Returning Officer, or with the Clerk as his delegate, and may be received up till 4 P.M. on the Thursday preceding the day of election. Each Notice of Withdrawal must be signed by the person nominated, or by some person duly authorised in that behalf. No withdrawal is competent if its effect would be to reduce the number of persons nominated for the parish or ward below the number to be elected. Notices of Withdrawal should be numbered consecutively in order of receipt, and the precise time of delivery marked on each. Most of the observations in preceding paragraphs as to dealing with Nomination Papers apply to Notices of Withdrawal.

8. Polling.—The Poll must be taken in accordance with the provisions of the Ballot Act. It is not necessary that elections for wards should be held within the wards. Where there are contests in both the Municipal and Parish Council Elections, the polling places should be the same. The Returning Officer may arrange that the electors for two or more parishes or parish wards shall poll at the same place (such place being conveniently situated for the majority of electors); and, in that event, one presiding officer might be sufficient for all. There may be two or more polling places (when necessary) in one parish or ward, provided that separate lists of voters for the respective parts are available.

It will be for the Returning Officer to decide whether there shall be separate ballot-boxes for the two elections. It may be convenient to have one ballot-box for each presiding officer, and the use of different coloured ballot papers would tend to obviate confusion and mistakes.

Any person whose name is on the Parish Council Register is entitled to vote, but, where a parish is divided into wards, no person is entitled to vote in more than one ward, even although he is registered in more than one. In a parish partly landward and partly burghal, a person who is registered in both areas can only vote in one. In a parish divided into wards, an elector is only entitled to vote for the number of Councillors assigned to the ward in which he votes.

9. Counting of Votes.—This must be carried out in accordance with the provisions of the Ballot Act. If two or more candidates, either in a parish or a ward, receive an equal number of votes, being more than can be elected, the Returning Officer has the casting vote. He need not be a parish elector to give this vote.

10. The Returning Officer must forthwith give notice in writing to the Clerk to the Parish Council or Inspector of Poor of the names of the persons elected. He has no duty to ascertain whether the Parish Councillors so elected accept office, such duty falling to be performed by the Clerk or Inspector.

11. The Board would further direct attention to No. 18 of the Rules made by the Court in terms of Section 47 (1) of the Elections (Scotland) Corrupt and Illegal Practices Act, 1890 (53 and 54 Vict., cap. 55), which, as amended by the Act of Sederunt of July last, provides:—

“The returns and declarations mentioned in Section 25 of the Act shall be sent, in the case of County Council Elections and of Parish Council Elections for a landward parish, or for the landward part of a parish partly landward and partly burghal, to the County Clerk of the County within which such elections are held; in the case of Municipal Elections and of Parish Council Elections for a burghal parish, or for the Burghal part of a parish partly landward and partly burghal, or for

"parishes or parts of parishes co-extensive with police burghs or parts thereof, to the Clerk of the Burgh within which such elections are held ;
 "and in the case of School Board Elections, to the Clerk of the School Board."

12. If any question should arise as to the performance of the duty of the Town Council or Burgh Commissioners in regard to the election, they may refer it to the Board, whose determination is final (Section 15, (7) )—I am, &c.,

NO. 17.—CIRCULAR AS TO DUTY OF CLERK IN REGARD TO LIST OF THOSE ELECTORS WHO HAVE FAILED TO MAKE PAYMENT OF SPECIAL PARISH RATE.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 14th October 1898.*

Sir,—I am directed to call your attention to the following provision contained in Section 10 (1) of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894:—

“Provided that exemption from or failure to make payment of the special rate authorised by this Act, where such rate is due and payable by persons so registered, shall be a disqualification from voting at an election of a Parish Council, unless such rate is paid during the period of one year subsequent to service of the demand note requiring payment of the same.

“It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Parish Council, one week before the time fixed for the nomination of candidates for any election of Parish Councillors in the parish, to prepare a list of Parish Electors who have failed to make payment of the special rate within such period of one year, and to transmit a copy of such list forthwith to the Returning Officer; and any votes tendered by any elector named in such list shall at any such election be disallowed, unless the elector verifies, prior to the close of the poll, his right to vote by the production of a receipt duly signed and dated within such period.”

It is therefore the duty of the Clerk of the Parish Council to make up this year a list of those electors who have failed to make payment of the special parish rate for 1897-98 within one year from the service of the demand note. The list should contain the name of the parish and the name and address of each such elector, together with his number on the Register, and should be signed by the Clerk and dated. Where there is no Clerk, the duty falls to be carried out by the Inspector of Poor.

In burghal parishes (that is, in parishes wholly comprised within a burgh) no special parish rate is leviable and the Clerk has no duty.

In landward parishes containing no burgh or police burgh or part thereof, the Clerk will make up the list on the 15th November, and immediately forward it to the Returning Officer of the county.

In parishes partly landward and partly burghal it will be the duty of the Clerk to make up the list on the 18th October current, and transmit a copy to the Returning Officer of each burgh or police burgh wholly or partly within the parish. He will also on 15th November send a copy of the list, revised and brought up to date, to the Returning Officer of the county.

In cases where (1) no special parish rate was imposed for the year 1897-98, or (2) where the period of one year has not elapsed since the demand notes were served, or (3) where there are no electors in arrear, it will be advisable for the Clerk to send intimation of the fact to the Returning Officer.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

No. 20.—CIRCULAR TO COUNTY CLERKS AS TO ELECTION OF PARISH COUNCILLORS.

Local Government Board, Edinburgh, 26th October 1898.

Sir,—The Board desire to direct the attention of County Councils and the Returning Officers appointed by them to the provisions of the Local Government (Scotland) Act of 1894, relating to the election of Parish Councillors.

1. Section 14 of that Act provides :—

“ With respect to the second and subsequent elections of Parish Councillors for a Landward Parish, or for the Landward part of a Parish partly landward and partly burghal, the following provisions shall, except within Parishes or parts of Parishes co-extensive with Police Burghs or parts of Police Burghs, have effect :—

(1) “ The election of such parish councillors shall take place in every third year, beginning with the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight, on the same day and, as nearly as may be, in the same manner, in the same places, and with the same returning and presiding officers and clerks as the election of county councillors for the county in which such parish or part of a parish, as the case may be, is situated, or if there is a contested election for parish councillors, but there is no contested election for county councillors in the county council electoral division or divisions corresponding to such parish or part of a parish, as the case may be, as if there were a contested election for county councillors in such electoral division or divisions.”

(4) “ The enactments regulating the election of county councillors shall, with the necessary variations, and subject to the provisions of this Act, extend and apply to the election of such parish councillors.”

(6) “ It shall be the duty of the county council of every county to make due provision for the election of such parish councillors.”

2. It will be seen that the election of Parish Councillors is to be carried out as nearly as may be in the same manner as the election of County Councillors, but subject to the enactments contained in Sec. 17 (1) of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894, which provides :—

“ A Returning Officer shall make and publish such arrangements as he shall think fit for the purpose of enabling nomination papers for the election of Parish Councillors, and notices of withdrawal, to be obtained, and, when filled up, to be received and dealt with, at some place within or adjoining the parish, and for that purpose may, by writing under his hand, delegate such of his powers as he shall think necessary to the Clerk of the Parish Council of the Parish or other fit person.”

3. Notice of Election.—The Statute requires that the arrangements to be made by the Returning Officer shall be published. The time and mode of publication are not prescribed ; but such publication should be provided for as will ensure timely publicity throughout the Parish. This will in most cases be secured by intimation of the arrangements being included in the "Notice of Election" required by Section 16 (1), which is to be given not later than 4 P.M. on the third Tuesday preceding the day of election.

The Notices of Election for the County Council and Parish Council Elections respectively may be separate or combined in one intimation. If the Returning Officer thinks fit, there seems to be no objection to the Notice of the Parish Council Election being appended to or combined with that of the County Council Election.

4. Nomination Papers.—It is the duty of the Returning Officer to make such arrangements as will enable the electors in each parish to obtain copies of the form of Nomination Paper. For this purpose, and for the other purposes specified in Section 17 (1), he is authorised, by writing under his hand, to delegate such of his powers as he shall think necessary to the Clerk of the Parish Council or other fit person. If a delegate is appointed, it will be convenient that he should reside in or near the parish. The Nomination Papers are to be obtained, and when filled up to be received and dealt with "at some place within or adjoining the parish." It appears to the Board that it would be unreasonable to hold that the place fixed on must be contiguous to the parish. A suitable place, conveniently situated for the majority of the electors, either within or without the parish, may be selected. The Returning Officer will exercise his discretion in each case, regard being always had to the general convenience of the electors. When the Clerk of the Parish Council is appointed delegate, it is probable that the Office of the Parish Council, or (where there is no office) his own residence, will be found to be a suitable and convenient place.

The Nomination Papers when filled up are to be lodged with the Returning Officer, or (where a delegate is appointed) with his delegate. They must be received by him not later than 4 P.M. on the second Tuesday preceding the day of election. When a delegate is appointed, the Nomination Papers must be lodged with the delegate, and not with the Returning Officer.

If a delegate is authorised to "deal with" Nomination Papers, the provisions of the Statute should be clearly explained to him. A Nomination Paper should be in the form given in Schedule II. of the Act, and must be signed by two parish electors entitled to vote for the candidate nominated. It must contain :—

(1) The Christian name or names and surname, place of abode, and designation of the candidate, all as set forth in the register of voters. The candidate must be a parish elector; but, in a parish divided into wards, it is not imperative that he should be an elector in the ward for which he is nominated.

(2) The names, places of abode, and designations of the two electors who sign, all as set forth in the register of voters. In a parish divided into wards, the two electors must be electors within the ward to which the nomination applies.

(3) The Nomination Paper must be signed by the two electors and by the candidate or by some person duly authorised by him in that behalf. Authority to sign should be given in writing, and the writing should be lodged along with the Nomination Paper.

When it appears to the Returning Officer or his delegate that the Nomination Paper is defective in any of the above particulars or otherwise, he should direct attention to the defect with the view of having it rectified. A Nomination Paper should not be rejected as invalid by a delegate unless he has received express authority to that effect. It will be safer in general to leave the question of its validity to be determined by the Returning Officer himself. In the case of a parish partly landward and partly within a burgh or a police burgh, a candidate whose qualification is in a burghal ward may be nominated for a landward ward. The Returning Officer for the landward part should therefore be furnished with the register for the whole parish.

The names of the candidates nominated (and not withdrawn—see infra) must be published not later than the Friday preceding the day of election, but it is advisable that they should be published as early as possible. The list is published by being affixed to the door of the Parish Church, and to the door of the Parish Council Office; and it may, in addition, be posted up in any place and published in any manner in which the names of candidates for the County Council are published. A form of notice is appended.

As no nomination can be received after 4 P.M. on the second Tuesday preceding the day of election, the names of the candidates should be made public as shortly as possible thereafter. Where the number of candidates nominated is in excess of the number of Councillors to be elected, such early intimation would enable arrangements to be made, if desired, for the withdrawal of candidates (the last day for withdrawals is the Tuesday preceding the day of election—see infra), so as to avoid the expense of a contested election. Where the number of candidates nominated does not exceed the number of Councillors to be elected, there is no reason why the list should not be made public immediately after the last day for receiving nominations, as in that case there can be no contest, and the election is virtually concluded. But, in any case (even though there should be no contest), statutory publication must be made.

5. Notices of Withdrawal.—These are to be lodged with the Returning Officer (or his delegate), and may be received up till 4 P.M. on the Tuesday preceding the day of election. Each Notice of Withdrawal must be signed by the person nominated, or by some person duly authorised in that behalf. No withdrawal is competent if its effect would be to reduce the number of persons nominated for the parish or ward below the number to be elected. The Notices of Withdrawal take effect in the order in which they are delivered (Section 16 (2)). Consequently the delegates should be instructed to number the Notices of Withdrawal consecutively in order of receipt, and to mark on each the precise time of its delivery. Most of the observations in preceding paragraphs as to dealing with Nomination Papers apply to Notices of Withdrawal.

6. Polling.—The Poll must be taken in accordance with the provisions of the Ballot Act. It is not necessary that elections for wards should be held within the wards. The Returning Officer may arrange that the electors for two or more parishes or parish wards shall poll at the same place (such place being conveniently situated for the majority of electors); and, in that event, one presiding officer may be sufficient for all. There may be two or more polling places (where necessary) in one parish or ward, provided that separate lists of voters for the respective parts are available. The Clerk of the Parish Council or the Inspector of Poor, if appointed, may competently act as presiding officer.

It will be for the Returning Officer to decide whether there shall be separate ballot boxes for the two elections. It may be convenient to have one ballot box for each presiding officer, and the use of different coloured ballot papers would tend to obviate confusion and mistakes.

Any person whose name is on the Parish Council Register is entitled to vote, with the exception of those who have failed to pay the Special Parish Rate within a year from the issue of the demand note, as laid down in Section 10 (1) of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1894. Where a parish is divided into wards, no person is entitled to vote in more than one ward, though he is registered in more than one. In a parish partly landward and partly burghal, a person who is registered in both areas can only vote in one. In a parish divided into wards, an elector is only entitled to vote for the number of Councillors assigned to the ward in which he votes.

7. Counting of Votes.—This must be carried out in accordance with the provisions of the Ballot Act. If two or more candidates, either in a parish or a ward, receive an equal number of votes, being more than can be elected, the Returning Officer has the casting vote. He does not require to be a parish elector to give this vote. When the enumeration is completed, the papers are to be handed over to the County Clerk.

8. The Returning Officer must forthwith give notice in writing to the Clerk of the Parish Council of the names of the persons elected. He has no duty to ascertain whether the Parish Councillors so elected accept office, such duty falling to be performed by the Clerk or Inspector.

9. The Board would further direct attention to No. 18 of the Rules made by the Court in terms of Section 47 (1) of the Elections (Scotland) Corrupt and Illegal Practices Act, 1890 (53 and 54 Vict., cap. 55), which, as amended by the Act of Sederunt of July last, provides:—

“The returns and declarations mentioned in Section 25 of the Act “shall be sent, in the case of County Council Elections and of Parish “Council Elections for a landward parish, or for the landward part of “a parish partly landward and partly burghal, to the County Clerk of “the County within which such elections are held; in the case of

"Municipal Elections and of Parish Council Elections for a burghal parish, or for the burghal part of a parish partly landward and partly burghal, or for parishes or parts of parishes co-extensive with police burghs or parts thereof, to the Clerk of the Burgh within which such elections are held; and in the case of School Board Elections, to the Clerk of the School Board."

10. Where, in terms of Section 23 (2) (b), an additional number of members has been added to the Landward Committee by an order of the Board, and the electors in a landward ward consequently vote for members of the Landward Committee only (of whom a limited number will thereafter be appointed Parish Councillors), special forms will be required. A form prepared by the Board is appended.

11. If any question should arise as to the performance of the duty of the County Council in regard to the election, the Council may refer it to the Board, whose determination is final (Section 14 (7)).—I am, &c.,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

If no election has taken place, or if the number elected is less than a quorum of the Parish Council (which is one-fourth of the Council, but in no case less than three), it will be unnecessary to issue notices, as no meeting can be held.

At the statutory meeting (or, in the case of Burghal Parishes, at the first meeting after the election) you will, in the first place, read over the names of the Councillors as intimated to you by the Returning Officer, and request such of them as are present to declare in writing their acceptance of office. In the notice calling the meeting you should request that any Councillor who is unable to attend the meeting should intimate to you in writing whether he accepts office.

The Chairman of the Parish Council will be elected at this meeting, and with reference to Section 40 of the Local Government Act of 1894, I am to direct attention to the provisions of the Ex-Officio Justices of the Peace (Scotland) Act, 1898, which enacts:—

12. Whenever it appears to the Sanitary Inspector that the intervention of the Medical Officer of Health is necessary in connection with any nuisance, he shall forthwith inform such Officer thereof. [He shall also, subject to the directions of the Local Authority, attend to the instructions of the Medical Officer of Health with respect to any measures which can be lawfully taken by a Sanitary Inspector under the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, or under any other Statute or Statutes.]

13. The Sanitary Inspector shall enter from day to day, in a book to be provided by the Local Authority, particulars of his inspections and of the action taken by him in the execution of his duties. He shall also keep a book or books, to be provided by the Local Authority, so arranged as to form, as far as possible, a continuous record of the sanitary condition of each of the premises in respect of which any action has been taken under the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, or under any other Statute or Statutes, and shall keep any other systematic records that the Local Authority may require.

14. The Sanitary Inspector shall at all reasonable times, when applied to by the Medical Officer of Health, produce to him his books, or any of them, and render to him such information as he may be able to furnish with respect to any matter to which the duties of Sanitary Inspector relate.

15. The Sanitary Inspector shall, if directed by the Local Authority to do so, superintend and see to the due execution of all works which may be undertaken under their direction for the suppression or removal of nuisances within his district.

16. Where no Inspector of Dairies has been appointed, the Sanitary Inspector shall from time to time, and once at least in every three months, visit all Dairies, Cowsheds, and Milkshops within the district, and report the result to the Local Authority. He shall also forthwith inform the Local

NO. 26.—REGULATIONS AS TO CHOLERA, YELLOW FEVER, AND PLAGUE: SEABOARD LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 3rd January 1898.*

Sir,—I am directed by the Local Government Board for Scotland to transmit, for the information and guidance of the Local Authority, the accompanying copy in duplicate of an Order containing Regulations issued by the Board in pursuance of their powers under Part IV. of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897.

As the Local Authority are aware, the Board's Order of 7th November 1896 was issued in terms of the Public Health Act of 1896; but this Act has been repealed so far as it relates to Scotland, and its provisions incorporated in Part IV. of the new Public Health Act. The accompanying Order, therefore, has the effect merely of continuing in force the Regulations already issued.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Clerk to the Local Authority.

- To all Local Authorities in Scotland, within whose District there is a Port or Harbour;—
- To all Officers of Customs;—
- To all Medical Officers of Health of the Local Authorities aforesaid;—
- To all Masters of Ships;—
- To all Pilots;—
- And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas, We, the Local Government Board for Scotland, by an Order bearing date the 7th day of November 1896, did make certain Regulations;

And Whereas the Public Health Act, 1896, 59 and 60 Victoria, chapter 19, under which the aforesaid Order was made, has been repealed (except the repeals therein contained), in so far as it relates to Scotland, by the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, 60 and 61 Victoria, chapter 38; and the said Order ceased to have any effect or force from and after the 1st day of January 1898;

And Whereas We are empowered by Section 78 of the aforesaid Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, from time to time to make, alter, and revoke such Regulations as to Us may seem fit, with a view to the treatment of persons affected with any epidemic, endemic, or infectious disease, and preventing the spread of such diseases as well on the seas, rivers, and waters of Scotland, and on the high seas within three miles of the coast thereof, as on land; and may declare by what authority or authorities such Regulations shall be enforced and executed;

And Whereas by Section 85 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, it is enacted that Regulations of the Local Government Board for Scotland, in pursuance of Part IV. of the said Act, may provide for such Regulations being enforced and executed by the Officers of Customs and the officers and men employed in the Coastguard, as well as by other authorities and officers, and without prejudice to the generality of the powers conferred by Part IV., may provide for:—

- (a) The signals to be hoisted by vessels having any case of epidemic, endemic, or infectious disease on board; and
- (b) The questions to be answered by masters, pilots, and other persons on board any vessel, as to cases of such disease on board during the voyage or on the arrival of the vessel; and
- (c) The detention of vessels and of persons on board vessels; and
- (d) The duties to be performed in cases of such disease by masters, pilots, and other persons on board vessels.

Provided that the Regulations shall be subject to the consent:—

- (a) So far as they apply to the Officers of Customs, of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs; and
- (b) So far as they apply to officers or men employed in the Coastguard, of the Admiralty; and
- (c) So far as they apply to signals, of the Board of Trade.

And Whereas it is expedient that the Regulations made by the said Order in terms of the Public Health Act, 1896, should now be re-issued in exercise of the powers conferred on Us by the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, and every other power enabling Us in that behalf; And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Customs, the Lords of the Admiralty, and the Board of Trade have respectively signified their consent to such Regulations so far as they respectively apply to the Officers of Customs and to signals;

Now Therefore, We, the Local Government Board for Scotland, do hereby re-issue the following Regulations and Declare that they shall be enforced and executed by the Authorities and Officers hereinafter mentioned:—

Art. 12.—The Medical Officer of Health shall, as soon as possible after any such ship has been certified to be infected, examine every person on board the same, and in the case of any person suffering from Cholera, Yellow Fever, or Plague, or from any illness which the Medical Officer of Health suspects may prove to be Cholera Yellow Fever, or Plague, shall certify accordingly.

Art. 13.—Every person certified by the Medical Officer of Health to be suffering from Cholera, Yellow Fever, or Plague, shall be dealt with under any bye-law that may have been made by the Local Authority under Section 180 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897 ; or, where no such bye-law shall have been made, shall be removed, if his condition admit of it, to some hospital or other suitable place appointed for that purpose by the Local Authority ; and no person so removed shall leave such hospital or place until the Medical Officer of Health shall have certified that such person is free from the said disease.

No. 27.—CIRCULAR AS TO REGISTRARS' RETURNS.

Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 24th January 1898.

Sir,—I am directed by the Local Government Board to draw the attention of the Local Authority to the fourth paragraph of Section 15 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, under which the Registrar is required to furnish to the Local Authority such periodical Returns of Births and Deaths as may be required. As the approval of the Board is necessary before such Returns can be called for, I am directed to transmit for the information of the Local Authority a suggested form of Return, which may be adopted by the Local Authority or modified according to their requirements.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Clerk to the Local Authority.

- Section 32. 1. Section 32 enacts a number of provisions with regard to a certain class of offensive businesses which are specified in the Section. The list includes the business of "Slaughterer of cattle or horses." The expression "Slaughterer of cattle or horses" is defined to mean "a person whose business it is to kill any description of cattle or horses, asses, or mules, for the purpose of the flesh being used as butcher's meat." The expression "Slaughter-house" means "any building or place used for the purpose of such business."
- Section 3. 2. The business of a slaughterer of cattle and horses is not to be established in any district without the sanction of the Local Authority. Any person contravening this enactment is liable to a fine not exceeding £50 in respect of the establishment of the business; and, if he continues to carry it on after a conviction for the establishment of it, he becomes liable in a daily penalty of £25.
- Section 32 (1). 3. The meaning of the term "established" (as used in this Section) is given in Sub-section 6, which provides that a business shall be deemed to be established:—(a) If it is established newly; (b) if it is removed from one set of premises to other premises; (c) if it is renewed on the same premises after having been discontinued for a year or longer; (d) if the premises are enlarged. But a business is not to be deemed to be established anew on any premises if there is merely a change in the ownership or occupancy; or if the building, after being wholly or partially pulled down or burnt down, has been rebuilt without extension of area.
- Section 32 (6). 4. As the enlargement of a business is equivalent (for the purposes of the Section) to the establishment of it anew, it will be advisable for the Local Authority to keep a record of the extent of each business to which they give sanction. A Form of Application, with Schedule annexed, which might be adopted by any Local Authority for this purpose, is appended to this circular. In the case of a business established before the commencement of the Act, similar information might be obtained when a licence for the premises is applied for.
- Section 32 (2). 5. At least 14 days before making an Order sanctioning the establishment of a slaughter-house, it is the duty of the Local Authority to give public notice of the application for their sanction. This notice may be given either by advertisement in one or more local newspapers, or by the posting of handbills in the locality. It must set forth the time and place at which the Local Authority will hear objections to the proposed Order.
- Section 32 (2). 6. The Local Authority are bound to consider any objections made at the time and place specified in the notice, and thereafter they may grant or withhold their sanction as they think expedient. The sanction, if granted, is to be given by Order; and, for the convenience of Local Authorities, the Board have framed a Form of Order which may be used by Local Authorities. A copy of the form is appended to this Circular. The Local Authority are entitled to charge a fee, not exceeding forty shillings, for an Order under this Section.
- Section 32 (5). 7. Whether the Local Authority resolve to grant or to withhold sanction, any person aggrieved may appeal to the Board against their decision. This appeal, however, does not arise until the County Council has given its determination on the matter. If the County Council overturn the resolution of the Local Authority, the Local Authority, as well as any person aggrieved, is entitled to appeal to the Board. The decision of the Board is final.
- Section 32 (2). 8. The Local Authority are empowered to make Bye-laws for the Slaughter-houses within their district. The matters which may be regulated by these Bye-laws are:—(a) The conduct of the business, and (b) the structure of the premises in which it is carried on—the object in both cases being to prevent or diminish the noxious or injurious effect of the business; the Bye-laws may also regulate (c) the mode in which the application for the sanction of the Local Authority to the establishment of the business is to be made.
- Section 32 (3). 9. The Bye-laws will be applicable to all slaughter-houses in the district, whether established after the passing of the Public Health Act, 1897, or not. They will be subject to the general provisions of that Act as to Bye-laws (Sections 183-187); but, in addition to the penalties which may be imposed by virtue of Section 184, the Local Authority may, by their Bye-laws, empower the Sheriff by summary order to deprive any person, either temporarily or permanently, of the right of carrying on the business of slaughterer as a punishment for breach of the Bye-laws.
- Section 32 (4). 10. The Board recommend every Local Authority within whose district a slaughter-house exists or is proposed, to frame Bye-laws under the Act; and, with the object of assisting Local Authorities, the Board have prepared a series of Bye-laws, a copy of which is appended. The Board do not suggest that every Local Authority should adopt the Bye-laws framed by them. The circumstances of districts differ, and the Bye-laws suggested by the Board may be deemed too restrictive for some localities. It will be the duty of the Local Authority to consider what Bye-laws are best suited for their own district.

11. It will be observed that no power is given to make Bye-laws as to the situation of slaughter-houses. The intention of the Act obviously is that the Local Authority should satisfy themselves regarding the suitability of the site before giving their sanction to the establishment of the business or granting a licence for the premises. The following requirements ought to be insisted on:—Neither the slaughter-house nor the lairs for cattle in connection therewith should be within 100 feet of any dwelling-house, and the site should be such as to admit of free ventilation. The slaughter-house should not in any part be below the level of the adjoining ground, and there should be provision for effectual drainage. An adequate water supply should be provided, and should be so arranged that the walls, up to a height of six feet, may be washed by means of a hose. There should be no habitable room or loft over the slaughter-house or lairs.

Although the Act authorises the making of Bye-laws for the structure of the premises, the Board think that Local Authorities will find it advisable to deal with the structure in the manner above suggested for dealing with the site. The Local Authority should either see that the structure is suitable before they give their sanction, or should only give their sanction on the applicant coming under an obligation to make the structure suitable within a specified time. It will be easier to secure proper construction by making it a condition of receiving sanction, than by making Bye-laws for the purpose.

12. In addition to the requirements of Section 32 with respect to the establishment of the business of a slaughterer of cattle or horses, Section 33 provides that such business is not to be carried on in any premises without a licence from the Local Authority. This requirement applies to all premises, whether the business was carried on before the passing of the Act or not. A fee not exceeding 5s. may be charged for a licence or for any renewal of it.

13. Not less than 21 days before a new licence is granted, notice of the intention to apply for it must be advertised either in the local newspapers or by posting hand-bills in the locality, the time and place at which the Local Authority will hear objections being stated in the notice.

14. Any person interested may object to the granting or renewal of a licence. There is no provision requiring that an applicant for a new licence shall receive notice of objections, but provision to that effect is made with regard to cases of renewals of licences (see par. 17 infra), and the Board recommend that the same procedure should be observed in the case of new licences.

15. The Local Authority are to fix a day when the licences granted by them shall annually expire. The licence is thus an annual requirement, but when first granted it expires on the fixed day which secondly occurs after the granting of it. For instance, if the Local Authority fix that the licences shall expire annually on 28th May, a licence granted in April 1898 will expire on 28th May 1899, while a licence granted in June 1898 will not expire till 28th May 1900. A form of licence is appended to this Circular.

16. The Statute does not require advertisement of the intention to apply for the renewal of a licence, as it does in the case of a new licence, but the Local Authority would be well advised to advertise applications for renewals in the same manner as applications for new licences.

17. Provision is made for seven days' notice of objections to the renewal of a licence being made to the applicant. If an objection is made of which notice has not been given, the Local Authority may, if they think fit, direct notice to be given to the applicant, and may adjourn the consideration of the question to allow of the applicant attending.

18. If a licence is refused for premises where the business of slaughtering was carried on at the passing of the Act (6th August 1897), or if the renewal of a licence is refused, there is an appeal to the Board. This appeal does not arise, however, till the County Council has given its determination on the matter. If the County Council overturn the resolution of the Local Authority, the Local Authority is entitled to appeal to the Board. The decision of the Board is final.

Section 33 (6). 19. The Local Authority have a right of entry to any slaughter-house at any hour by day—that is, between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.—or at any time when the business is in progress or is usually carried on, for the purpose of examining whether there is any contravention of the Act or of the Bye-laws. The Local Authority should authorise one of their officers to exercise this power of entry in their behalf.

Section 34. 20.—The Local Authority of any Landward district, either singly or in combination with other Local Authorities, is authorised to provide a public slaughter-house, and to borrow for that purpose on the security of the Public Health general assessment and of the rates or dues leviable by them for the use of the slaughter-house. The provisions as to sanction and annual licence, and as to advertising the intention to apply for the same, appear to be applicable in the case of a public slaughter-house as in other cases, and there will be a like appeal to the County Council and to the Board as in other cases.

21. If the Local Authority are careful in giving sanction only where the situation, construction, and sanitary arrangements of the premises are satisfactory, and if they frame and enforce suitable Bye-laws, and carry out efficient inspection, it is not probable that nuisance will arise in any slaughter-house within their district. But if nuisance should arise, the fact that the business has been established with the sanction of the Local Authority, and that the premises are duly licensed in terms of the Act, will not prevent the Local Authority taking proceedings to have the nuisance removed. It will be for the Local Authority to consider whether Section 16 (6) or Section 36 affords the appropriate remedy.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

No. 29.—CIRCULAR ENCLOSING FORMS OF PROCEDURE UNDER THE PUBLIC HEALTH (SCOTLAND) ACT, 1897.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 6th May 1898.*

Forms of Procedure under Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897.

Sir,—I am directed by the Local Government Board to transmit to the Local Authority the enclosed copies of Forms of Procedure under the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, which have been prepared under the instructions of the Board.

The Board desire to draw attention to the changes introduced by the Act of last year in the procedure with respect to the removal of nuisances.

In the first place the Statute requires that intimation of the existence of Section 19. any nuisance shall be immediately given to the person who may be required to remove it, and the duty is laid on the Local Authority of giving such directions to their officers as shall secure that this requirement is carried out. The Board suggest that the duty of giving the intimation should be laid on one officer, and that he should be held responsible for its due performance. A form in which the intimation may be made will be found in the enclosed print (No. 10).

Should further procedure be necessary, the next step is the service of a Section 20. notice on the author of the nuisance, or, if the author cannot be found, on the occupier or owner of the premises, requiring him to remove the nuisance. The Local Authority will mark the distinction between the intimation of the existence of a nuisance and the notice to remove it. Both are statutory, but the intimation is a less formal proceeding, which may be carried out by any officer in accordance with a general instruction of the Local Authority. The Notice, on the other hand, appears to be an indispensable preliminary to legal proceedings for the removal of a nuisance. In the opinion of the Board the Local Authority are not entitled to delegate to any officer or person their power to issue such notices. There must in every case be a Minute of the Local Authority, or of a Committee duly authorised, directing that the notice be served. A suggested Form of Notice is contained in the enclosed print (No. 11). The Local Authority, or their Committee thereto duly authorised, Section 14. may empower any officer or person to serve such notices. The authority must be in writing under the hand of the Clerk, and may be either a General Authority or a Special Authority in each particular case. The mode of service Section 159. is provided for in Section 159, and the officer or other person serving the notice should draw up and sign a Certificate of service, duly attested by a witness who was present. (See Form No. 5.)

Additional copies of these Forms may be obtained on application to Messrs. John Menzies & Co., 12 Hanover Street, Edinburgh, price 4d.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

PETITION FOR ORDER TO CLEANSE OFFENSIVE DITCH NEAR BOUNDARY OF DISTRICT.—SECTION 41.

In the Sheriff Court of the County of _____
at _____.

AGAINST

The _____ District Committee of the County Council of the County of _____, Local Authority of said District under the said Act, Defender.

The above-named Pursuer submits to the Court the Condescendence and Note of Pleas in Law hereunto annexed, and prays the Court—

To ordain the Defender to show cause why an Order should not be made by the Court finding that the open ditch now existing upon the lands of A., and extending for _____ yards or thereby near to<sup>2</sup> the boundary between the Pursuer's District and the Defender's District, as shown on a sketch produced herewith, ought to be cleansed, and such permanent or other structural works executed as may appear to the Court to be necessary for maintaining it in a proper and wholesome condition; and thereafter to ordain the Defender to execute such works, and that at the sight of such person as to the Court may seem fit for said purposes; and to find the Defender liable in expenses in the event of opposition hereto.

Condescendence.

1. The Pursuer is the Local Authority of _____, and the Defender is the Local Authority of _____. The Defender's District adjoins the boundary of the Pursuer's District on the west.

2. There exists in the District of the Defender and close to the said boundary an open ditch which runs through the lands of A. for about _____ yards, and then joins a sewer which was constructed some years ago. The said ditch contains a quantity of filth and stagnant water, and is in a foul and offensive condition. Its condition is such as injuriously or dangerously to affect the Pursuer's District. A sketch is produced and referred to showing the boundary between the said Districts and the line of said ditch.

3. In consequence of the condition of said ditch it is necessary that steps be forthwith taken for its being cleansed. The Defender, within whose District it is, has been frequently applied to by the Pursuer to execute the powers conferred by the said Public Health Act for the said purpose, but the said condition of said ditch has not been remedied. The present application is therefore necessary for an Order on the Defender to show cause why said ditch should not be cleansed, and the necessary works executed for that purpose. Reference is made to the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, and particularly to Sections 16 and 41 thereof.

1. Or, person authorised by the Local Authority.

2. Or, forming the boundary, as the case may be.

Pleas in Law.

1. The said ditch being foul and offensive, and being within the District of the Defender, the Defender should be called on to show cause why an Order should not be made for its being cleansed.

2. The Defender ought to be ordained to execute the necessary works.

In respect whereof, etc.,

NO. 30.—CIRCULAR AS TO DISINFECTION.

PUBLIC HEALTH (SCOTLAND) ACT, 1897.

RESPECTING THE OBLIGATIONS OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES WITH REGARD TO DISINFECTION.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 1st June 1898.*

Sir, —In continuation of the series of Circulars which the Board have issued from time to time since the passing of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, I am directed to draw the attention of Local Authorities to the new and comprehensive provisions dealing with disinfection.

The most important of these provisions is contained in Section 46, which empowers Local Authorities to establish disinfecting stations. The means hitherto at the disposal of sanitary officers, especially in rural districts, are now considered inadequate to ensure thorough disinfection; but this Section places it in the power of every Local Authority to provide all the necessary apparatus for disinfection or for the destruction, if necessary, of infected articles, and Sections 141 and 142 enable them to borrow for such purpose from the Public Works Loan Board on the same advantageous terms as for water supply or drainage works or for hospitals. It will also be observed that if the Board deem it necessary they may call upon a Local Authority to provide such means of disinfection, or two or more Local Authorities may combine to provide disinfecting apparatus, or contract to have the use of such appliances already provided by one of the contracting parties. To the public, who are entitled to its use free of charge, the advantages of a disinfecting station cannot be over-estimated, as it not only ensures thorough disinfection of such articles as bedding, but it may also prevent the destruction of articles which would otherwise have been destroyed.

Section 47 describes the procedure in dealing with infected houses or articles.

With regard to the bedding, clothing, or other infected articles which the Local Authority are empowered to remove for the purposes of disinfection, Section 48 provides that these must after disinfection be brought back and delivered to the owner free of charge, and that compensation shall be given for any unnecessary damage or for any articles destroyed.

Section 51 imposes a fine not exceeding £20 on any person who knowingly lets for hire, without previous disinfection to the satisfaction of the Medical Officer of Health, any house or part of a house in which a person has been suffering from infectious disease. This Section applies equally to inns and hotels as well as to private houses.

A similar penalty is attached to the case of a person who, on ceasing to occupy a house in which a person has within six weeks previously been suffering from infectious disease, (a) fails to have the said house disinfected to the satisfaction of the Medical Officer, (b) fails to give the owner or occupier of such house notice of the previous existence of infectious disease, or, (c) on being questioned by the owner or occupier as to the same, knowingly makes a false answer to such question (Section 53). Under Sections 51 and 53 articles liable to retain infection must be disinfected or destroyed. It is noteworthy also that in these Sections the certificate must be that of the Medical Officer of Health. The Local Authority will further observe that the terms of Section 53 (2) are imperative. They must intimate, through their officers, the provisions of this Section to the occupier of any house in which they are aware that there is a person suffering from infectious disease.

Section 56 imposes inter alia a fine not exceeding £5 on any person who knowingly lends, sells, pawns, or otherwise exposes infected articles without previous disinfection.

In the special provisions of Section 57 as regards children attending school from houses where infectious diseases exist, the Statute reiterates the necessity for disinfection.

The preceding Sections have reference mainly to infected houses, and Section 59 provides for a similar procedure being carried out with regard to public conveyances and ships. In addition to these general provisions, there are special regulations (1) under Section 79, when the country is threatened with epidemic disease, and (2) under Sections 96 and 97, in connection with the supervision of common lodging-houses.

It will thus be seen that the Act of 1897 imposes upon Local Authorities powers and responsibilities even in this one branch of public health work greatly in advance of the requirements of the Act of 1867. The Board do not propose to suggest to Local Authorities any particular method of disinfection or to adjudicate on the several processes now recommended by sanitary experts. The various modern systems and inventions are well known, and the Board consider that the selection of a system applicable to the special circumstances of a district is one on which each Local Authority should be guided by the advice of their own Medical Officer of Health.

The Board therefore take this opportunity of withdrawing their Circular of 3rd December, 1874, containing inter alia Instructions and Directions as to disinfection of infected premises, clothing, bedding, &c., and for it this Circular is now substituted. The Board have every confidence in leaving to the discretion of each Local Authority, assisted by their sanitary officers, the details of a scheme of disinfection suitable to local requirements for carrying out these statutory provisions.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,

Secretary.

The Clerk to the Local Authority.

NO. 31.—CIRCULAR AS TO THE INTERPRETATION OF SECTION 57 OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH (SCOTLAND) ACT, 1897.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 7th July 1898.*

Sir,—Within the past few months the Board have been frequently asked for their opinion and advice as to the interpretation of Section 57 of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, and the respective obligations of Local Authorities and School Boards in connection therewith; they therefore deem it advisable to draw the attention of Local Authorities generally to this important subject.

There appears to be a general impression that the provisions of Section 57 as to the prohibition of children from attending school who are or have been suffering from infectious disease or who reside in a house where such disease exists or has existed within a period of three months, apply only to the diseases specified in the Infectious Disease (Notification) Act, 1889. These diseases are Smallpox, Cholera, Diphtheria, Membranous Croup, Erysipelas, Scarletina or Scarlet Fever, and the fevers known as Typhus, Typhoid, Enteric, Relapsing, Continued, and Puerperal. In the opinion of the Board the Section applies, but is not limited, to the above-named diseases. The Board hold that the Section extends to infectious diseases generally, and that Measles and Whooping-cough, for example, are infectious diseases within the meaning of Section 57. The fact that these two diseases are not expressly named in the said Act of 1889 does not, in the opinion of the Board, affect the procedure under the Public Health Act.

As regards the procedure to be followed by Local Authorities in administering this Section, the Board do not anticipate any difficulty with regard to the notifiable diseases. When a notification is received inquiry should be made, and, if it be found that any child in the infected house is attending school, the attention of the parent or guardian should be directed to the provisions of Section 57, and intimation of the case should be given to the Clerk to the School Board or to the head teacher of the school.

It is evident that information cannot be afforded with the same completeness in the case of non-notifiable diseases, but, when there is reason to believe that such cases exist in the district, the Local Authority should intimate to the School Board or to the teachers any cases which may come to their knowledge. They should also, by means of handbills, issue a warning that children who are or have been suffering from infectious disease must not be allowed to attend school until they can produce to the teacher a certificate that they are free from infection, and that the house, &c., has been disinfected to the satisfaction of the Medical Officer of Health or of a medical practitioner.

The Local Authority should explain that the certificate may be given by any legally qualified medical practitioner, and also that the Medical Officer of Health (giving his name and address), if acquainted with the facts of the case, will grant such certificate free of charge.

The handbills should further state that all persons contravening the aforesaid statutory provisions are liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings.
—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Clerk to the Local Authority.

NO. 32.—CIRCULAR REGARDING LOANS TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

LOANS TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

*Local Government Board,
Edinburgh, 21st October 1898.*

Sir,—The reduced rates of interest now chargeable on loans authorised by the Public Works Loan Act, 1897, having led to a large increase in the number of applications for such loans, I am directed by the Board to bring under notice of Local Authorities certain considerations to be kept in view by them in applying to the Public Works Loan Board for such advances for public works.

The Board cannot too strongly urge the necessity of applying for such loans and asking the Board's recommendation before the works are begun, or at least before any payments, which the Local Authority are not to meet out of the current assessment, have been made. It has always been the rule of the Public Works Loan Board that they will not advance money on account of works already completed and paid for out of borrowed money obtained on the security of the assessments. Previously to 1887, this rule had not been extended to the case of temporary advances (such as an overdraft on the Local Authority's account with the bank) which had not been secured over the rates, but since that date it has been applied in every case where money has been borrowed from whatever source.

The above statement of the views of the Public Works Loan Board is confirmed by a recent letter addressed by their Secretary to this Board. He writes:—"As some borrowers appear to consider that the works should be 'actually executed before they come to this Board for a loan, I am to state that it appears to this Board desirable that borrowers should borrow direct from this Board either prior to or concurrently with the execution of the work (and in cases of large sums this Board advance the loans by instalments). Temporary loans would thus be avoided, and are unnecessary. This Board find that so-called temporary loans sometimes run a considerable time, and the borrower very often expects that the term of 30 years named in the Act will be in addition to the term of the temporary loan, and that during the currency of the temporary loan any part of the principal need not be raised

“out of the rates—a course which appears to this Board to be contrary to the “meaning of the Act if it be not illegal.”

The intention of the Legislature was that the ratepayers should year by year pay the interest on their capital expenditure, and a definite proportion of instalment in reduction of the amount of such capital expenditure; but the Public Works Loan Board point out that by the expedient of temporary loans the existing ratepayers escape the payment of these annual instalments, with the result of casting the burden of the instalments which they ought to have paid on their successors. The object of the Legislature in encouraging loans from the Public Works Loan Board is not that the debts of a Local Authority may be made easier, but that the construction of sanitary works may be facilitated by providing Local Authorities with the necessary funds at low rates of interest.

I am also to remind Local Authorities of the practice of this Board to appoint engineers, architects, or surveyors of repute, according to the nature of the works, to report on the efficiency of the scheme for which a loan is required, and it is to the advantage of Local Authorities that the inspection by the Board's Commissioner should be made at an early stage, when they may benefit by his experience and advice. In connection with such inspections, the Board have had frequent occasion to draw the attention of Local Authorities to defects in their schemes, and to suggest improvements. When the works are completed before the application for the Board's recommendation is lodged, it is obvious that any structural alterations which may be thought essential by the Board can only be made—if at all—at a considerable additional expense to the Local Authority.

With regard to the mode of repayment of loans, the usual and, in the opinion of the Board, the most equitable method is that of repayment by equal annual instalments of the principal together with interest on the balance remaining unpaid. The amount payable under this method gradually decreases, and the Local Authority will thus be in a better position to provide for the cost of any further capital works which may from time to time become necessary.

The Board, in their general Circular of 16th November 1897, have already reminded Local Authorities of the various purposes for which loans may now be obtained under the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897; and in addition to these the Board will continue their practice of reporting to the Public Works Loan Board, when application is made to them by Local Authorities, on all loans proposed to be incurred for sanitary purposes, in terms of the Burgh Police (Scotland) Act, 1892.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

G. FALCONAR-STEWART,
Secretary.

The Clerk to the Local Authority.

NO. 33.—EXTRACTS FROM REPORTS FOR 1897 BY SANITARY OFFICERS.

The following extracts from the Annual Health Reports of medical officers and sanitary inspectors have been selected with the object of presenting to Local Authorities and their officers information of general interest on public health work.

These extracts have been published from year to year in the Board's Annual Reports since the Health Reports were first issued by the County Authorities for 1891, and they are valuable as illustrating to a certain extent the progress made in county sanitary administration from that date.

I. ON THE HOUSING OF THE WORKING CLASSES.

(1) ON THE HOUSING OF THE WORKING CLASSES IN ABERDEENSHIRE.

I need not enter into details of the work done in the various districts, as these will be found pretty fully given in the reports by the Sanitary Inspectors. I may merely state that the general progress, which has been so marked of recent years, continues—a progress due not only to the direct action taken by the Local Authorities themselves, but to a greater extent indirectly through the effect this action has produced. One of the ways in which this has operated is the greater care taken by tenants entering upon farms or renewing leases to see that the cottar houses and sleeping places for the servants are in a proper sanitary condition.

One case, which was the subject of litigation last year in the Ellon district, is so important that it deserves particular mention. A crofter's house had been reported by the Sanitary Inspector as being in a very bad condition. As the proprietor declined to carry out any improvements, the Committee took the case into Court. The proprietor's agent pleaded that the tenant by his lease had undertaken to uphold the houses, and otherwise in regard to them had come into the position of the proprietor, but that, under the reservation of this plea, the proprietor would put the house right to the satisfaction of the Court. When this was completed the Local Authority applied for expenses. The tenant, though he had previously desired the Sanitary Inspector to try and get his house improved, took up the position when the case came into Court, that it was in perfectly good condition; that neither he nor any of his family had suffered dishealth, and that the action was due to the "officiousness" of the Local Authority. As no evidence was forthcoming that the house had been in an insanitary state at the time of the tenant's entry, and in consideration of the fact that by a clause in his lease the tenant had undertaken the duties of proprietor, the Sheriff found the tenant liable in the whole expenses of the action, which amounted to £33, besides the tenant's own expenses.

JAMES P. WATT, D.P.H.,
County Medical Officer.

(2) SUGGESTIONS ADOPTED BY COUNTY COUNCIL OF BANFF AS TO THE SANITARY ARRANGEMENTS OF FARM HOUSES, MEN'S SLEEPING APARTMENTS, AND HOUSES OF THE WORKING CLASSES OF THE COUNTY.

Some time ago a series of practical suggestions as to the sanitary arrangements of farm houses, men's sleeping apartments, and houses of the working classes were submitted to the Public Health Committee of the County Council for consideration and approval. The Committee very carefully considered the matter, improving the series wherever improvement was found necessary, and finally sending them up to the County Council, who adopted them at their December meeting. Copies have been sent to proprietors, to factors in charge of landed estates, and to the Clerks of the District Committees of the county. If the suggestions contain nothing new, nothing that has not in the progress of sanitation been already before the public, they contain nothing that is fanciful or extravagant, but much that will be found useful and convenient in dealing with matters coming under this head. The suggestions are as follows :—*

NEW FARM HOUSES.

I. SITE AND ASPECT OF FARM HOUSES.

- (1) That the dwelling-house should occupy, if possible, a dry site, at a higher level than the highest part of the steading, and have a southerly or south-westerly aspect.
- (2) That when a naturally dry site is not practicable, it should be thoroughly drained, and a damp-proof course should be inserted in the walls slightly above ground level.
- (3) That such of the rooms on the ground floor as are floored with wood should be properly ventilated by having the floors one foot above the earth, and air gratings inserted in walls below floor level.
- (4) That the eaves should be spouted, and drains put round the house for carrying off roof and surface water.

II. MEN'S SLEEPING APARTMENTS.

- (1) That the sleeping apartment for farm servants should contain at least 350 feet of cubic space per inmate, and, if on the ground floor,

* These practical suggestions were issued prior to 1st January 1898, when the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, came into operation. Section 181 enables districts other than burghs to make Bye-laws as to Regulation of Buildings, under which the most important objects of these suggestions would be enforced.

- to have a wooden or concrete floor and a fire-place, and at least one opening window.
- (2) That if a portion of an existing building, under the roof of which cattle are housed, is found suitable for conversion into a sleeping apartment, the partition between such apartment and stable or byre should be constructed of stone and lime, brick and lime, or of concrete.
  - (3) That the walls of such apartments should be lined with lath and plaster or with wood, an opening window placed in the wall furthest from the dungstead, and having an open fire-place or stove.
  - (4) That if, under exceptional circumstances, a room situated over a stable or byre is found suitable for conversion into a sleeping apartment, the ceiling of the stable or byre should be plastered; approach to such apartment not to be through stable or byre.
  - (5) That the room should have an opening skylight (or a dormer window) and a fire-place or stove.

III. NEW HOUSES FOR THE LABOURING CLASSES.

- (1) Number of Rooms.—That the number of rooms should not be less than three.
- (2) Site.—That the site should, where necessary, be thoroughly drained.
- (3) Aspect.—That the aspect should, if practicable, be a southerly or a south-westerly one.
- (4) Walls (a).—That the walls should not be constructed of turf or clay.
(b).—That a damp-proof course should be inserted in the walls slightly above ground level.
(c).—That, with the exception of the kitchen, the walls should be lined with lath and plaster or with wood.
- (5) Floors.—That the floors (ground floor), with the exception of the kitchen floor, which should be of concrete or flagstones, should be of wood laid on sleeper joists, which should be at least one foot clear of the earth.
- (6) Height.—That the height of the rooms from floor to ceiling should, with the exception of attics, be not less than 8 feet.
- (7) Light and Ventilation.—That the windows should open from the top, that each room should have a fire-place, and that proper ventilation be provided under all wooden floors.
- (8) Eaves.—That the eaves should be spouted, and drains put round the house for carrying off roof and surface water.

IV. GENERAL.

- (1) That the cubic space in all the above conditions of dormitory accommodation should not be less than 300 feet for each inmate.
- (2) That when the water supply by pump or well is near the steading, the best possible precautions should be taken to protect the supply from contamination.
- (3) That every house should be provided (as required by the Public Health (Scotland) Acts) with proper drainage, ashpit and privy accommodation.
- (4) That the ashpit and the privy, which could be under a common roof, having a stone and lime, or brick and cement, or concrete division wall between them, should, if possible, not be nearer than 10 yards to the dwelling-house.
- (5) With reference to existing buildings, no definite recommendations applicable to all cases can be made. Every case where interference seems called for must be dealt with on its own merits, after full consideration of all the circumstances surrounding it.

JAMES MACKINTOSH,
County Sanitary Inspector.

(3) ON THE CONDITION OF THE DWELLING-HOUSES IN THE HARRIS DISTRICT OF INVERNESS-SHIRE.

There is little alteration to record on the condition of the dwelling-houses in the Harris District since last report; but with the improved means of communication the spirit of improvement is gradually gaining headway all over the district, and will be materially assisted when building bye-laws have been passed. A very considerable reduction has taken place in the number of dwelling-houses in which cattle are kept. In the Southern Division, at 31st December, 6 houses contained 13 cattle; in the Northern Division 7 houses containing 10 cattle, or a total of 13 houses with 23 cattle, as against 25 houses containing 71 cattle at 31st December the previous year. The progress made each year since the Committee resolved to stamp out this class of offence is shown by the following figures:—

|                         |                               |             |
|-------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------|
| At 31st December, 1894— | 167 dwelling-houses contained | 431 cattle. |
| "          1895—        | 87                            | 171 "       |
| "          1896—        | 25                            | 71 "        |

separate byre accommodation having been provided for 408 cattle removed from 154 dwelling-houses within three years.

Mr Stewart, Inspector of the Southern Division, reports that during the year 6 cases of cattle-housing in premises occupied as dwelling-houses have occurred in the Division. The cases have been reported in previous years, but, notwithstanding repeated promises of improvement, matters remain in statu quo. In one particular case the crofter not only houses his cattle with himself in his dwelling-house, but keeps the manure also inside, and absolutely refuses to remove it in face of repeated requests to do so. Such cases require to be definitely dealt with at once.

J. WEDDERSPOON,

County and Chief District Sanitary Inspector.

(4) ON THE CONDITION OF THE HOUSES IN THE PARISH OF BARVAS IN THE LEWIS DISTRICT OF ROSS-SHIRE.

Again it is with regret that it must be observed that but very little progress has been made during the year in the way of general sanitary improvement. Here and there a house of a somewhat improved style has been built; but for every such house at least two of the most unsatisfactory description have been erected. The generality of the houses inhabited by the people is of the most objectionable description; and they can never be otherwise as long as human beings and cattle are housed under the same roof without substantial wall partitions intervening. Not only are the houses faulty, but their surroundings, the drainage, and the pathways are in most cases wretchedly bad.

R. ROSS,

Local Medical Officer of Health.

(5) ON THE PROGRESS MADE IN HOUSING ACCOMMODATION IN THE LEWIS DISTRICT OF ROSS-SHIRE.

The building of houses has been going on rapidly during the year in every parish; several of the new houses are very good indeed, built with two gables, and entirely separated from the byres. The crofters are beginning to realise the benefit of such separation. One of them who built a new byre recently stated to me that since doing so and stabling the cattle in separate stalls on hard dry beds, and cleaning the byre every morning, the cattle require less feeding, while the quantity of milk has nearly doubled. This man built a good house on a dry site, and as there are no squatters about, his surroundings will be clean. Other new houses are built of a better class than the original kind, but as most of them are surrounded by colonies of squatters' houses of a very inferior class, the prospects of cleanliness can be nothing like satisfactory. The squatters are increasing from year to year on the existing crofts in every parish, and there is little difficulty in anticipating what the result will be if there is no action taken to prevent such overcrowding—an epidemic of fever or cholera may occur sooner than may be expected. I must say the District Committee has done much good work since coming into existence. The people are more alive to public health matters, and more particular about their water supplies, and the keeping clean of drains and the surroundings of their dwellings.

RODERICK MACLEOD,

(6) ON THE OVERCROWDING IN CROFTERS' HOUSES IN ZETLAND.

There is another point I would refer to before closing this part of my report, and that is the frequent overcrowding in many crofters' houses, thirteen people and sometimes more sleeping in two small rooms, in one of which all the cooking is done, lines baited, fuel kept, and in some houses live stock in the shape of young pigs and hens. Now, this is a matter of first importance, especially to the young people growing up to be the men and women of the future. Strength and robustness are not likely to be produced under such conditions. I would strongly recommend that only a certain number should be allowed to occupy each room, and if the accommodation is insufficient there is nothing for it but to build additions to the houses. If this recommendation were carried out the health of the community would improve, especially among the younger members of it.

County Medical Officer.

(7) ON THE HOUSING OF POTATO DIGGERS.

On 12th October, 1897, I submitted the following report to the Western District Committee.

Two cases of enteric fever have been notified as occurring at a dairy farm steading in the Western District of the county. On visiting the cases with Mr. Gough, I found as follows:—

The patients are young women, each aged seventeen years, belonging to a gang of potato diggers. The gang had previously been engaged at a farm in Perthshire, and had come to Stirlingshire on the 2nd inst. The two girls had been ailing before they left Perthshire, and the disease was notified as enteric fever on Friday, the 8th inst., by a medical man who had been called in. The whole twenty-one, comprising both men and women, had been lodged on coming to the Stirlingshire farm in a bothy consisting of a single apartment of about seventeen feet square. The patients were lying on straw in a corner. The floor of the bothy consists of earth with an irregular and broken stone pavement. The patients in their illness had received some attention from their fellow-workers. Both were removed to hospital on Saturday, the 9th inst. The water supply for the bothy had been partly from a dip well in an adjoining field and partly from a local gravitation supply used for the dairy farm. There were no sanitary conveniences connected with the bothy, and ground near it was being made a dumping ground for filth. Closely adjoining the bothy there is a disused byre of about the same dimensions. When the potato diggers came to the farm no use was made of this byre, as could easily have been done, for separation of the sexes, but when enteric fever was diagnosed, the nineteen men and women were removed to the byre, the bothy being retained for the two patients. The foreman in charge of the gang explained to me that the accommodation was, on the whole, better than that usually given to potato diggers. I had never myself seen human beings lodged under conditions so utterly indefensible as regards both health and decency. It should, perhaps, be mentioned that the potato diggers were not employed on the farm to which the steading belonged, but on an adjoining farm, the two farms being in the same proprietorship, and an arrangement apparently existing for using the bothy on the one farm for potato diggers on the other. Eighteen cows are kept at the farm, and the milk is sold in Glasgow. The milk sale was discontinued, the owner of the cows finding it more convenient to do this than to send the cows to byres belonging to other farms, in order that the milk business might be carried on from premises free from infection. The Medical Officer of Glasgow was informed of the facts. The whole premises are undergoing cleansing and purification. The potato diggers are in the employment of a firm in Glasgow, which sends them from farm to farm throughout the country as may be required. The duty of finding accommodation for the diggers is said to belong to the farmer. The firm have undertaken to have the diggers and their clothing and belongings thoroughly cleansed, and to keep the gang together so that they may be under medical observation during the next fortnight until the incubation period of enteric fever has elapsed. Their next place of employment is in Dunbartonshire.

It seems to me that the condition of the hop pickers of Kent, of whom so much has been heard lately, can hardly be worse than that of these potato diggers. If the circumstances above narrated represent, or make any approach to representing, a condition of things at all prevalent throughout the country with regard to the business of potato digging, then the whole subject demands urgent attention. Fortunately, no public water supply has any part of its origin at the farm in question, otherwise an outbreak like that of Maidstone might well have resulted. Only one family had been using the dip well resorted to by the potato diggers, and that family will require to be kept under observation. Provided the facts could always be known to Local Authorities interested, the provisions of the existing Public Health Act, and of the new Act which comes into force on the 1st of January, would probably be sufficient to meet such circumstances as are above set forth. The difficulty obviously is for rural sanitary authorities to become aware of the movements of gangs of potato diggers from place to place throughout the country. It might suffice if an addition were made to the law so as to render it compulsory on employers to give due notice of the location and movements of every gang of diggers. The Local Authority could then satisfy itself that reasonable attention was being given to the elements of sanitation and civilisation.

On receiving this report, the District Committee instructed that circular letters be issued to all the farmers in the Western District, asking them to give me intimation when any gangs of potato diggers were expected at their farms. A number of replies were received, and the accommodation provided at a number of farms was inquired into. The arrangements in connection with some farms in Dunbartonshire were also inquired into, and for convenience notes of the inspections of all the farms are appended, excepting in the case specially reported above. The worst accommodation was that at Farm No. 3, where a byre was occupied in common by 17 women and 5 men and 6 calves, there being also in the byre an accumulation of manure at one part and a quantity of chaff at another. The only separation between the sexes, and the only division between the manure, chaff, calves, and potato diggers, was a wooden rail about  $3\frac{1}{2}$  feet high. The whole place was dirty. In most of the other farms cleanliness was reasonably well attended to, though the conditions varied considerably. Inquiry was made regarding 15 farms, and in connection with only 7 of them was there separation of the sexes. One common and serious defect was the want of fireplaces and fires. Barns and byres are not provided with fireplaces, and are, in that respect, unsuitable for the housing of outdoor workers, exposed to rain, and standing all day in the turned-up soil of potato fields. Cooking is usually done in some outhouse, such as the boiler-house or a cart-shed. The duration of stay of the gangs at the inspected farmhouses was very short, varying from 9 days to 2 days. Elaborate provision for sleeping accommodation can hardly be expected for so short a residence. I was told, however, by a foreman of a gang of diggers, that the average stay at farms throughout Scotland is about a fortnight. Something more than is done at many farms ought certainly to be done, no matter how short the visit of the potato diggers may be. Obviously there should always be proper arrangement for the separation of the sexes. That is an elementary requirement as to which there can be no dispute, even though in some gangs some of the men may be brothers of some of the women; and though occasionally the workers themselves may object to use separate apartments they should be compelled to do so. It is also important that reasonable means of heating be provided for general comfort, for the drying of clothes, &c., especially in cold weather. Where no convenient fireplaces exist, iron stoves could easily be provided, and the smoke could be carried off by a pipe passing through a hole in the wall of the barn or byre. Blankets or bed-coverings are carried with them from place to place by the gangs. For bedding, clean, fresh, dry straw is quite satisfactory. In the places inspected, the straw was not always clean, and not always in sufficient amount. Seeing that the floors of barns and byres are, at the best, only of stone pavement, the supply of straw should be abundant to protect the sleepers from cold and damp. Also, whatever the apartments, there should be a reasonable provision for light by windows, and in some places visited this did not exist. Nor were some of the places by any means so clean as they ought to have been. It should be the duty of the farmer to have the apartments thoroughly cleansed and, if necessary, limewashed, before the annual visit of the diggers, and it should be the duty of those in charge of the diggers to see that cleanliness is observed during their occupancy. The air space should not be less than that required in common lodging-houses—viz., 400 cubic feet per head.

The responsibility for accommodation is divided between the farmer and the potato merchant employing the gangs. The usual arrangement is that the potato merchant purchases the growing crop and that the farmer gives some part of his premises for the accommodation of the diggers. I doubt whether the potato merchants are in the habit of making any special stipulation as to the kind of accommodation.

So far as the Local Authority is concerned, it should be the duty of someone, probably the farmer for convenience sake, to give intimation to the Authority a week or two before the visit of the diggers, furnishing at the same time a statement of the accommodation to be provided and the number of diggers. Inspection could then be made by the health officials. Nothing in the Public Health Act provides for notices of this kind, but if a circular were issued by Local Authorities to all farmers in their districts, perhaps information would not often be refused. The facts being once known to the Local Authority, the general provisions of the Public Health Act would probably be sufficient to keep matters right.

In the course of my inquiries, I had an interesting conversation with a very intelligent man in charge of a gang in Dunbartonshire. He stated that about 400 diggers, consisting of about 300 women and 100 men, come from Ireland every year, chiefly from the County Mayo. They remain in Scotland from the beginning of June till the beginning of November. The number of Scotch diggers he put at something under 100, living chiefly in and near Glasgow in the winter, and occupied principally on the potato fields in Ayrshire. He described the Scotch diggers as being generally a worse lot than the Irish diggers, belonging apparently to a worse class of the community. The average length of residence at a farm he stated to be, in his experience, about two weeks, and it has already been noted that this is longer than in any of the farms here reported on. Where accommodation is found in villages, the residence there is sometimes as much as six weeks, work on various farms being carried out from the one centre. The worst accommodation is said to be where the potatoes are earliest and the competition for them greatest. The accommodation provided throughout the country appears to vary greatly in different places. He gave me a list of a number of the worst farms that he had met with, and I have used this information in such a way as to make it likely that some of what are alleged to be the worst farms in the country will be inspected. As to the steps to be taken in the way of remedy, useful information could probably be got in connection with the provision made for hop pickers in Kent.

Water supply by pump well in courtyard; cooking done in courtyard. No separation of sexes.

No. 3 Farm.—A dairy farm, with 20 cows; milk sold in Glasgow. Potato diggers, 17 women, 5 men; duration of stay, about 6 days. Accommodation, a byre, 35 ft. 6 in.  $\times$  25 ft. 9 in.  $\times$  14 ft. = 12,797 cubic feet. The byre is occupied in common by the male and female diggers and by six calves. In one part of it there is an accumulation of dung, and in another a quantity of chaff. There is no separation of the sexes, and the only division between the dung, chaff, calves, and potato diggers consists of a wooden rail about 3 feet

6 inches high. The floor is of broken causeway, sparsely covered with hay. There are ventilators in the roof and five roof lights. The walls and roof are dirty. Another byre, also in a dirty condition, had been offered to the male diggers, but they had refused to occupy it. The cooking is done in an old bothy adjoining the byre.

No. 4 Farm.—A small quantity of milk is sold to neighbours. Potato diggers, 8 men and 7 women; duration of stay, 8 days. Accommodation, a barn, about 250 yards from the farm steading; dimensions, 40 ft.  $\times$  11 ft. 4 in.  $\times$  12 ft. 9 in. = 5502 cubic feet, giving 386 cubic feet per head. The floor is of wood. There are two small roof lights, but no special means of ventilation. The walls, floor, and roof are fairly clean. Gravitation water supply. Privy accommodation. Cooking is done in a cart-shed. There is no separation of the sexes.

No. 5 Farm.—Dairy farm, with 22 cows; milk sold in Glasgow. Number of diggers, 8 women and 7 men; duration of stay, 9 days. Accommodation, a barn, about 250 yards from the farm steading; dimensions, 40 ft.  $\times$  11 ft. 4 in.  $\times$  12 ft. 9 in. = 5780 cubic feet, giving 386 cubic feet per head. Light and ventilation defective; floor causewayed; walls and roof dirty; straw bedding; no privy accommodation; cooking at fireplace in barn. Water supply, dip well in field and a spring in a wood. No separation of the sexes.

No. 6 Farm.—A dairy farm, with 25 cows; milk sold in Glasgow. Potato diggers, 3 women and 2 men. Accommodation, a bedroom in the farmhouse, with a capacity of 1368 cubic feet, giving 273 cubic feet per head. Ventilation good; walls, ceiling, and floor clean. Fireplace in bedroom for cooking. Gravitation water supply. No separation of the sexes.

No. 7 Farm.—Not a dairy farm. Potato diggers, 10 women and 7 men; duration of stay, about 7 days. Accommodation, 2 byres, one for males and the other for females. Byre occupied by the women gives 330 cubic feet air space per head; that occupied by the men gives 514 cubic feet per head. The partition between the two byres is carried only to the wall head. During the first three days' stay of the gang at the farm the numbers were 15 women and 8 men, and the cubic space then was for women 220 cubic feet per head, and for men 450 cubic feet. The byres are well lighted and ventilated, and the walls, floor, and roof are clean. The cooking is done in the boiler-house. There is a gravitation water supply.

No. 8 Farm.—Dairy farm, with 19 cows; milk sent to Glasgow. Potato diggers, 10 women and 8 men; duration of stay, 3 days. Accommodation—a barn for the women, and a granary for the men. In the barn the cubic space per head is 882 feet. The walls and floor are clean. There are ventilators in the walls and roof, and windows in the roof and gable. In the granary the air space is 396 feet per head. The floor is of wood. The walls, floor, and roof are fairly clean. There are roof lights and ventilators. Cooking is done in the cart-shed. There is a gravitation water supply.

No. 9 Farm.—A dairy farm, with 31 cows; milk sold in neighbouring villages. Number of diggers, 13 women, 11 men, and 2 children; duration of stay, 3 days. Accommodation—(a) a loose box, occupied by a married couple, and 2 children (twins) aged 4 years. Air space, 336 cubic feet per adult. The floor is roughly causewayed. There is one roof light. No particular means of ventilation. The walls and roof are dirty. (b) A loose box, occupied by 6 women. Air space is 1254 cubic feet, giving 209 cubic feet per head. There is a roof light and a roof ventilator. The floor is roughly causewayed, and the walls and roof are dirty. (c) A loose box, occupied by 7 women; the air space is 1510 cubic feet, giving 216 cubic feet per head. The ventilation is defective. There is one roof light. The floor is causewayed. The walls and roof are dirty. (d) The men are accommodated in a loft which is open to the barn. The dimensions are 44 ft.  $\times$  23 ft.  $\times$  8 ft. = 8096 cubic feet, giving 809 cubic feet per head. There are roof lights, and ventilation is by the doors and eaves. Walls and roof dirty. Hay is used for bedding. Cooking is done in the loose box (a) occupied by the married couple and their children. There is a gravitation water supply.

No. 10 Farm.—A dairy farm, with 14 cows; milk sent to Glasgow; number of potato diggers, 10 females and 8 males; duration of stay, 3 days. Accommodation—a barn with a loft on each side, the men being on one side and the women on the other. The air space is about 12,000 cubic feet, or 666 cubic feet per head. There is no light nor ventilation excepting from doors and shutters in the gables ; the roof is dirty. The cooking is done in a cart-shed. There is a good water supply from a pump well.

No. 11 Farm.—A dairy farm, with 22 cows ; milk sold in neighbouring villages. Potato diggers, 8 women and 8 men ; duration of stay, 4 days. Accommodation—a granary ; air space, 5670 cubic feet, giving 354 cubic feet per head. The granary is lighted by a window in the gable, and there are five wall ventilators. Another suitable apartment had been offered for the men, but had been refused. The walls and roof are clean ; the floor is dirty, but this is the fault of the diggers. Cooking is done in the boiler-house. The water supply is from a pump well. No separation of the sexes.

No. 12 Farm.—A dairy farm, with 16 cows ; milk sold in neighbouring village. Potato diggers, 9 women and 2 men ; duration of stay, about a week. Accommodation—a byre ; air space, 9435 cubic feet, giving 943 cubic feet per head. Cooking done in an old shed with a fireplace. Good gravitation water supply. One man and all the women stayed in the same byre. The foreman stayed in the farmhouse.

No. 13 Farm.—A dairy farm, with 20 cows ; milk sent to Glasgow. Potato diggers, 14 men and 5 women. Accommodation—(a) an empty byre for the women ; air space, 4703 cubic feet, giving 940 cubic feet per head ; (b) a barn for the men ; air space, 6000 cubic feet, giving 428 cubic feet per head. The cooking is done in an old shed with a fireplace. Good water supply.

No. 14 Farm.—Two gangs were accommodated in villages near the farms on which they were working. Number of diggers, 8 women and 7 men. Accommodation—(a) a kitchen occupied by women, with air space 1200 cubic feet, allowing 150 cubic feet per head. There is a large fireplace, and the walls are dry, but the lighting and ventilation are defective. The floor is fairly clean. (b) A room occupied by 7 men ; air space, 1320 cubic feet = 188 cubic feet per head. The two apartments are separated (or connected) by a passage. In previous years the diggers had stayed at the farm steading, but this year accommodation was got in the village, owing partly to the outbreak of enteric fever which led to the present inquiry, and partly to another farm steading having been burned down during the stay of a gang of diggers.

II. ON DRAINAGE, WATER SUPPLY, AND THE POLLUTION OF RIVERS.

(1) ACCOUNT OF METHOD OF DISPOSAL OF THE SEWAGE OF THE ORPHAN HOMES OF SCOTLAND.

Complaint having arisen as to the pollution of the Gryffe by the sewage of the Homes, having now a population of close upon 2000, and as to prospective pollution from the Consumptive Hospitals, the first of which was in course of erection, Mr. Copland, C.E., was instructed to prepare a scheme for the purification of the sewage of the Homes and Hospitals, and I was requested by Mr. Quarrier to advise as to the method to be adopted. This I did, with the sanction of the District Committee. Mr. Quarrier's only instruction was that no reasonable expense was to be spared in order to secure efficiency.

The selection of a process of sewage purification was not unattended with difficulty in the present unsettled condition of expert opinion on the subject, but I finally decided to advise the adoption of the biological or bacteriological process, with certain safeguards presently to be referred to.

The advantages of the bacterial system are its simplicity and the small proportion of sludge—the bête noir of sewage purification works—which results. The method, as applied to sewage of an infective character, as that from a consumptive hospital, has the further advantage over various methods of purification by precipitation that there is security not only for the destruction of the grosser impurities of the sewage, but for the destruction of the infective bacteria. In the bacterial process, putrefaction, instead of being hindered, is fostered, and the growth of the rapidly multiplying putrefactive bacteria is encouraged. In the closed tanks the "struggle for existence" is not less fierce than in higher spheres, and the comparatively feeble tubercle bacilli are bound to succumb to the assaults of the more vigorous, and overwhelmingly more numerous, putrefactive bacteria.

The first stage in the operations at the Homes was the provision of a system of main sewerage such as would bring the whole sewage of the existing Consumptive Hospital, of the projected series of like Hospitals, and of the Orphan Homes to a common point of outfall. This was a matter of some difficulty, but eventually the major portion of the sewage was brought by means of a system of high-level sewers, and the remaining smaller portion (from buildings situated at a low level) by low-level sewers, to a point between the Homes and the river Gryffe. Here the low-level sewage is pumped up by means of twin water-motors into a high-level sewer, and the whole sewage of the joint establishments is placed in a position to be submitted to a process of purification. Some difficulty has been experienced in preventing the ingress of land water into the sewers, which were at first somewhat carelessly constructed.

At the Purification Works the sewage first enters a grit and screening chamber, which is constructed, like all parts of the works, in duplicate. Here any bulky articles will be intercepted, and the heavier inorganic matter—grit or sand—will be arrested.

The sewage now passes through a pipe, governed by a large ball-valve, into one or other of a pair of closed tanks. In these tanks the sewage will be brought to a pause for a period of not less than twenty-four hours. During this time a double process will ensue—one of mechanical settlement of matters in suspension, and, coincidentally, one of active putrefaction. The process of putrefaction will be most active in the lower part of the tanks, the contents of which cannot be withdrawn beneath a level of four feet six inches from the bottom. Here the organic matter of the sewage will, we anticipate, be fluidified through the agency of the putrefactive bacteria.

After a due period of rest (and putrefactive fermentation) the supernatant disintegrated sewage will be drawn off—skimmed off gently—by "floating arms," without the contents of the lower portion of the tank being disturbed. This supernatant liquid will be discharged through an "aerating channel" into one or other of the cultivation beds. These consist to a depth of two feet nine inches of coke breeze, which affords a very large surface or breeding ground for the nitrifying bacteria, with three inches of gravel on the top. In these beds the principal part of the purification process will be carried on. The routine will be arranged so that the disintegrated sewage will remain here exposed to the action of the nitrifying micro-organisms for a period of sixteen hours, when the purified sewage will be drawn off, and the filters allowed to rest or aerate for eight hours.

Very little sludge results in connection with this process, but full provision has been made for dealing with it. Perforated iron pipes have been laid along the bottom of the closed tanks, leading to a couple of sludge wells, one on either side. Once in six months perhaps the valves will be opened for a short time, when the pressure of the liquid above will force the thicker sludge at the bottom of the tanks through the pipes into the sludge wells, from which it will be raised by chain-pumps.

Such is the process as it is likely to be carried out. But it has been recognised that the biological method of sewage purification is after all still in a probationary stage. This is, I believe, the first occasion on which it has been resorted to in Scotland. A further safeguard has consequently been placed in reserve. Should the biological process not prove the success which is anticipated, it can be supplemented, or even replaced, by a precipitation process. Over the pipe conveying the sewage to the tanks has been erected a precipitating house. In this have been placed ready for use a couple of "lime mixers." In these, by a simple contrivance, slaked lime will be mixed with water. A certain quantity of the lime will be taken up and dissolved in the water, forming "lime water." It is found that lime water is a more efficient precipitant than a stronger mixture of lime and water. The lime water can be added to the sewage in any proportion desired, and very effective precipitation obtained. The addition of the lime water would not in any way interfere with the activity of the bacteria. It is confidently anticipated, however, that the biological process will prove a success, and that no process of chemical precipitation will ever have to be resorted to. Of course, should it be found desirable, the second mixer can be used for a precipitant other than lime.

(2) ON SEWAGE DISPOSAL WORKS PRESENTLY BEING CARRIED OUT AT MOFFAT AND SANQUHAR.

The question of sewage treatment has advanced so far that the Commissioners of the Burgh of Moffat have resolved to construct bacterial tanks after the manner of those in use at Sutton, and the commencement of the work now depends on the acquirement of the necessary ground. Bacterial purification should be, if properly attended to, a complete success at Moffat, which has no chemical or other factory refuse to dispose of, the sewage being that of a residential town.

Owing to the fact that my appointment dates from November, I am not in a position to report fairly on the general sanitary state of the Burgh of Sanquhar during the year. My attention has been directed chiefly to the scheme for draining a portion of the town, which has at the time of writing been practically completed, and the purification of the sewage before it enters the river Nith. The mode of purification selected is that known as Ducat's aerated bacterial tank.

(3) DESCRIPTION OF A WELL WATER SUPPLY FOR THE VILLAGE OF HOPEMAN, ELGINSHIRE.

An abundant supply of good wholesome water has now been obtained for the village of Hopeman. The supply is pumped from a new well 38 feet deep to a reservoir, from which it is distributed through the village by gravitation. A brief description of the works may be here of some interest.

The new well is situated on the upper or south-east side of the village, and is clear of all sources of surface pollution. The formation cut through is clay, soft sandstone, and 16 feet of solid rock. The water enters the well on a bed of gravel at the bottom at the rate of about 40,000 gallons in the twenty-four hours. The sides are built to within 15 feet of the mouth of the well with circular-shaped stone, then up to the surface with brick and cement. The back of the brickwork is lined with cement and clay puddle so as to exclude all surface soakage. A double-barrelled 6-inch pump capable of raising 3000 gallons of water per hour is fitted up on a platform about half down the well. The pumps are worked by Rollason's Patent Wind Motor. The power from the motor to the pumps is conveyed a distance of 50 yards by a wire rope run on grooved pulleys. The water is forced from the well to the reservoir through 340 yards of 3-inch pipes to a height of 75 feet. The reservoir is constructed of cement, and is capable of holding 121,500 gallons of water. The above quantity was pumped into the reservoir in a fair wind in four days, and at the rate at which the inhabitants have been using the water that amount would last for 53 days, so that both water and power are ample, and analyses have shown the water to be of good quality.

County Sanitary Inspector.

(4) ON THE DIFFICULTY OF FINDING PURE WATER SUPPLIES FOR FARMS AND HOUSES.

The difficulty of finding water for farms and houses is in many parts of the country very great, and there can be no doubt that these difficulties will become greater unless the methods of dealing with supplies at present followed by proprietors and their agents are altered. From many conversations on the subject, I gather that it is a prevalent idea that if the supply of a farm be impure, and a spring welling up from the depths of the earth cannot be found within a short distance of the farm, it is impossible to obtain a pure supply, and the Local Sanitary Authority must allow the use of an impure water to be continued.

To a certain extent the difficulties in maintaining the purity of supplies and in finding new ones arise from neglect of the conditions which must be observed having regard to the nature of the sources of water available in this district. Owing to the geological formation of the country deep springs are very rare, but small collections of water occur freely among the superficial clay beds and in the deposits of gravel by the streams. The deeper rocks are generally waterless, consisting as they do in a very large part of the district of porphyry, fissured and pervious.

The available sources are then either surface or subsoil water, and in cultivated land the former cannot be used on account of pollution from farming operations. Whether the water is brought to a farm by gravitation, or is obtained from wells in the vicinity, the source of the water is the same, the subsoil—the source being in one case on high ground at a distance, and in the other in low ground and near. The conditions to be observed if pure water is to be obtained are the same in both cases, and the chief condition is that the fountain heads or wells must be efficiently protected against the entry of surface water from cultivated land.

When we look at the customary method of doing this we find that it is not calculated to effect the desired object. When a spring is found the ground is usually excavated to a depth of from 4 or 5 to 8 or 10 feet, the water is conducted in land tiles to a large tank constructed of bricks and cement, and from there in close-jointed iron pipes to the farm. As soon as the operation is completed the land over the sources is ploughed and manured in the ordinary routine of farming. In other instances wells are sunk in arable land or close to farm steadings and houses; the lining is of stone, with perhaps two or three feet of puddle clay at the top, and when a stone or wood cover has been fixed the soil is replaced, and the ground cultivated and manured as usual.

On action being taken by the Sanitary Authority, the proprietor says the farmer should not have manured the ground near the fountain head or well; while the farmer complains that he is not supplied with pure water, and maintains that he must manure and cultivate the ground he is paying rent for. All this can obviously be prevented by arrangement at the time of letting the farms. A clause in the lease would prevent any disagreement as to the right of proprietors or farmers, but in arranging the lease each of the parties is often disinclined to raise the question of water supply, the farmer knowing that he can at any time secure the interference of the Sanitary Authority, and the proprietor trusting that as the water has been used for many years its purity will not be questioned now.

It is known that if polluting matter, such as manure, is only occasionally applied to ground the surface water is sufficiently purified by percolating through about ten feet of soil; and that therefore if the spring or fountain head, the pipes or land tiles leading to it, and the pipes from it to the cement tank were all at more than ten feet from the surface, it would be possible for the occasional application of farm manure to the land not to render the water unwholesome. These conditions are, however, very rarely found; if the tank or the springs be sufficiently deep, runners or leaders to the spring are nearly always to be found comparatively near the surface. In fact, it is probable that not one in five hundred of the water supplies in this country have every part of the collecting apparatus at ten feet from the surface.

In the case of wells this condition may be more easily obtained, as the sides may be puddled with clay to a depth of ten feet, or the well may be cemented over at that depth; but there may be difficulty in preventing leakage along the sides of the suction pipe, and there is difficulty in obtaining access if the well has to be opened for any reason. This, moreover, only protects from occasional pollution of the surface of the ground, and is of little value when the source of pollution is a leaking house drain or a soil polluted by frequent additions of organic matter, as is frequently the case in the neighbourhood of houses.

It is evident, therefore, that depth is in many instances sufficient to insure the purity of water, but the condition is not always to be obtained, and any old field drains in the neighbourhood, the existence of which has been overlooked, may render all precautions as to depth of no value.

When, however, the surface of the ground is guarded by a layer of good old turf there is little cause for doubts as to the purity of the sources below. Dr. Robertson found that vegetation interfered with the growth of the typhoid bacillus in soil. It is known that the roots of plants are surrounded by enormous numbers of nitrifying microbes. The plant roots ramify through the upper layers of the soil, and carry the microbes with them. The work of Dibdin and others has shown that these are the most powerful agents we possess for purifying sewage, and the life of disease-producing bacilli is short when the soil is already occupied by a vigorous growth of the harmless species. It is therefore the case that a matted bed of turf roots is one of the most perfect filters, and the fact of land being covered with it adds enormously to the safety of waters derived from the soil beneath. The explanation may be only the outcome of recent investigations, but the fact that subsoil water from grass land is safe has long been recognised. The frequent recurrence of the names "Well-acre," "Well-park," &c., shows that our forefathers considered such an enclosure a necessary adjunct to the well. It is probable that many of these parks were only ploughed in the early part of this century, when every patch of ground fit for growing wheat was cultivated.

Reversion to the old practice of sinking wells in grass land would, with rare exceptions, prevent their pollution. In cases where there is no pasture in a suitable situation it would surely in these days, when farmers are all anxious to reduce the labour bill, be possible to arrange to lay down a paddock in grass for the special purpose of protecting the well. Where gravitation supplies are introduced, and the sources are in arable land, the same treatment is necessary. It is, of course, necessary that a certain amount of discrimination be exercised in fixing on a site for a new well. It should be above, rather than below, the level of the farm buildings, and on the side of a farm distant from a stream rather than on the near side.

Unless such old-fashioned methods of obtaining pure water be adopted there is nothing short of such a scheme as that recently under the consideration of the Kelso District Committee—the proposal being that about forty miles of water mains should be laid to supply water to the fifty-five places mentioned in the County Sanitary Inspector's report as without proper supplies. This would mean a rate of 6d. per £ on the whole district; and if all the proprietors charged with the cost of the scheme desired to have the water brought within a reasonable distance the cost would be prohibitive. The large number of comparatively new wells or gravitation schemes by which it is sought to find good water in the polluted soil near houses or within a few feet of the surface of arable fields shows that proprietors, or those on whom they are accustomed to rely for advice, absolutely fail to realise the conditions necessary for obtaining pure water, and they must materially alter their methods if the desired object is to be attained at reasonable cost.

(5) REPORT OF ACTION IN COURT OF SESSION AS TO DISTANCE OF WATER SUPPLY FROM DWELLING-HOUSES.

In connection with the carrying out of the work in this district (Lower Ward), an action of declarator was raised in the Court of Session, which included a finding that the Local Authority are bound to bring a water supply for domestic purposes to Mount Harriet mansion-house, or to within a reasonable distance of the same. The petitory conclusion suggested 100 feet as a reasonable distance, the allegation being made in pursuer's condescendence that the nearest main was 275 yards distant from the house. As the question raised is of wide interest, I would take the liberty of quoting the decision given in this case.

averments are not relevant or sufficient to support the second declaratory conclusion of the summons and the relative petitory conclusion; therefore dismisses the same, and decerns. . . ."

His Lordship gave his opinion in the following terms:—

" . . . This is prima facie a matter of administration, depending on considerations of which the representative Local Authority is the proper party to judge. I do not doubt that the Local Authority, by forming a special water supply district under the sanction of the Sheriff, undertake a duty to all the householders within the district to provide a supply of water for the domestic use of the inhabitants, and probably their duty is to bring the public supply within a reasonable distance of every house. This statement of the duty, however, makes it obvious that the question whether in any particular instance it is duly fulfilled depends on a number of local circumstances very suitable to be ascertained by a local inquiry, but not so suitable for proof in this Court. The pursuer must, of course, have some remedy by which he can enforce fulfilment of a specific duty towards himself incumbent on the Local Authority. The defenders point to Section 96 of the Act (Public Health Act, 1867) as furnishing him with a remedy by summary petition to the Sheriff in case the Local Authority shall fail or neglect 'to perform any duty imposed upon them by this Act.' That section, however, provides that the Sheriff is to be set in motion either by persons in official position or by 'any two householders residing within the district,' so that it may not meet the case of a single householder being aggrieved. But assuming, as I do, that the pursuer has brought a competent action to enforce a statutory duty, I think the claim is of such a nature that it is specially incumbent on him to be full and specific in his averments. He has to make out (so his case is put) that the defenders have not brought the water supply within reasonable distance of his house. In my opinion he has failed to make relevant and sufficient averments to that effect. There is really very little more than an averment that the nearest main pipe is about 275 yards distant. There is no statement as to the number of persons to be served by the extended main, nor as to the cost of it, nor as to the proportion which that cost would bear to the assessable value of the subjects to be served, nor as to the presence or absence of natural sources of supply at or near the house. It is not said that the defenders have omitted to consider the question of 'reasonable distance.' Nor is any case stated of unfair or unequal treatment of the pursuer as compared with his neighbours! If there had been, the pursuer's averments, in answer to the defenders' second statement as to the defenders having 'consistently acted in an unreasonable spirit towards him,' might have assumed an importance which they do not possess as they stand. The particular instances of their unreasonableness are not connected even in averment with the pursuer's grievance as to the water supply to Mount Harriet. All these omissions (and perhaps there are others) are significant, and, upon the whole, I do not think the pursuer presents a relevant case for inquiry on this head."

III.—ON SCAVENGING AND THE REMOVAL OF REFUSE.

- (1) REGULATIONS ISSUED BY ESTATE TRUSTEES, PORT-ELLEN, TO OCCUPANTS OF HOUSES FOR THE PURPOSE OF PROMOTING CLEANLINESS AND DECENCY IN AND ABOUT DWELLINGS.

Islay District.—Dr. Gilmour, Kildalton, reports that "a forward step in sanitary improvement, which cannot fail to be productive of much good, has been taken by the Estate Trustees, who in the month of March issued a circular letter, to occupants of houses, of new estate regulations so practical in their scope and character that I have pleasure in embodying them in this report as useful models for adoption in other parts of the county." These regulations are as follows:—

"The houses shall be kept clean and tidy, and all filth, such as ashes, &c., shall be deposited in ashpits provided for each house. No refuse of any kind shall be thrown on the shore or left lying where it can form a nuisance or appear unsightly.

- “Arrangements shall be made to have all common ashpits periodically cleaned, and each tenant shall pay a fair proportion of the expense incurred. Such ashpits as are exclusively used by one tenant shall be periodically cleaned by that tenant.
- “No poultry shall be kept except in suitable outhouses or enclosures provided for the purpose, and approved of by the proprietor or his factor. In the event of a tenant keeping any hens, ducks, or geese in a dwelling-house, or allowing them to stray from their proper enclosures, the sum of one shilling per head shall be paid to the Parish Council for each offence.
- “The inside walls of houses which are not papered shall be whitewashed or size-coloured periodically by the tenants. The tenants in houses where there are common stairs or passages shall bear their proper share in keeping the walls, steps, and floors clean.
- “Tenants shall give no unnecessary cause of offence to their neighbours, and, so far as possible, live peaceably with each other.
- “No outhouses of any kind shall be erected without the consent of the proprietor, and where tenants are allowed to keep cows all manure shall be removed at short intervals. No straw or hay shall be stacked in back gardens.
- “In the event of these regulations being contravened, the tenant guilty of such contravention may be removed at any time by the proprietor giving one month's notice in writing, otherwise tenancy may be terminated at any term of Whitsunday or Martinmas by either party giving legal notice to the other.”

Each copy of these regulations was accompanied by a notice to tenants intimating that by continuing their tenancy they would be held to have agreed to the regulations, which would be duly enforced after the May term. Another notice requested the co-operation of the feuars in carrying them into effect. A marked improvement, especially in the matter of keeping poultry in dwelling-houses, and of storing all kinds of byre and stable material in back gardens, has already ensued, and though doubtless somewhat of the nature of a brutum fulmen so far as the power of recovering fines from transgressors is concerned, the regulations have successfully attained their object—increased cleanliness and decency in and about dwellings.

(2) CONDITIONS OF CONTRACT IN THE SPECIAL SCAVENGING DISTRICTS IN THE DUNFERMLINE DISTRICT OF FIFESHIRE.

The following memorandum shows the conditions of contract in the Special Scavenging Districts, and also the work for which the contractor is responsible. The conditions are uniform for all the Special Districts, with the exception of Limekilns and Charlestown :—

1. The contractor to cause all the channels and footpaths within the Special District to be at all times properly swept and cleansed.
2. The contractor to collect and remove daily (except Sunday) to the place after-mentioned, between such hours as may from time to time be fixed by the Committee, all the dust, night soil, dung, ashes, rubbish, filth, and manure which may be found on the streets and footpaths within the Special District.
3. The contractor to clean out all privies, common necessities, and cesspools from time to time, and as often as may be fixed by the Committee, and to remove the contents to the place after-mentioned.
4. The Committee to provide a suitable place as a depot for the deposit of dust, night soil, &c., which the contractor undertakes to remove as aforesaid. The contractor to separate the useful material from the useless within the depot. The latter shall consist of all disused tins, cans, and other articles unfit for manure, and these must be disposed of in a rubbish toom provided by the contractor, and protected from danger to animals in every way.

5. The contractor to burn all light materials, such as paper, straw, broken baskets, and boxes, immediately after these are brought to the depot.
6. The contractor to employ such a number of able-bodied men as shall in the opinion of the Committee be sufficient adequately and promptly to carry out the work undertaken. The Committee to have power to order the dismissal of any man whom they may consider inefficient or unsteady.
7. The contractor to provide all implements and materials necessary for carrying out the contract.
8. To facilitate the work of the contractor, the Committee will publish notices requiring the occupiers of premises within the District to cause all their dust, ashes, &c., to be deposited in a suitable box, to be approved of by their Inspector, and placed daily (except Sunday) on the outer side of the foot pavement, opposite the premises occupied by them, not later than the time fixed for the contractor removing the said dust, ashes, &c.
9. The contract to be carried out so as to cause the least possible offence to the public, and in strict accordance with the regulations which may from time to time be prescribed by the Committee.
10. The contract to be for the period to 15th May, and the contractor to state a lump sum for which he will undertake to perform the whole work over that period. Payments to account will be made by the District Committee to the contractor monthly on the recommendation of the Special District Sub-Committee, but so always that a fifth part of the proportion of the contract price due shall remain in the hands of the Committee to secure the due fulfilment of the contract.
11. Should the contractor at any time fail duly and efficiently to carry out the contract in its entirety, it shall be in the power of the Committee, after three days' notice in writing, to place the contract in the hands of another or to carry it out themselves, and to apply the money in their hands towards meeting the extra expense which they may be put to.

G. U. WALKER,

(3) BYE-LAWS MADE BY THE COUNTY COUNCIL OF LANARK FOR REGULATING THE APPLICATION OF SLAUGHTER-HOUSE REFUSE TO LAND AS A FERTILISING AGENT.

The following is a copy of the bye-laws made by the County Council for regulating the application of animal matter to land as a fertilising agent. By way of assisting to carry out these bye-laws, instructions will be issued to the Sanitary Inspectors, who will report through the Medical Officer to the County Clerk any offences committed :—

“Whereas it is provided by the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1889, Section 57, Sub-section (1), as follows :—

‘The Council of a county may from time to time make such bye-laws as to them seem meet for the administration of the affairs of the county, for the prevention of vagrancy, and for prevention and suppression of nuisances not already punishable in a summary manner by virtue of any Act in force throughout the county, and may thereby appoint such penalties, not exceeding in any case five pounds, as they may deem necessary for the punishment of offences against the same ;’

“And whereas the depositing and laying and spreading on land, in the immediate vicinity of public roads and dwelling-houses, of the flesh and blood and offal of animals in a decaying or putrid condition, or allowing these or any of them to decay and become putrid while so deposited or laid or spread on such land, and uncovered as hereinafter mentioned, creates a nuisance in the sense of the Act above quoted, and one that is not already punishable in a summary manner by virtue of any Act in force throughout the county of Lanark, and it is expedient that bye-laws be made to prevent and suppress such nuisances :

"Therefore, and by virtue of the powers above quoted, the County Council of the County of Lanark have made, and do hereby make, the following bye-laws for that purpose :—

- "1. In the following bye-laws 'flesh,' 'blood,' and 'offal' shall mean flesh, blood, and offal of all animals, including beasts, birds, and fishes ; and 'top-dressing' shall mean the application of flesh, blood, and offal which have not been mixed with other material or treated in such a way as to prevent the exhalation of noxious smells therefrom, to land as fertilising agents, by merely applying these to the surface of the ground without afterwards ploughing or digging them into the ground.
- "2. No flesh or offal shall be applied to land as top-dressing.
- "3. No blood shall be applied as top-dressing within one hundred yards of a public road, or within two hundred yards of a dwelling-house not in the occupation of the occupier of the land.
- "4. All flesh and offal to be applied to land shall, by ploughing in or digging in, be covered with earth within forty-eight hours after being carted or otherwise carried out to the land for spreading.
- "5. No flesh or offal to be applied to land as fertilising agents shall be applied within two hundred yards of a dwelling-house not in the occupation of the occupier of the land.
- "6. Every accumulation or deposit of flesh, blood, or offal, whether in a pit or in a heap, shall be efficiently fenced against access of dogs.
- "7. No accumulation or deposit of flesh, blood, or offal shall be within one hundred yards of a public road or within two hundred yards of a dwelling-house.
- "8. Every accumulation or deposit of flesh, blood, or offal shall within twelve hours after it is begun, as well as within twelve hours after every addition to or removal from it, be covered with earth or other efficient material in such a manner as to prevent the exhalation of noxious smells therefrom.
- "9. In the conveyance of flesh, blood, or offal destined for application to land along a public road, such flesh, blood, or offal shall be properly covered up from public view, and shall be so conveyed that none of it shall be caused or allowed to fall on such road.
- "10. Any person offending against these bye-laws shall be liable in a penalty, not exceeding in any case five pounds, for each offence.

"Made by the County Council of the County of Lanark at their statutory meeting held on Tuesday, 21st December 1897.

"W. ALSTON DYKES, County Clerk.

"County Offices, Hamilton, December, 1897."

JOHN T. WILSON, M.D., D.P.H.

(4) ON A NUISANCE CAUSED BY STRANDED BOTTLE-NOSED WHALES.

The Ardnamurchan District Committee had to contend with a nuisance that seldom falls to the lot of a Local Authority. About the end of July upwards of sixty bottle-nosed whales entered Loch Eil, which forms the division between this county and Inverness, at the northern side of the parish of Ardgour.

They wandered in the upper reaches of the loch, the majority failing to find the proper channel to return at the narrows opposite Corpach. At all events 27 stranded on the Argyll side of the loch between the end of July and the beginning of September. The whales were of various sizes, measuring from 11 to 24 feet in length. Those that stranded about high water were in the course of three days in a putrid state, and had a very offensive smell. The sea beach being rough with rocks and boulders, to bury the carcasses at a sufficient depth was almost impossible. The easiest, and best method found to get rid of the nuisance was to drag the carcass out into deep water and sink it by means of sandbags attached.

WM. CAMPBELL,
County Sanitary Inspector, Argyll.

(5) SAME SUBJECT.

During last summer a school of whales, numbering from 60 to 70, entered Loch Eil through the narrows at Annat, and being unable to escape back to the open sea were literally starved to death in the confined channel. Day after day their carcasses floated to the surface, and were cast by the tides on to the beach on either side of the loch. The stench arising from those decomposing bodies was something beyond description, and measures had to be taken to remove this phenomenal nuisance. It was found that the most effective method of doing so was burial on the sea beach, and I thus disposed of 35 carcasses at the moderate outlay of 6s. each.

Sanitary Inspector, Lochaber District of Inverness-shire.

IV. ON HOSPITAL ACCOMMODATION, NURSING ARRANGEMENTS, AND DISINFECTION.

(1) DESCRIPTION OF VICTORIA HOSPITAL, DUNOON.

This hospital was approaching completion at the end of the year, and has since been opened for the reception of patients. It is built on a site above the Dunoon Cemetery, and overlooking the estuary of the Clyde, with a gentle slope to the south-east. The area of the ground is 2 acres, 3 roods, and 18 poles, and was acquired for an annual feu-duty of £43, 16s. It is surrounded by a high substantial stone wall.

The hospital buildings consist of an administrative block and offices, a porter's lodge, and three separate pavilions or cottages, each containing a nurse's duty-room and two wards, with baths and lavatories. The ward blocks are 60 feet apart, while the administrative building and offices are at a distance of 95 feet. The porter's lodge is situated at the entrance gate.

All the buildings are one storey in height, and are built of whinstone, with projecting roof; the rebats of the doors and windows are of freestone.

Ward Blocks.—These are built in a line. The middle cottage, intended for scarlet fever, has one ward for 8 and another for 4 beds. The other two blocks have two wards each for 2 beds. These are intended for enteric fever and diphtheria, or for isolation of doubtful cases, as may from time to time be found necessary. 2000 cubic feet air space and 144 square feet of floor space are allowed per bed. The walls of the wards are hollow, with the inner part of brick. The inner lining of the walls consists of hydraulic cement in the scarlet fever and enteric wards, and of Keene's cement in the isolation wards. The walls of the bath-rooms, lavatories, and passages are tiled 4 feet 6 inches high. The floor of the wards and nurses' rooms, which have an air space beneath of several feet, consists of pitch pine polished and waxed, of tiles in the passages, and granolithic in the bath-rooms and lavatories. Large case-hung windows are provided on each side of the wards. The ventilation is otherwise provided for by Hopper arrangement at the top of one or more windows in each ward, by Sherringham wall ventilators, and Munn's extractors in the roof, and the heating by Buchan & M'Intyre's ventilating grates. All the corners are rounded, and care is otherwise taken to prevent inequalities which might harbour infected dust.

The fittings of the bath-rooms and lavatories are of Doulton's enamelled fireclay—baths, basins, sinks, and simplicitas pans in w.c.'s.

The administrative building contains a staff-room, matron's parlour, and bedrooms for matron, nurses, and servants, with kitchen stores and other offices.

The caretaker's cottage consists of a room and kitchen, with scullery, coalhouse, &c.

The offices contain a wash-house and laundry, disinfecting room, mortuary, boiler and ambulance sheds, ashpit, and coal and other stores.

A B. Reck's steam disinfecting apparatus has been provided, its ends projecting on each side of a partition wall, so that infected clothes are put in in one chamber, and when disinfected are taken out into the other room.

The laundry and wash-house are fitted with white-ware tubs, boiler with hot water from steam-heated tank, and drying closet with two horses steam-heated.

All the offices have an inner wall covering of hydraulic cement and granolithic floors.

The drainage is discharged into the burgh sewer. Iron pipes are used inside the building and glazed fireclay outside, with Buchan & Hart's intercepting traps.

The water supply is from the town main, hot and cold water being supplied to all parts of the hospital.

Roads and walks have been made from the entrance gate and between the different buildings. The ground is being tastefully laid out in plots for grass, flowers, and shrubs.

The cost of the hospital has not yet been finally made up, as the caretaker's cottage is not completed, but it is reckoned to be somewhere about £8000. The permanent staff to be provided and their salaries are as follows:—

|                                |     |     |     |                  |   |   |            |
|--------------------------------|-----|-----|-----|------------------|---|---|------------|
| Physician                      | ... | ... | ... | £25              | 0 | 0 | per annum. |
| Matron Nurse                   | ... | ... | ... | 50               | 0 | 0 | „          |
| Nurse                          | ... | ... | ... | 30               | 0 | 0 | „          |
| Caretaker and wife (Laundress) | ... | ... | ... | 60               | 0 | 0 | „          |
| Servant                        | ... | ... | ... | wages not fixed. |   |   |            |
| Clerk                          | ... | ... | ... | 25               | 0 | 0 | „          |
| Treasurer                      | ... | ... | ... | 10               | 0 | 0 | „          |

Other nurses and servants will be employed as required.

Draft regulations have been framed for the management of the hospital, and are at present under the consideration of the Hospital Board.

ROGER McNEILL, M.D., D.P.H.,
County Medical Officer, Argyll.

(2) DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF DARNLEY HOSPITAL.

The hospital is most centrally situated on the road between Nitshill and Thornliebank, about half a mile from Nitshill railway station, at a point at which roads from Paisley, Barrhead, Pollokshaws, and the eastern portion of the district converge. The front of the hospital faces the highway, and has a southern exposure, the pavilions running approximately north and south. The site is level, and no under building save what was necessary to secure due ventilation under the floors has been required.

The block plan was based, as in the case of Blawarthill and Johnstone hospitals, upon practical experience. The hospital was designed for the isolation of three separate diseases. As the scarlet fever patients will be greatly in excess of those suffering from other diseases, the major portion of the accommodation—the whole of the western pavilion—is reserved for that disease. And as an immense preponderance of the scarlet fever patients will be children, the rear ward was made double the size of the other, and as it has been furnished mostly with cots it can receive from three to four times the number of patients for which the front or male ward is designed. A small cheerful room has been provided, opening off the large ward, capable of accommodating two adults or four children, but intended primarily for use as a convalescent ward or play-room. A similar small ward opens off the front ward, and will be used for special cases or for the reception of private patients.

The eastern pavilion is structurally divided into two absolutely disconnected sections, the front and larger section being intended for the isolation of enteric fever cases. This section also is provided with a small two-bed ward for convalescent patients or special cases. The rear section is intended for the isolation of a third disease, or for an overflow or convalescent ward for scarlet fever in times of exceptional epidemicity.

The administrative block is situated midway between the two pavilions, and is connected with them by means of a corridor with a cement floor, roofed over, and having lateral wooden screens rising from six inches above the floor level to a height of four feet six inches.

* * * * *

All the nurses' duty-rooms or ward kitchens are arranged so as to overlook the wards, including the small special wards, and are provided with tiny cooking ranges—the only fireplaces in the pavilions—for keeping the patients' food warm.

Forming part of the administrative block, but entering from the corridor outside of it, is a small two-bed observation ward with bath-room, lavatory, etc.

Sleeping accommodation for the female staff is provided in the administrative block. The mechanic occupies a three-roomed cottage, and the janitor and stoker a room in the stable block. The mortuary is so arranged as to enable the friends of patients who have died to view the remains without being exposed to the risk of infection.

A discharge block in three sections, with a bath in the central section, has been provided to facilitate the disinfection of patients, more particularly of scarlet fever patients, as they are discharged.

A van-house affords accommodation for the ambulance, a covered van for the removal of infected clothes, and a spring-cart for their return. In the same block there is also provided a two-stall stable, a harness-room, and boiler-house, as well as a workshop for executing repairs, and a tool-house. The horsing of the ambulance at the hospital will immensely economise time, and will render the procedure for the removal of cases to hospital much more precise and satisfactory.

A greenhouse has been provided to maintain a supply of plants for the wards, and seated verandahs with plate-glass screens at the ends have been constructed at the south ends of the pavilions, where the patients can sun themselves in favourable weather, and where on visiting days patients' friends can see and converse with their relatives separated only by a pane of glass.

The pavilions are ventilated on the "Propulsion" system. Customarily in the propulsion system the air is heated at a central point, and thence pumped through underground brick passages to the parts where it is to be distributed. In this method there is a considerable waste both of heat in the underground passages and of propulsive power through friction. The Committee adopted a suggestion which I made, and the air is heated and begins to move only at the points at which it is required for use, and it is distributed in circular ducts of galvanised iron carefully insulated by a succession of layers of thick felting enveloped in a covering of painted canvas. An insulated steam pipe and an insulated wire are led from the boiler-house and engine-room to a sunk chamber at the entrance to each pavilion, where the steam pipe is connected with heating coils of piping and the wire with a small electro-motor. Fresh air is drawn down a duct from a height of six feet above the ground level, through a screen kept continually wet so as to cleanse the entering air, and having a coil of piping exterior to it as a provision against frost, through the coils of steam piping, through the electrically-driven fan, which propels it into the circular ducts to escape into the wards through a series of apertures placed along one side of each ward near the ceiling. The air escapes from the wards through exit gratings placed near the floor on the same side as that on which the fresh air enters—the arrangement which experience has shown to produce the most thorough circulation of the entering air through an apartment. The flues from these exit gratings are connected with an extract shaft terminating in a ventilating owl above the ridge. In each ward, with the exception practically of one, there are valves for regulating the amount of air introduced. For lack of such a valve the rear enteric fever ward has been found in winter weather to become much too warm.

tamination of the atmosphere in winter is reduced to a minimum. The bed-head movable lamps are also of great utility in the examination of patients at night and in dull winter weather. The security against fire in a system of lighting by electricity instead of gas is obvious. Accumulators have been provided for the maintenance of the night supply of electricity through the six months of the year in which the demand is smallest, and in this way the necessity for having a man on night duty is obviated for half the year. The "stoker" will be employed for only the winter months. It has been found that in the months of October and March, with only a small number of patients, the wards can be kept sufficiently warm and well ventilated without the use of the propulsive fans by means of the current induced in the inlet ventilating shafts by the coils of steam piping and the aspirating action of the cowl.

The hospital has a connection with the system of the National Telephone Company, and has a private connection with the house of the medical superintendent. There is also a private telephone installation over the hospital, which can be centred at the matron's bedroom at night, so that, for instance, a nurse on night duty can in case of necessity communicate with the matron at any time without leaving her post. Electric bells have been liberally supplied as a supplementary service.

The laundry has been equipped with all modern labour-saving appliances, and has attached a store for the reception of the clothes in which patients enter, after they have been cleansed. There is also a Reck's disinfector—largest rectangular size—with provision for drying bulky articles after their removal from the disinfector.

As a provision against fire, in addition to external hydrants, internal hydrants with hose attached are provided in each pavilion to meet any emergency.

Sewage purification tanks have been laid down.

The cost of the hospital, including the site (which has been purchased outright), with furnishings and all appliances, has been about £14,300. The accommodation is equal to the requirements of 42 patients, allowing 2050 cubic feet per patient. In consideration, however, that the great majority of the patients will be children I have provided 60 beds and cots.

The hospital is managed by a Committee consisting of nine members of the District Committee and seven representatives of the burghs concerned.

(3) ON NURSING ARRANGEMENTS IN ARGYLLSHIRE.

In my last annual report I drew attention to a scheme proposed by the Duke of Argyll for the provision of "District Nurses" in the county. The practical utility of the movement has been demonstrated. Nurses have already been provided for Kilbrandon and Kilchattan, for Strachur, Stralachlan, and Kilmodan, for Kilcalmonell and Kilberry, and for South Knapdale and Glassary. I am informed that others will shortly be provided for Craignish and Kilmelfort, and for Kilmeny and Kilarrow; while it is intended to have two or three more started before the end of the year.

The county has, under this scheme, been divided into districts, and Committees with able secretaries are appointed in each district. Seven Argyllshire women are in training in hospitals for the work, and it is intended to have others trained as required. The training of suitable Argyllshire women as fully-qualified nurses is of itself a great benefit to the county, independently of the value of their services afterwards to the community.

With a view to supplement the fund and enable the Central Committee to assist localities, I understand that the Duchess of Argyll intends to hold a bazaar in the St. Andrew's Halls, Glasgow, beginning on November 23rd next. I would respectfully draw the attention of the members of the Council and District Committees to the importance of this scheme, and trust that every endeavour will be made to make it a success. Under the new Public Health Act, Section 66 (d), Local Authorities have power, subject to the consent of the Local Government Board, to employ nurses to attend persons suffering from infectious diseases in their own houses. The nurse appointed under the above scheme for Kilbrandon and Kilchattan has already done good service in this way during an outbreak of typhoid fever in that parish, and has in addition saved the Lorn District Committee a considerable sum of money. It is for the Council and Committees to consider whether it is possible for them under the Statute to contribute to the central fund. The nurses provided would, as in Kilbrandon, undoubtedly prove of great service in other parts of the county.

All who have experienced the difficulties of treating the sick without the assistance of trained nurses cannot but wish success to this praiseworthy effort to supply a felt want. The amount of money needed to make efficient provision over the wide area of this county appeared to some so large as to render such a scheme impracticable. I would, however, venture to submit that in this as in other matters the cost can be rightly estimated only by comparison with the benefit which the outlay will secure. The services of trained nurses, as all who have had experience of them attest, are of the highest value, and once secured will not willingly be dispensed with. The scheme which is meant to provide trained nurses for even the more outlying districts of the County is deserving of the hearty support of all interested in the welfare of the sick and suffering.

(4) ON THE PROVISION OF NURSES FOR THE INSULAR DISTRICTS OF INVERNESS-SHIRE.

Nurses and nursing is what are specially required in these islands to get rid of the dense ignorance that prevails in connection with infectious diseases. There are two classes of nurses which are required, but which must not be confused. There is the parish or district nurse, who would attend to all cases of illness except infectious diseases. The county is rapidly being mapped out into districts, each of which is provided with a nurse of this description, the expense, in some instances, being entirely borne by generous proprietors, in other instances by local subscriptions; and if a small central fund were provided to supplement local contributions the whole county would soon be divided into districts, each having its special nurse. Jubilee nurses are not of much use in the Highlands unless they attend to midwifery cases.

The other class of nurse, whose duty it is to attend solely to the treatment of infectious diseases, is best obtained from some central institution, and the Northern counties might unite to support a home for infectious disease nurses. I have, however, never experienced any difficulty in obtaining skilled nurses for infectious diseases, and at the time I write this there is a skilled nurse from Edinburgh in the remote island of Minglay—an island so remote that it is easier to reach America than to get there—attending to an epidemic of infectious disease.

(5) ON NURSING ARRANGEMENTS IN ROSS AND CROMARTY.

I have had to devote a considerable portion of my time and attention to the county scheme for providing fever nurses. These women have undoubtedly proved of great service, not only in relieving the suffering, but also in helping to check the spread of disease. There have been three main difficulties in working the scheme. First, of course, is the great trouble in securing proper nurses willing to undertake the work; second, as we foresaw, the complications arising, with only a limited staff, in providing for several simultaneous outbreaks, and third, the feeling, both with patient and doctor, against withdrawing a nurse from a convalescent patient when her services are required at the bedside of another who may be, as it has happened, in the stage of furious delirium. It is difficult to get the friends of the sick to see that they are not entitled to a lease of the services of the attendant when these cost them nothing, while, on the other hand, the burthen on the ratepayers may be more than the latter are inclined to bear. Hence the need for stringent regulations and firm administration on the part of the head of such a nursing staff. Without such absolute authority I see no way of dealing satisfactorily with infection except in special hospitals.

WILLIAM BRUCE, M.D., LL.D.,
County Medical Officer.

(6) ON NURSING ARRANGEMENTS IN SUTHERLANDSHIRE.

The settlement of the nursing of fever cases is rendered much easier than it used to be, for in the 1897 Act, while power is given to a Local Authority, as before, to provide a hospital, there is a most valuable additional power to "employ nurses to attend persons suffering from infectious diseases in their own houses." A great deal might be said on the subject, but any action taken at this early stage must be only of a tentative nature, and Local Authorities in the Highlands cannot be expected to do much more than feel their way, gradually evolving improvements on a simple system, which is the only one possible at the beginning. A highly-trained hospital nurse, with ideas matured only in a hospital, would have the greatest difficulty in accommodating herself to the want of personal comforts she was accustomed to, and might expect only in the houses of the well-to-do. But what we want is a class of nurse who is somewhat acquainted with the ways and habits of our poorer people, many of whom are in one, two, and three-roomed houses (where infectious cases mostly occur). The population, especially at nights, is of necessity rather crowded in each room. Where is the nurse to stay in such a class of house, and especially where is she to take a few well-earned hours of repose in quietness? I always deemed the County Nursing Association, under the skilful presidentship of Her Grace the Duchess of Sutherland, to have shown the maximum of sense and foresight in appointing as nurses for general purposes in their respective parishes those women who were known to understand the ways and habits of the native people, and who already, in a most wonderful manner, have successfully adapted themselves to their varying environments.

My view is, that if that class of woman is rendered available for the purposes of satisfying the requirements of Section 66, then the fever-nursing problem is so far solved, and at present negotiations are proceeding between the County Council and the Executive of the Nursing Association as to the conditions and terms on which, from its existing or a supernumerary staff, to be specially provided, two or three or more nurses might always be at the call of the County Council.

A fixed annual subsidy from the Council would need to be paid in consideration of services of nurses retained, and a scale of payment for active services of nurses employed, would seem to be the most workable business arrangement; and I have no doubt but if the Association took in hand to provide the Council with the same class of nurse for fever nursing there would be satisfaction given to the local doctors under whose professional charge the patients were, and also to the patients and their friends; and it would be my duty to see that the money of the Council, granted for a specific purpose, was being spent for value received in the interests of the public health.

In the event of the County Nursing Association deciding to refuse the duty of purveying such a class of nurse, on the ground that such work as the regular nursing of fever cases was not contemplated in the framing of their constitution and rules, and was, in fact, outwith the scope of their constitution, then, if no indication was given that the County Nursing Association might be put on a broader basis, the County Council would have to move in another direction—viz., to provide and keep their own staff of nurses in the county, or to negotiate with an institution in some of our cities of the South for the supply of the necessary number and kind of nurses that might be required.

And this brings me to the consideration of the class of persons for whom provision must be made. Granting that the provision of nurses is an alternative to the provision of hospitals, or in supplement thereto, presumably what will obtain in the one will hold in the other. So it follows that those persons, in terms of Section 54 of the 1897 Act, who, "suffering from any infectious disease, or without proper lodging or accommodation, or so lodged that proper precautions cannot be taken for preventing the spread of the disease, or lodged in a tent or van or in a room occupied by others besides those necessarily in attendance," are the special class for whom nurses, medicines, and medical attendance are to be provided. There is nothing to forbid the Local Authority making arrangements for the nursing of all infectious cases in their district; but inasmuch as, even in large cities, there is not hospital provision for all such, it is hardly to be expected that the Local Authorities in Highland counties will have to make provision for more than the limited class of persons who, in a hospital district, would, by voluntary consent or Magistrates' warrant, go into such isolation as could not be obtained in their own homes—all in the interests of the protection of the general community—the patients of course receiving, as some compensation for the interference with their liberties, suitable treatment and maintenance entirely at the expense of the Local Authority.

V. ON THE CAUSE, ORIGIN, AND DISTRIBUTION OF DISEASE.

(1) ON TYPHUS FEVER AND OVERCROWDING.

As is well known, typhus fever is a close attendant on overcrowding. This is exemplified by the statistics of overcrowding. For this year the Eastern and the Southern Districts are at the top—263 cases having been taken before the Magistrates from the former and 259 from the latter. 42 cases of typhus out of the 53 cases from the whole city were taken out of these two districts. The short table following shows the progress of overcrowding during the past six years, and the punishment meted out to the offenders:—

| Year. | Cases brought into Court. | Admonished by Magistrates. | Fined. | Amount of Fines. |
|-------|---------------------------|----------------------------|--------|------------------|
| 1892  | 772                       | 469                        | 303    | £69 8 6          |
| 1893  | 1,344                     | 810                        | 544    | 99 19 0          |
| 1894  | 1,372                     | 986                        | 386    | 66 9 0           |
| 1895  | 973                       | 644                        | 329    | 60 9 6           |
| 1896  | 1,163                     | 751                        | 412    | 73 4 0           |
| 1897  | 1,033                     | 584                        | 449    | 89 14 4          |

It must be explained that all the above are the grosser cases, as no case is taken into Court where the house contains only one person or two children in excess of the legal number. It is to be feared that little real progress can be made in diminishing, far less eradicating, this social disease until the penalties become more severe. I endeavoured to show in a previous report that it pays the persistent overcrowder to keep on sinning. As a general rule, he can from conviction to conviction make off his illegal lodgers from four to five times the amount of the penalty at present exacted from him. Until it cannot possibly pay him we will have this type of sinner with us—battering, on the one hand, on the low and lost of our population, and, on the other, on the proprietor, whose house is misused for the purpose. During the year I tried the project of notifying the proprietor or factor that certain tenants were twice convicted of overcrowding within two months, and demanding that he should evict them. This was successful in several instances, and I propose to extend the practice.

(2) LABORATORY INVESTIGATIONS AS AN AID TO DIAGNOSIS.

I have, as in former years, carried on laboratory investigations to clear up the diagnosis of doubtful cases of disease reported to me by practitioners within the county, and with great satisfaction I have to state that this work has been much appreciated by those who applied for help, and especially in suspected cases of diphtheria, typhoid fever, and consumption.

(3) ON THE NOTIFICATION OF ERYSIPELAS.

The number of cases of erysipelas reported during the past year was 87, being the lowest recorded for any year since the Notification Act came in force throughout the county. As I have frequently pointed out, the notification of this disease is not of much use for sanitary purposes. Although upwards of 900 cases of erysipelas have been reported and investigated in the county since 1892, there has been no instance in which it was apparent that the disease spread by contagion or infection to other members of the community. Before the days of antiseptics and bacteriology, when sanitation was almost unknown, serious outbreaks of erysipelas occurred in the surgical wards of hospitals, and the only other risk of transmitting the infection would seem to be in the case of women in child-bed, when it is apt to assume a dangerous form. There is no well-authenticated instance of erysipelas having been conveyed by water or milk or other food.

(4) ON THE CAUSES OF INFANTILE MORTALITY IN THE HIGHLANDS AND ISLANDS.

"Regarding infantile mortality, I think one of the causes, and probably the chief one, is that the people won't procure medical attendance at confinements. Another is that the women do a great amount of manual labour and have poor food, and that must certainly have an influence on the fetus. One thing that struck me while resident in Uig was the large number of women who died in child-bed, and who never had a medical attendant, a medical certificate of death not being deemed necessary in many cases. The decomposition of excretal matters of both men and animals close to the bedside of the lying-in woman must certainly have a very bad effect on such a woman, and as personal cleanliness is at a discount it is no wonder that puerperal fever is so rife. One thing I can't understand is why some of the inhabitants who have been in the South, and derived benefits from living amidst sanitary surroundings, can return to their native place and not try to work any improvement in their old home." This state of matters, so graphically described by Dr. Wells as existing in Kilmuir, is incidentally corroborated by Dr. Macdonald, who was formerly Medical Officer of Kilmuir, and is now Medical Officer of Harris, in his report, in which he states that the housing of cattle in their dwelling-houses is not nearly so prevalent in Harris as in Skye.

(5) OUTBREAK OF SCARLET FEVER IN THE COWAL DISTRICT OF ARGYLLSHIRE DUE TO MILK—UTILITY OF HOSPITAL.

The first case of scarlet fever notified in this district was in the Parish of Kilmoran on the 28th May. The source of infection was not traced, and the disease did not spread. It next broke out on the 25th August at Innellan. On September 5th a case was notified from Lochgoilhead. "The patient," Dr. Halliday remarks, "was promptly isolated, and all the other members of the household removed, and practically quarantined," with the result that no other case occurred in that district. On the 20th of the same month a case was notified at Strone. The patient is stated to have taken ill "the day after going home after spending a fortnight in Dunoon, where he was probably infected." The district appears to be exempt from the disease again until October. On the 18th of that month I received a wire from the County Councillor for Kilmun to the effect that an outbreak had occurred in a dairy farm and in the village of Kilmun. I immediately wired the local Medical Officer to make inquiry and take the necessary action, and got a reply that the milk supply from the farm was stopped. On visiting the locality, I found that there was a rumour of sore throat being prevalent in the district, but the first family which could be positively proved to have first suffered from scarlet fever was that of a milkman engaged on Orchard Dairy Farm. His little boy appears to have taken ill, on the 10th October, with vomiting and sore throat, followed by a red rash on the skin, but was not seen by a doctor till the 15th, who at the time was evidently not able to diagnose the case as scarlet fever. On the 11th, a little boy, son of the tenant of Orchard Farm, took ill at school with vomiting, and was sent home. In this case there was no recollection of sore throat, but there was that of a reddish rash which appeared on the skin the following day or the day after. The same medical man is stated to have visited this case on the 15th, but he could not certify it as scarlet fever. Four others took ill in the same farmhouse—on the 16th and 18th—while on the latter date two were taken ill in the milkman's cottage. All these showed symptoms of scarlet fever when Dr. Banks visited the farmhouse on the morning of the 19th, and advised that the distribution of the milk should be stopped. This was done at once by the farmer. The milk was distributed on the morning of the 19th for the last time. A considerable number who took the milk on the 19th boiled it before use, as they were told that scarlet fever was in the farmhouse. The children in the farmhouse were isolated so far as practicable in a room off the kitchen, but those in attendance on them mixed with the other inmates. One of the servants had sore throat on the 16th, but, so far as I could ascertain, there was no rash noticed. Her tonsils were enlarged and inflamed at the time of my visit, with prominent papillæ on her tongue. This girl kept at her work up to my visit on the 21st, and milked the cows along with the other girls. The milkman also, living in a nice, roomy, well-kept cottage, although not suffering from the disease himself, was, when at home, necessarily exposed to infection. The danger of the contamination of the milk with the streptococcus scarlatinae becomes at once apparent, not only during the milking of the cows, but during its storage and distribution. The result was a rather sudden outbreak of scarlet fever, at first confined solely to those supplied with milk from Orchard Farm. A few cases—some of which may have resulted from secondary infection—occurred afterwards. The dates of attack or beginning of illness in those that came under notice were as follows:—October 10th, 1 case; 11th, 2 cases; 12th, 2 cases; 15th, 3 cases; 16th, 4 cases; 17th, 3 cases; 18th, 5 cases; 20th, 1 case; 22nd, 1 case; 23rd, 1 case; 24th, 2 cases; 25th, 1 case. After this there was no further case in the district of Cowal till November 23rd, when one occurred at Sandbank, which had no connection with the above outbreak.

The Isolation Hospital at Dunoon was at the time approaching completion, and the Hospital Board at once undertook to furnish the scarlet fever block to enable the District Committee to isolate persons suffering from that disease. 18 of the 26 cases residing under conditions favourable to the spread of infection were isolated in the hospital; 2 had died rather suddenly, and precautions were taken to prevent the spread of the disease from those who remained at home. The houses were at once disinfected, with the result that the outbreak was stopped almost as suddenly as it started.

The medical practitioner in attendance on the cases at the dairy farm was prosecuted and fined, under the Infectious Diseases (Notification) Act, for not notifying cases forthwith, and the farmer was convicted under the Contagious Diseases Act, but no penalty exacted.

The Dunoon and Cowal Isolation Hospital has thus already enabled the District Committee to stamp out this outbreak in a few weeks. Were the patients allowed to remain at home (many of them in small houses with large families) others would have become infected, and the disease would have spread gradually from them in spite of any amount of vigilance on the part of the local Medical Officer and Sanitary Inspector—the probability is that the disease would still be lingering in the district. It will thus be seen that not only was much sickness and misery and perhaps loss of life prevented among the community in Kilmun, Strone, and Blairmore through the provision of the Isolation Hospital, but that a large amount of money was saved. At the same time it must be kept in view that if the disease were allowed to spread in Kilmun it would not have ended there, but gradually have extended to other places. As it was, the source of infection in two cases of scarlet fever in Glasgow was traced to this outbreak.

(6) ON THE DANGER OF ALLOWING PERSONS SUFFERING FROM SORE THROAT TO ENGAGE IN DAIRY OPERATIONS.

It is gratifying to note the improvement which is taking place in many dairies and cowsheds. Dairy men are fortunately themselves becoming more alive to the necessity of cleanliness, freedom of water supplies from the risk of pollution, and the need of guarding against any source of infection.

The view which I expressed some time ago as to the danger of allowing persons suffering from sore throat to engage in dairy operations* received striking confirmation in an outbreak at Ayr, which occurred in January of the present year. For the facts I am indebted to the courtesy of the Local Government Board and Dr. Riddall, M.O.H. for the Burgh of Ayr. These may be summarised as follows:—Between the 3rd and 6th of the month Dr. Riddall received fifteen notifications of scarlet fever. Twelve of the cases notified were found to be getting milk from a farm, which was at once visited, and all the inmates examined. No definite symptoms of scarlet fever were found, but three were suffering from “slight sore throat” and one from swollen glands of the neck. The people were examined three days later by Dr. Riddall and the County Medical Officer, Dr. Macdonald. Both of them failed to find any definite symptoms of scarlet fever, or anything beyond the sore throats. The cows were examined by a veterinary surgeon, who found them in a perfectly healthy state. The milk was obtained only from the cows on the premises, and the conclusion Dr. Riddall came to—that the sore throats were in reality scarlatinal and were the source of infection—seems the only one that was open to him.

(7) TYPHUS FEVER AND OVERCROWDING IN THE CALDER DISTRICT OF MID-LOTHIAN.

A now rare visitor, namely, typhus fever, came to the Calder District towards the close of the year. Ten cases in all were notified up to the end of December, although other two occurred subsequently. The history of the outbreak is briefly as follows:—The infection was brought from Ballina in Ireland, where the parents of one of the families had an attack before leaving. Two of their children were seen medically on the 11th November 1897, and had a history of severe sickness during the passage to Scotland. The nature of their illness was suspicious, and it is now believed that they were suffering from typhus of about the twelfth or fourteenth day of the disease at the date of the first medical visit. Precautions were taken to prevent possible spread, but the warning was disregarded, with the result that the family in a neighbouring house, and a visitor from a village near, were infected.

Twelve days after the arrival of the first two suspected cases from Ireland, five persons living in the same house were attacked, and two in the house next door. The visitor from the neighbouring village was attacked ten days after his visit to the first house (and his sister in the beginning of January 1898 was laid down). In the second house thirteen people were living with less than 100 cubic feet of air space per inmate, and in this case it was necessary to apply for a Sheriff's warrant for compulsory removal owing to the parents of three of the cases refusing to allow of their going into hospital.

(8) OUTBREAKS OF TYPHUS AND OTHER INFECTIOUS DISEASES IN INVERNESS-SHIRE.

The District Committees have recognised their responsibility in connection with infectious diseases, their prevention and treatment, with the result that, in spite of many difficulties peculiar to this great county with its forty-nine inhabited islands, much quiet work is being done. At the time I write this there is, in the remote and inaccessible island of Minglay, a skilled fever nurse, where I suppose there never was a nurse before. In the mainland the treatment of infectious disease is a comparatively simple matter, but it is very different in the island districts, and during the past year there have been several fatal epidemics, one especially in Eriskay and South Uist, which culminated in the loss of a valuable life—that of Father Rigg. This loss, and other circumstances in connection with the epidemic, showed in a striking manner some of the difficulties that have to be contended with in the treatment of fever in the West. The name Eriskay is, I daresay, not familiar to many. A yachtsman will perhaps remember it from the old ruin perched on the summit of the highest cliff, a feature in the outline of the outer islands as seen from the sea, and would have been told if he had inquired that this old ruin is known as “Caistal a Bhrebedar” of Weaver's Castle, and that it was the home of pirates in the days when the Norsemen swept the seas. A Jacobite will remember the name well, for it was there that the unfortunate Prince Charles Edward Stuart landed on the 2nd August 1745, and there Boisdale met him and tried to dissuade him from entering upon the enterprise which ended so dismally on Culloden Moor. In connection with the landing there is a pretty story still prevalent in Eriskay. The spot where he landed is carpeted with a beautiful flower, the “Convolvulus Solandella,” and it is said that this flower was planted by one of his companions as a memento of the occasion, and has flourished ever since on the spot he landed. But Eriskay during the past year came prominently under my notice for other reasons. It was visited by a severe and mysterious epidemic. Hardly a single individual out of the whole population of 460 escaped. It appeared first of all about the beginning of March, and attacked a few individuals. In April Eriskay fishermen had to leave their fishing grounds and return home, and about 100 people soon became affected. The disease continued to spread until nearly all the inhabitants were affected, and in four months there were in all 19 deaths, giving a death-rate per 1000 per annum of 123.9. In the month of July I received information from the Rev. Allan Macdonald of the alarming state of matters, and at once communicated with the District Clerk, and made arrangements to visit Eriskay without delay. When I arrived at Lochboisdale I found the disease had spread to South Uist, and that Father Rigg was dangerously ill, and in spite of the most careful medical attention and skilful nursing Father Rigg succumbed to the disease.

I recognised that there was more than mere influenza, and that undoubtedly, although the disease at first apparently had been influenza, owing perhaps to the weakened state of many of the people, typhoid fever had been developed, and that Father Rigg suffered from an attack of typhoid fever of a most malignant type, and of such an irregular form that it was difficult to decide whether it was typhoid or typhus fever. The way he contracted it is easily explained. He had been in constant attendance upon a family named Macintyre, who lived in South Lochboisdale. The father of this family had attended to and confined his father in Eriskay, afterwards returning to South Lochboisdale to his wretched home there, where he took ill, and it was there that Father Rigg was in constant attendance, doing the most menial but noble services. As soon as I had diagnosed the nature of the disease, prompt measures were taken to prevent its spread in South Uist, and, with the exception of a few isolated cases, no more occurred. About the last case was that of Widow Macinnes, a pauper, mother of Mrs Macintyre, who died of the disease, and the circumstances of her death were publicly investigated by the Local Government Board. I may say, as a result of the enquiry, that Dr. Lamont was highly complimented by the Local Government Board on what he had done in connection with the case. The people of Eriskay are very kindly towards one another, and considering that there was neither a resident doctor nor a nurse, they did all in their power to cope with the outbreak; and when I visited the island early in August they were busily engaged in improving the state of their houses, which compare most favourably with others in more prosperous localities.

The name of fever among many people in the West appears to scare them. They look upon it as a plague to be avoided at all hazards, and therefore sometimes seem to be unkind in their relations one to another. This state of matters can only be remedied by education and the spread of knowledge. This fear of infection I observed in a marked degree among the large gathering who assembled to attend Father Rigg's funeral. I asked for volunteers to help me to place him in his coffin, but there were none. However, it mattered not, as his brethren in the priesthood did all that was necessary. Then, in connection with the death of Widow Macinnes, Dr. Lamont graphically describes what he had to do in connection with that case:—"I went on Tuesday afternoon to see the body coffined. I waited for three hours, and the coffin did not come. I went back again on Wednesday. The coffin was left about fifty yards from the door of the house of the deceased. The friends and neighbours were all collected for the funeral. I said to the people, 'Who are going into the house to bring out the body?' They said they were not going into the house; they said they were afraid of the fever. I went into the house myself to have a view as to how things were, and I found that it would be useless to bring the coffin into the house owing to the narrow space. I therefore formed a plan of breaking down a window directly opposite the bed. I got a man to assist me in breaking down the window after giving him a gill of whisky, and after working for a short time he threw down the spade. I had therefore to do the work myself. I afterwards thought it better to get the body carried out, and put it in the coffin at the door. It was by aid of a rope which I tied to the body that I got the body pulled out, and with the assistance of the joiner already referred to, I got the body put into the coffin at the door. The joiner would not screw down the lid of the coffin owing to fear. I had to do that myself. The coffin had been covered with tar. The joiner and I carried the coffin for a distance of fifty yards. The coffin had been left outside the door, and the joiner and I pulled the body and put it into the coffin. The joiner stood outside and pulled the end of the rope. The people were standing at a distance of fifty yards waiting the funeral. All these people saw what we had to do. The coffin was afterwards carried away for burial."

Another epidemic of fever attended with loss of life was a severe outbreak of typhus fever at Sconser, in the parish of Portree. This is a typically insanitary township, and it is not surprising that typhus fever should have broken out. When it was diagnosed the Skye District Committee and their officials acted energetically, and had four of the cases removed to Portree to the Fever Hospital there; and a case having occurred in the schoolhouse, the school buildings were converted into a fever hospital, and other patients treated there. There were sixteen cases in all, and three deaths.

Another outbreak is interesting, from the method adopted by Dr. Macdonald, Tarbert, Harris, to prevent its spread. Typhoid fever having broken out in one of the most insanitary houses in Tarbert, Dr. Macdonald got several bell tents, pitched them near the house, and removed all the members of the family (eight in number) to these tents, and converted the house into a hospital, and successfully treated the case, and prevented the spread of the disease.

Later still, belonging, indeed, rather to the present year, comes the information of a serious outbreak of measles in the remote island of Minglay. At the request of the District Committee I have sent a skilled nurse to this island—a journey which was accomplished under great difficulties. A correspondent in Minglay writes:—"Three deaths in the same family inside nine days disposes the people to look upon the whole thing as altogether a mysterious visitation and plague, so much so that the old man and his wife would not get anyone to go into the house to lift out the heavy coffins; they had to drag them out." Nurse King writes me that there have been four deaths—all adults. The fourth death occurred the night before she arrived in the island, and thinks that the deaths are simply due to not being properly nursed, want of cleanliness, and overcrowding. Since Nurse King arrived there has been no further death, and it is to be hoped that the people of Minglay will permanently benefit by her visit to them.

The difficulties peculiar to the treatment of infectious diseases in the island districts are very great. The poverty of the districts has to be considered, their congested state, the ignorance and prejudice of the people, and their neglect of the most rudimentary attention to sanitation. These are all important factors which have to be considered. Many thousands of pounds might be expended on the erection of hospitals without much benefit. To select the sites of hospitals would be a difficulty. On which of the forty-nine inhabited islands are hospitals to be erected, and once erected much expense would have to be incurred in making arrangements for upkeep and for medical attendance. I have always maintained that the best method is to improve the condition of the houses of the people, and make them fit to be hospitals, and so, instead of removing people in open boats in stormy seas, to bring the hospitals to their doors by sending a skilled nurse to attend to them. Father Macdonald, whom I specially asked for his views on the treatment of infectious diseases in Eriskay, makes a valuable suggestion when he suggests movable hospitals, which could be put up at any point, and would be especially useful as a home for the nurse. The large districts which at present medical men have to attend to, and the small pay attached, is a problem which needs solving. The great bulk of the people, while not paupers, are so poor that they cannot pay for medical attendance, and a medical man cannot be expected to undertake long, arduous, and even dangerous journeys in the certain knowledge that he will not be paid. The new Public Health Act, however, gives power to employ nurses and to pay for medical attendance, so that as far as infectious diseases are concerned there will be a great improvement; but that is only a small part of the subject, and the number of uncertified deaths tells, I fear, a sad tale of poverty. The people must gradually be more firmly dealt with. They must be made to give up their faith in filth, and be compelled to keep their houses and their surroundings in a cleanly state. To do this it is absolutely necessary that there should be a trained sanitary inspector constantly patrolling the islands to see that these measures are carried into effect. Another difficulty is the provision of pure water supplies. This is a very difficult problem that can only be solved by the expenditure of a large sum of money. The Rev. Allan Macdonald writes as follows:—"I had a note from the doctor (Lamont) yesterday announcing that he had given up the club system. That practically leaves us without a doctor, as the people are too poor to pay fees such as the doctor may demand for each special visit. Seeing that the Government take such trouble to tell doctors what they are to do, and constitutes itself so directly their masters, I think they might, like other honest masters, pay their servants. The Medical Officer of places so constituted, as so many rural parishes in Inverness-shire and the islands, should have a certain grant from Government to raise his salary to £200 independently of his private practice, which is nearly nil as far as remuneration goes, and a tabulated scale of salaries should be fixed according to rental, to be paid by tenants and occupiers in districts coming under this arrangement, and this should be collected with the other assessments of the parish, attendance upon all, paupers and others, to be compulsory. At present the medical system has a screw loose. For paupers, who are a very small minority, there is ample provision. For the class who are most numerous in these islands—the very poor—there is no provision except an unreliable one, as is seen in our case in South Uist at present. I don't know what is being done in preparation for any future outbreak of fever in these parts. One thing that is the result of last year's outbreak is that the necessity of at once securing a nurse, or nurses, is recognised in case of any future outbreak. A fever hospital in a central place in Uist would be a white elephant. Nobody would go to it, and nobody could be got to convey fever patients there, and it is probable that as many deaths would result from the transfer of patients from Eriskay to such an institution as from insanitary conditions at home. There should be a small wood and corrugated iron house kept in a central spot in the parish, to be forwarded to any place where an outbreak might occur. This would be the nurse's house, and would be fitted up close to the house she would have to attend. If there were more than one district infected more of these houses could be procured. It would be a cheap, rational, and effectual way of treating cases."

(9) ON PHTHISIS AND OTHER TUBERCULAR DISEASES.

I would also draw the attention of the Council and of the Committees to prevalence of tubercular diseases in the county, and to the necessity of taking such steps as may be considered practicable with a view to lessen the number of deaths caused by them.

During the past six years, 1891-96, 7·3 per cent. of all the deaths in the county (rural) have been caused by consumption; 1·6 per cent. by tubercular diseases other than consumption. The proportion must, however, have been considerably higher, for in a very large number of cases, as may be seen from my annual reports, the cause of death is not given. The registrars have given additional 58 deaths from consumption, but I did not reckon them as such, as the cause of death was not certified.

The following table gives the mean proportion of certified deaths from consumption and from other tubercular diseases per 1000 of the population in the seven districts of the county during the years 1891-96 inclusive:—

|-----------------------|---------------------------------|----------------------|
|                       | Pulmonary Consumption.          | other than Phthisis. |
| Lorn ... ..           | 1·121                           | ·269                 |
| Mull, ... ..          | ·880                            | ·180                 |
| Kintyre, ... ..       | 1·378                           | ·377                 |
| Mid Argyll, ... ..    | 1·407                           | ·419                 |
| Cowal, ... ..         | 1·326                           | ·260                 |
| Islay, ... ..         | 1·057                           | ·039                 |
| Ardsnamurchan, ... .. | ·958                            | ·336                 |

Of the number who died from consumption (phthisis), 23 per cent. were from 15-25 years of age and 63 per cent. from 25-60. That is to say, about 86 out of every 100 died between the ages of 15 and 60—the most productive and useful portion of human life.

Of the number who died from tubercular diseases other than consumption, 17 per cent. were under 1 year of age, 32 per cent. from 1-5, and 25 per cent. from 5-15. That is to say, 74 out of every 100 died while under 15 years of age.

Compared with other rural parts of Scotland, tubercular diseases cannot be regarded as excessively prevalent in this county. I have worked up statistics to show the mean death-rate from these diseases during a series of 5 or 6 years in different counties all over Scotland, and found that although the mortality in Argyll is higher than that in some counties it is lower than in others. That, however, does not do away with the fact that these diseases are excessively prevalent everywhere, and that every endeavour should be made to guard against them.

With a view to find out whether or not this disease is prevalent among animals (milch cows in particular), I communicated with veterinary surgeons practising in various parts of the county, and they were good enough to inform me that tubercular diseases are prevalent among milch cows in all their districts. One gentleman writes me:—"In my opinion about 40 per cent. of mature Ayrshire cattle are more or less affected." In one fold including animals of all ages, excepting stirks, tested by tuberculin he found that a percentage of 80 were more or less affected. Another gentleman writes :—"Tuberculosis is common in the district ; that is to say, in almost every dairy there is one or more affected." Another states :—"Tuberculosis is common among cattle in my district ; the percentage is much greater than is generally suspected, especially among milch cows." Another remarks that "10-15 per cent. of milk cattle, I believe, will be pretty near the mark." With the exception of one district, it is stated by the veterinary surgeons that tuberculous meat is to their knowledge sold and eaten, and they all state that the milk of tuberculous cows is sold to the public mixed or not with the milk of healthy cows. When not sold it is made into butter and cheese. One gentleman informed me that to his knowledge "the milk of a tuberculous cow was sold until she could not rise. She was then slung and her milk mixed with other milk used to feed calves, with the result that 10 out of 15 of them died of mesenteric tuberculosis, as proved by post mortem examination." Another relates that on examining pigs fed with whey and meal on a farm where to his knowledge a high percentage of the cows were tuberculous, he found on slaughtering three full grown pigs, which were ailing, that the whole three were affected with tuberculosis, in all of which the lungs were full of tubercular nodules. Several pigs previously slaughtered on the same premises had been similarly affected. On this farm the milk was not sold but made into cheese, which, of course, was bound to contain tubercle bacilli as well as the whey.

Although the disease is probably much less prevalent among cattle in this county than is the case with cows kept in town cow houses, yet there is undoubtedly some danger to the public health through the consumption of tuberculous meat and milk, and more particularly of the latter, as it is generally consumed raw.

Although "tuberculous matter is seldom or never found in the milk when the udder is not diseased," it must be kept in view that the udder of a tuberculous cow may become diseased at any time.

In the case already quoted, where the pigs contracted tuberculosis by drinking the whey, my informant was not able to detect udder disease in any of the cows. A tuberculous cow, therefore, even when the udder is to all appearance healthy, can scarcely be regarded as in a safe condition to supply milk to the public.

(10) ON THE RETENTION OF TYPHOID INFECTION IN THE SOIL, AND THE CONDITIONS WHICH PROMOTE IT.

The care of medical attendants and the action of the sanitary officers in the great majority of cases prevent small outbreaks extending widely ; but the measures taken, such as disinfection, etc., do not appear to have much effect in preventing the recurrence of isolated cases. It is frequently difficult to find any cause ; the water may be slightly polluted with surface water, but if that be taken as the cause it is not easy to account for the fact that other users of the same water are unaffected by it.

On inspecting the house no very serious nuisances may be found ; nothing sufficient to account for the origin of fever. There may be a fairly good drain or gutter, and the piggeries may not be very near the dwelling. While, however, it is impossible to find any nuisance on which proceedings could be taken in a court of law, it is rare that the following conditions are not present :—Liquid refuse is habitually poured on the ground near the house door ; there is leakage from the drain, or a gutter is roughly paved and uneven so that it is not easily cleansed ; manure from the piggery or other solid refuse is lying in heaps near, or is scattered over the ground, and the house and the surroundings are decidedly damp for many months of the year. While not being so bad as to attract the attention of every chance visitor, the conditions are such that the soil on which the house stands and the surroundings generally are permeated with organic matter. Such a condition of the soil has long been known to favour disease, but it is only of late that more exact knowledge on the subject has been obtained. The fact that the microbe or bacillus which causes typhoid fever will live about fourteen days in water shows how it is possible for the pollution of a well to cause an outbreak of disease, but does not account for typhoid fever recurring in the same place at intervals of years or months. Now, however, Dr. Robertson, Medical Officer of Health for Sheffield, has, by a series of laborious experiments, shown that the bacillus will thrive and multiply in soil, but is killed by the cold of winter. When, however, the soil is mixed with small quantities of organic matter the bacillus can withstand cold, and on the return of warm weather again becomes active. Dr. Sydney Martin confirms these experiments by another series, and further demonstrates that if clean soil be taken, which has never been manured, there is not only no multiplication of the bacilli, but that they are rapidly killed off. There is a remarkable similarity between the means Dr. Robertson employed to keep his specimens of bacilli alive and the conditions which exist at many dwellings. Dr. Robertson sowed liquids containing the typhoid infection or germ in patches of soil in the open air. After a period of cold weather he was unable to find active bacilli in the patch of earth treated, but on applying an organic liquid the bacilli were resuscitated and active growth occurred. In one experiment when infected liquid was applied to soil at a depth of 18 inches it increased so as to appear on the surface, and in another the growth was found on the surface of wet stones. As Dr. Robertson's cultures kept their vitality in soil for over a year, there can be little doubt that natural cultures may exist for long periods.

Similar experiments are being carried out at many houses in the country. A case of typhoid fever has occurred in a cottage, the soil is contaminated by house refuse or the discharges of the patient. If the soil be clean the living infection will not spread, and shortly will perish, but unfortunately the soil is rarely clean. Just as Dr. Robertson fed his cultures with small quantities of organic liquids, so liquid refuse is daily thrown on the ground near the house, and the infection is not only enabled to exist, but even to increase in quantity. Some heavy rain or other accidental circumstance introduces it into the well, with the result that another inexplicable outbreak of fever occurs.

Here Dr. Robertson gives us an explanation of the means by which harm is done by the filthy surroundings of houses—a condition which has repeatedly been remarked on in these Reports and in those of almost every medical officer in the country. To have a clean soil near cottages there are four points to be attended to:—1st, Animals cannot be kept in close proximity. 2d, There are few situations where a properly constructed privy can be dispensed with. 3d, For the disposal of solid refuse a well constructed ashpit is necessary. This should be near the house so that it may be used conveniently, and it should either be cemented in the bottom or roofed over to prevent rain washing the contents into the ground. 4th, For the disposal of liquid refuse a tight-jointed drain is necessary, together with suitable gullies and dish-stones. Gutters are often preferred, but are not so good, as their cleanliness depends on the care of the cottagers, and if fever occurs in one house the infected refuse must pass the others in the open, and when dried on the sides is, in the form of dust, very likely to spread infection.

To prevent infection reaching the well proper protection against surface water is essential.

Another interesting investigation by Dr. Christopher Childs, on the condition of polluted soil in the town of Munich, brings out the fact that when soil has been permeated with organic matter it requires from ten to twenty years for it to be cleansed by natural agencies. This fact has an important bearing on the question of improving the quality of water in wells fouled by water which is derived from polluted soil. Steining, puddling, and cementing will only improve the quality of the water when the pollution is carried in by surface washings, but when the soil near the well has been soaked for years with the leakage from drains or middens these partial measures can do no good, and nothing less than a new supply from clean soil is required.

VI.—MISCELLANEOUS EXTRACTS ON SANITARY MATTERS.

(1) ON UNCERTIFIED DEATHS.

The number of deaths recorded that are uncertified by a medical practitioner still continues to be large, and is much to be deplored. This state of matters exists principally in the Western Islands, and while there are some excuses, owing to the extent of the districts and their remoteness from medical assistance, still far too many people are allowed yearly to die without receiving any medical attendance or any skilful nursing. I fear this state of matters will continue unless the Crown take cognisance of the number of uncertified deaths and institute inquiries. During the past year, of 51 deaths in the parish of Kilmuir, 34 were uncertified; of 75 in the parish of Duirinish, 49 were uncertified; of 46 in Portree, 24 were uncertified; of 71 in North Uist, 32 were uncertified; of 80 in South Uist, 59 were uncertified; and of 44 in Barra, 27 were uncertified. If the statistics of five years are taken, the result is still more striking. In five years there have been the following number of uncertified deaths:—In Duirinish, 218; Kilmuir, 140; Portree, 128; North Uist, 112; South Uist, 170; and Barra, 105. It is pleasant to turn to the other side of the picture and refer to the parishes where nearly all the deaths are certified; and in striking contrast to the state of matters that exists in the North of Skye, in the parish of Sleat only 2 out of 35 deaths recorded were uncertified; and, taking the statistics of the past five years, only 20 deaths were uncertified in that parish. The parish with the lowest record of uncertified deaths in the County is Ardersier, where, during five years, there have only been three uncertified deaths.

(2) THE BEST METHOD OF DISCHARGING THE DUTIES OF A SANITARY INSPECTOR.

Greater attention is now being paid to drainage, water supply, and plumber work than at previous times; more accurate and scientific methods of carrying out work are being adopted, and are, as a matter of fact, absolutely necessary for the protection and preservation of health. The large and increasing number of cases in which proprietors and others ask for advice and act upon our recommendations may safely be taken as an indication of this, and a proof of the growing interest in matters relating to public health work in all parts of the county. This is very encouraging, because it shows that headway is being made and that the work is appreciated. It is also worthy of mention that no legal proceedings have been instituted or taken in connection with any of these cases. I have at all times tried to arrange a meeting with the authors of nuisances, and, if possible, point out on the spot how best to carry out improvements, and in this way a large amount of really good work has been executed. Much can be done in this way. It may be a little slower to do this, but very often one succeeds in getting more work done upon premises than would otherwise be the case. Moreover, it is more agreeable to all parties concerned, for I have found few people who are pleased to have a statutory intimation or notice served upon them relating to a nuisance. That, at any rate, has been my experience, and I can safely say that, so far as my observations have gone—and I have had exceptional opportunities as a public official extending over a period of 19 years—they have tended in the direction of convincing me that the best and safest way to solve the many and difficult public health problems lies not so much in enforcing stringent Acts of Parliament and regulations, not so much in compulsion, but more of persuasion and advice. I have always endeavoured to work on these lines, and in the majority of cases have succeeded, though there are exceptions to every rule.

ADAM MORRIS,

Late County Sanitary Inspector, Roxburgh.

(3) ON POLICE SERVICES.

The policemen in the various parishes will, I have no doubt, be glad to offer suggestions as to the necessity of builders taking all preliminary steps before beginning to build. Regulations will also apply to rebuilding of old houses. The police staff would also confer a service of great value if they sent in to the Council lists of dwelling-houses which have a local history as being associated with ill-health of the occupants, e.g., rheumatism, consumption, cancer, and all sorts of infectious diseases; and also lists of houses in bad repair, or which look to them as insanitary. Inspectors of Poor, I find, are only too glad to receive hints or advice as to improvements required in paupers' houses.

A list of houses in which dwell one or more lodgers (not common lodging-houses) would be a necessity, to enable the Council to decide whether regulations should be made to prevent overcrowding or other insanitary conditions in this class of lodging or boarding-house. In some towns all houses below a certain rental are liable to be put under regulations.

The utilising of the members of the police staff is not a novelty in this County, because during all the past years reports have constantly been sent in by the Chief Constable to the Sanitary Inspector and myself by voluntary arrangement. In the future a still larger use of the police officials will be made; and at present a scheme is being prepared to enable the parish policemen to send in reports, and take action on definite matters, in supplement of the endeavours of the sanitary staff.

(4) THE SUM OF THE BENEFITS CONFERRED BY NOTIFICATION AND ISOLATION.

It is, however, to be remembered that the death-rate from an infection is a very poor index of the benefits conferred by notification and isolation. Death is the ultimate and most severe injury that any disease can inflict. But, short of death, there may be disablement—permanent or temporary; loss of wages; loss of employment; loss of education; increase of home labour; increase of sickness outlays; increase of worry, anxiety, annoyance; disorganisation of the household; general impairment of social efficiency. All these it is possible to prevent. If, instead of the death-rate, we could apply a gauge to the ever-varying life-rate, we should be able to show an enormous preponderance of good in the post-notification periods. But these "goods" are not easily reduced to figures. Fortunately, however, the appreciation of them is not governed by figures; and that is why an active and intelligent people like ours, seeing, in individual instances, the ever-increasing benefits conferred by hospital isolation, are growing to have less and less hesitation in confiding their children for the time to the organised care of the Municipality.

NO. 34. — ORDER BY THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD FOR SCOTLAND AUTHORISING A COMBINATION OF CERTAIN LOCAL AUTHORITIES FOR ENFORCING THE PROVISIONS OF PART IV. OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH (SCOTLAND) ACT, 1897.

Whereas, We, the Local Government Board for Scotland, by an Order bearing date the 1st day of January, 1898, did make certain Regulations under Part IV. of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, for the purpose of preventing the spread of certain epidemic, endemic, or infectious diseases;

And, whereas, We are empowered by Section 83 of the aforesaid Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, by Order to authorise or require any two or more Local Authorities to act together for the purposes of Part IV. of the aforesaid Act, and to prescribe the mode of such joint action, and of defraying the costs thereof;

And, whereas it is fitting that certain Local Authorities shall carry out and enforce the aforesaid Regulations within their respective jurisdictions in and over the waters of that arm of the sea commonly called the Cromarty Firth, as hereinafter specified, namely:—

- (1) The District Committee of Easter Ross, in the county of Ross and Cromarty, and as such the Local Authority of said district under the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897 ;
- (2) The District Committee of the Black Isle in the said county, and as such the Local Authority of said district under the said Act ;
- (3) The District Committee of Mid Ross, in the said county, and as such the Local Authority of said district under the said Act ;
- (4) The Magistrates and Town Council of the burgh of Dingwall, and as such the Local Authority thereof under the said Act ;

- (6) The Magistrates and Town Council of the burgh of Cromarty, and as such the Local Authority thereof under the said Act.

Now, therefore, We, the Local Government Board for Scotland, considering that the limits of the respective jurisdictions of the aforesaid Local Authorities are uncertain, and that it would tend both to efficiency and to economy if the aforesaid Local Authorities were combined for the purpose of the Regulations issued by Us under Part IV. of the aforesaid Act, do hereby authorise the aforesaid Local Authorities to act together for the purposes of Part IV., and further prescribe the following mode of such joint action and of defraying the costs thereof :—

1. Each of said Local Authorities shall appoint Robert Crerar, M.B., C.M., Cromarty (hereinafter termed the Medical Officer of Health), as their Medical Officer of Health, to act in the execution of Our Regulations of 1st January, 1898, aforesaid.
2. The said Robert Crerar shall be remunerated for his services hereunder as follows :—He shall receive a fee of half-a-guinea for each visit he is called on to make to a vessel in Cromarty Roads under head 7 hereof ; and he shall receive a fee of two guineas for each of the first ten visits and of one guinea for each subsequent visit which he may make in any one year, commencing with 15th May, to any ship moored or anchored at the quarantine ground fixed under Article 6 of the aforesaid Regulations of 1st January 1898.
3. Each of said Local Authorities shall, under Article 6 of the said Regulations of 1st January, 1898, fix the place in Cromarty Bay between the points marked A and B on the copy of the Ordnance Survey, signed as relative hereto as the place where any ship may be moored or anchored for the purposes of Article 10 of the said Regulations of 1st January, 1898.
4. Provision for the reception of cholera patients and persons suffering from illness removed under Articles 13 and 14 of the said Regulations of 1st January, 1898, shall, in compliance with the provisions of Article 6 of said Regulations, be made by acquiring and keeping in readiness a movable hospital in such form as the Medical Officer of the county of Ross and Cromarty shall determine to be erected, if and when required, at or as near as may be to the place of quarantine specified in head 3 hereof.
5. The execution of the Orders and Regulations issued by Us under Part IV. of the Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, shall be committed to the Local Authority of the burgh of Cromarty, but the Local Authority of the District of the Black Isle shall give all necessary concurrence and assistance with reference to the site for and erection, if and when requested, of said temporary hospital to be provided under head 4 hereof.
6. The Town Clerk of the burgh of Cromarty shall arrange with the Chief Officer of the Coast Guard at Cromarty, as in room of the Officer of Customs, to perform all the duties devolving upon the said Officer of Customs under Articles 2 to 5 of the said Regulations of 1st January, 1898.
7. All replies to questions and notices received by the Town Clerk of Cromarty shall be by him, as soon as may be thereafter, delivered to the Medical Officer of Health personally, who shall at once make the necessary visit to and examination of the ship in question, and shall thereafter proceed as directed by the said Regulations of 1st January, 1898.

8. The Medical Officer of Health shall at once cause to be delivered a copy of any certificate given by him under Article 9 of the said Regulations of 1st January, 1898, to the Town Clerk of Cromarty, who shall immediately communicate the fact that such certificate has been given, to the County Medical Officer by telegraph.

9. All expenses incurred in the execution of any Regulations issued by Us under Part IV. of the aforesaid Public Health (Scotland) Act, 1897, shall be borne by said Local Authorities in the proportions following, viz. :—

No. 35.—EXPLANATORY STATEMENT BY DR. RUSSELL, LATE SENIOR MEDICAL OFFICER OF HEALTH OF GLASGOW, AS TO PROCEDURE UNDER SECTION XII. OF THE GLASGOW AMENDMENT ACT, 1890, IN CONNECTION WITH SCHOOL CHILDREN AND INFECTIOUS DISEASE.

CITY OF GLASGOW.

GLASGOW AMENDMENT ACT, 1890. SECTION XII.

“Every parent or person having care or charge of a child who is or has been suffering from infectious disease, or who resides in a house where such disease exists or has existed within a period of three months, who shall knowingly or negligently permit such child to attend school without procuring and producing to the teacher or person in charge of such school a certificate from the Medical Officer, which he shall grant free of charge, or from some legally qualified medical practitioner, that such child has become free from disease and infection, and that the house and everything therein exposed to infection has been disinfected to the satisfaction of the Medical Officer or some legally qualified medical practitioner, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings.”

PROCEDURE.

To obviate any tendency to regard the term “infectious disease” as limited for any purpose excepting that of the Notification Act, the Sanitary Department of the City of Glasgow specially point out in a pamphlet, entitled “The Law about Infectious Diseases,” a copy of which is left at every house where infectious disease exists, that excepting in that Act the phrase includes all infectious diseases. In my opinion this is specially necessary, as the enforcement of the school clauses is really the only practical means of resisting the extension of measles. It will be observed that in this pamphlet the school clauses of our local Act, from which the clauses in the Public Health Act, 1897, are taken, are given in extenso, so that these powers have been thoroughly made known to the people and kept under their knowledge.

Each epidemic inspector is provided with a book of forms, each leaf of which consists of three parts—(1) a notification of infectious disease to head teacher embodying the terms of the Act ; (2) a notice of disinfection to head teacher—"clearance line ;" (3) a counterfoil, which remains. In the course of his rounds, as a matter of routine, in every case a note is made of children attending school who are themselves ill or who belong to the same family as the person who is ill. Each evening he goes over his notebook and fills up (1) as to the existence of infectious disease, which is delivered to the teacher, so that the element of knowledge in the event of contravention is provided for. If the case is removed to hospital, and other children are attending school, fourteen days are allowed to elapse before (2) the "clearance line" is issued. If the case is treated at home, then the "clearance line" is not issued until recovery and the final disinfection, which is almost invariably carried out by us. These "clearance lines" are delivered to the parents, and every day a list of the names and addresses of the children on whose behalf they have been issued is sent to the School Board, so that the Attendance Officers may be aware that the excuse for absence arising from infectious disease no longer exists. The official "clearance line" is not issued unless disinfection is carried out by the Local Authority, and as to the patient, unless a recognised period from the inception of the case has elapsed. In the case of measles this is three weeks, and of scarlet fever six weeks at least. Clearance certificates from private practitioners are very seldom used, and when such a line is presented teachers frequently send it on to me to ascertain if it is legitimate. If from the information obtained by the epidemic inspectors I know that the "clearance line" has been granted with undue precipitancy, as shewn by the duration of illness, or, as frequently happens in the case of scarlet fever, from continuance of desquamation, I communicate privately with the medical attendant, stating that I cannot accept his certificate, and the reason.

VACCINATION.

No. 36.—REPORT BY SUPERINTENDENT OF CENTRAL VACCINE INSTITUTION FOR SCOTLAND FOR YEAR ENDING 31st JULY 1896.

Central Vaccine Institution for Scotland,
4 Royal Circus,
Edinburgh, 1st August 1896.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit to you my report for the year ended 31st July 1896.

I find that I have distributed 2591 tubes during the year in reply to 373 applications. Of these, 321 were from Vaccinators of Parishes, Medical Officers of Health, and Sanitary Inspectors, and 52 from Practitioners not official Vaccinators.

The number of applications last year was 423, so that there have been 50 fewer this year.

As usual, I have received no reports of injurious consequences following on vaccination, and very few of failure ; but, on the contrary, frequent letters expressing satisfaction with the results obtained. I have received 6 applications for calf lymph, which I have replied to by sending supplies obtained from the National Vaccine Establishment and other reliable sources.

Notwithstanding the decrease in the quantity of tubes distributed—2591, as against 2830 last year—and in the number of applications, it is evident that the Jennerian method of vaccination and the tube method of preserving lymph, with which the Institution has from the first been identified, are far from having been superseded. At the same time, we may expect that if the Institution were provided with calf lymph for distribution there would be a demand for it ; and it is satisfactory to know that the English Local Government Board have intimated their intention, when the necessary arrangements are completed, of furnishing us with a limited supply for distribution in Scotland.—I have, &c.,

WILLIAM HUSBAND, M.D.

SUPPLEMENTAL

NO. 37.—CIRCULAR ISSUED BY THE SECRETARY FOR SCOTLAND AS TO AGRICULTURAL RATES, &c. (SCOTLAND) ACT, 1896, AND LOCAL TAXATION ACCOUNT (SCOTLAND) ACT, 1898.

Scottish Office, Whitehall, S.W.,

14th September 1898.

SIR,—A number of enquiries having been addressed by Parish Councils to this Office and to the Local Government Board with respect to the mode in which provision should be made for the deficiency arising on their accounts for 1897-98 in consequence of the grant for that year under the Agricultural Rates, &c. (Scotland) Act, 1896, having fallen short of their expectations, I am directed by the Secretary for Scotland to acquaint you, for the information and guidance of your Parish Council:—

(a) That a deficit occasioned through last year's grant having been over-estimated should be treated as any ordinary deficit, that is, made up equally by owners and occupiers;

(b) That the amount to be received from the Agricultural Rates Grant should be deducted from the total assessment payable by occupiers before fixing the occupiers' rate.

In parishes where a certified classification is not in force, the parochial rates for the current year should be ascertained in the following manner:—

1. The Parish Council will first ascertain the nett annual value by allowing the deductions specified in the 37th section of the Poor Law Act.

2. Let it be assumed that in a parish the nett annual value thus obtained is £20,000

Of which the nett annual value of agricultural subjects (marked A in the Valuation Roll) amounts to £8,000 and of other subjects to £12,000 £20,000

The Assessable Rental of the Parish will then be—

(a) For owner's rate, £20,000

(b) For occupier's rate (£12,000 plus  $\frac{3}{4}$ ths of £8000) £15,000

3. Let it next be assumed that the estimated expenditure for poor law purposes in 1898-99 is £1,900 and that the deficiency in the Poores Funds for 1897-98, including any deficiency arising in consequence of the Agricultural Rates Grant for that year having been over-estimated, is (say) £100

the total sum required for 1898-99 will thus be £2,000

From this total will fall to be deducted—

(a) Estimated receipts from grants in 1898-99 (other than the Agricultural Rates Grant) viz.:—

Pauper Lunacy Grant, £250

Medical Relief Grant, £50

Relief of Rates, £100

£400

(b) Estimated receipts of a miscellaneous nature expected to be received in aid of assessments in 1898-99, e.g., Mortifications, Contributions by relatives, &c. (say) £100

Total estimated receipts (other than Agricultural Rates Grant) £500

leaving nett sum raiseable by Poor Rate in 1898-99 £1,500

4. Of the net sum thus arrived at, one-half (viz., £750) will be raiseable from owners by a uniform rate of 9d. per £ on the Owners' Assessable Rental of £20,000; while the other half, under deduction of the amount of the Agricultural Rates Grant, will be raised from Occupiers by a uniform rate on the Occupiers' Assessable Rental of £15,000. If the amount of the Agricultural Rates Grant in respect of the poor rate, as notified by Scottish Office circular of 12th May last, is £125, the sum actually raiseable from occupiers will be £625, and this will require a uniform rate on the rental of £15,000 of 10d. per £.

In parishes where a certified classification is in force, the only change brought about by the Agricultural Rates Act is a reduction of the occupiers' share of the assessment by the amount of the grant. An estimate of the nett sum to be raised by poor rate in 1898-99 should be framed as in the example of an unclassified parish given above. Let it be again assumed that the sum is £1500. £750 will fall to be raised from owners; and £750, less the Agricultural Rates Grant, will fall to be levied on occupiers in accordance with the classification at present existing in the parish.

I am, in conclusion, to refer to the provisions of the recently-passed Local Taxation Account (Scotland) Act, 1898, in regard to which a number of queries have also been addressed to this Office. That Act increases, by a sum of £20,000, the amount annually distributable under Section 4 (3) of the Agricultural Rates, &c. (Scotland) Act, 1896, but only during the last three years of the continuance of the latter Act, i.e., during the years 1899-1902. In other words, the rates for the current year must, as above shown, be fixed on the assumption that the Agricultural Rates Grant will be of the same amount as was paid to the parish in 1897-98; but in 1899-1900, 1900-1, and 1901-2, the amount payable will be increased. It may be stated that, according to present estimates, the increase will be at the rate of about 2s. 6d. for every £1 paid to the Parish Council in 1897-98.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

COLIN SCOTT MONCRIEFF.

§ In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* Includes £2,057 received from sale of Feu-duties.

*In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

[1] Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

in Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County, by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

§ In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental and the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

§ In Parishes (marked §) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County, by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

§ In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental with the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

† This sum was received by the Parish Council too late to be included in the Accounts of the year to which it relates.

§ In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental with the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

*In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Occupancy.

*In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupier's Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental within the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by adding the result of (1) to the result of (2).

$In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates

$1n Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Owners and Occupiers.

§ In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the gross rental in respect of Occupancy.

*In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

§In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £. of a assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the gross rental in respect of Occupancy.

* In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County, by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

§1n Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental which the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners' Rate. This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.

§ In Parishes (marked C) having a Classification of Occupants the rate is ascertained by adding the Owners' Rate to the Occupiers' Average Rate. Such Occupiers' Average Rate has been obtained by ascertaining the rate per £ of Assessable Rental with the Agricultural Rates Grant received by the Parish Council represents, and deducting that rate from the Owners Rate.

* This is an average rate ascertained by the addition of the average rates upon Owners and Occupiers, calculated in the following manner:—(1) By dividing half of the sum of the rates collected, and the Agricultural Rates Grant for all the Parishes in the County, by the gross rental in respect of Ownership; and (2) by dividing the remaining half, less Agricultural Rates Grant, by the Occupiers' Assessable Rental.
